ASSAILS MACKAY'S CLAIMS FOR PAY FOR POSTAL LINES

TELEGRAPH HEAD REPLIES

TELEGRAPH LINES COMBINED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Postmaster General Burleson formally announced today that he had taken over for the Government the marine cable systems, and that until further notice they would be operated without change. He also issued a statement in regard to the compensation allowed to the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company for its land lines as follows:

"Inability to come to an agreement with the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company was due to the fact that figures furnished to the department by that company were greatly at variance with those furnished under oath to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the component companies, who, I am informed, own the plant and equipment used in the operation of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company's land lines.

Discrepancies as to Earnings.

"The Postal Telegraph-Cable Company is composed of a number of component companies, each of which makes returns under oath to the Interstate Commerce Commission on the regular prescribed form. The records show that for the calendar year ended Dec. 31, 1916, the total investment in plant and equipment, as reported for the thirty-nine companies covered by the award, amounted to $6,647,472. The gross revenues of these companies, as reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission, were, for that year, $12,096,586; and the net income, after deducting the operating expenses and taxes, was reported to be $332,343; while on the sworn questionnaire furnished to the department, the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company stated their net operating income for the land lines for this same year (1916) to have been $4,157,670.44. In their report to the Interstate Commerce Commission for 1916 the component companies charged $2,197,900 for depreciation. In the information furnished to the department, the charge for depreciation during that period was placed at $427,863.

"In the report of these component companies to the Interstate Commerce Commission for 1917, the gross revenues are reported to be $12,855,420, and the net income to be $117,204. In the questionnaire furnished to the department by the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company the net income for 1917 of the land lines is stated to be $4,485,593.34. The depreciation charge made in the report to the Interstate Commerce Commission for 1917 was $2,350,200, while in the information furnished to the department for the same period the depreciation charge was placed at $448,975.

Tentative Compensation Fixed.

"The company stated that they were unable to furnish the department with any approximate valuation of their property, as they were without knowledge as to the amount invested in the plant. The figures furnished by the company to the Post Office Department showing net operating income and depreciation charges were so at variance with those reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission that this, coupled with their inability to furnish any information as to the value of their property, made it impossible for the Postmaster General to accept their proposal and very difficult to fix the compensation. The department, therefore, proceeded to determine as nearly as possible from the best information available the value of the properties and to fix a just compensation. In doing so the same general principles were followed with respect to the valuation of the properties as were employed in fixing the contract for the Western Union Telegraph Company.

"The statement contained in Mr. Mackay's letter dated Nov. 11, 1918, and which has been made public by him, to the effect that the compensation to the Western Union Company is more than that company's earnings for 1917, is not based on facts. The compensation allowed the Western Union Company by the department is approximately $2,100,000 less than its income for that year from the land lines.

"The Postal Telegraph-Cable Company is the only wire company with which the Post Office Department has had any difficulty in coming to an agreement as to compensation. It will be seen, however, that when the land lines operating companies reported their net operating revenues for the year 1916 to be $332,343 and for the year 1917 to be $117,204, the department could not yield to their demands that they be paid $3,800,000 and interest as a just compensation, and therefore awarded what it believed to be just compensation in view of all the facts before it, and requested the company to bring a suit in the Court of Claims to establish what compensation it was entitled to, and stated that we

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 20.—According to Berlin advices, enormous stores of foodstuffs were found in the castle of the former German Emperor in Berlin.

A member of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council is authority for the statement that a great variety of foodstuffs was discovered there, the value of which normally would be several hundred thousand marks.

KIEV CAPTURED, DICTATOR FLEES

PART OF ALEXIEFF'S ARMY

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 20.—The Ukrainian Government has been overturned and Kiev has been captured by troops from Astrakhan, according to Kiev dispatches to Swedish newspapers.

The Ukrainian National Assembly has fled and a Provisional Government has been established by the captors of the city, who are apparently commanded by General Denikine, leader of anti-Bolshevist forces.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Overthrow of the Bolshevist régime in the Ukraine and the capture of Kiev by Cossack troops friendly to the All-Russian Government, as reported today from Copenhagen, opens the way, in the opinion of officials here, for important developments in Russia.

It has been believed for some time that General Alexieff, the former Russian Commander in Chief, had a large force of Cossacks operating in Astrakhan, and the news from the Ukraine seems to confirm this, as General Denikine is a member of Alexieff's army. Denikine is known to be an able officer, who has the confidence of his men and of Government officials in the allied countries.

While no change in policy, either political or military, has been made by the United States, it is realized that the holdings of the Ukraine by forces friendly to the associated Governments and decidedly hostile to the Bolsheviki opens a path directly into the heart of Russia either for the dispatch of troops or of supplies for the relief of the demoralized civilian population.

Recent reports from London have been taken by some observers to indicate that Great Britain may propose the sending of additional troops into Russia to place the country on a stable footing and eliminate the Bolsheviki. It was said today, however, that no definite word as to this has been received here.

Possibilities that the Bolshevist leaders may flee Russia after accumulating large amounts of loot have been touched upon in recent dispatches, but have been discounted here largely because no haven for them appears available. Switzerland has forcibly ejected their representatives, Holland has declared they are not wanted there, and even Germany now is not expected to tolerate them within its borders.

The Bolshevist fighting strength is considered as now practically concentrated against the allied and Russian troops operating south from Archangel. Despite the resistance they are offering in the north, it is believed in some quarters here that the strength of the Bolsheviki is waning. With the Cossacks holding the Ukraine, with the military and political forces of the Omsk Government working west, and with the American and allied forces pushing south, some officials consider that the position of the disturbers of Russian peace has become serious. However, no immediate collapse of the Bolshevist régime is believed imminent.

The Ukraine became a republic during the disorders in Russia after the overthrow of the Kerensky Government in November, 1917. There was much fighting there between the Bolsheviki and their opponents, resulting in the defeat of the Bolsheviki. The Ukrainian Government made peace with Germany at Brest-Litovsk a few days before the Russian Bolshevist Government also agreed to the German terms. Austro-German troops then entered the Ukraine for the purpose of carrying out economic articles of the peace treaty.

The Ukrainian Government was overthrown last May and General Skoropadski, with Germany's aid, became dictator under the title of Hetman, but he has had difficulty in maintaining order there, although assisted by Austro-German troops. A few months ago he visited the Kaiser in Berlin and was received with much ceremony.

General Denikine was formerly commander of the Russian armies on the southwestern front. Previous to that he had been Chief of Staff of the Russian armies.

HOT FIGHTING IN GALICIA.

Poles and Ukrainians in Continuous Battle for Supremacy.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Since the capture of Lemberg, the capital of Galicia, by the Ukrainians on Nov. 1, fighting has continued there between the Ukrainians and the Poles without cessation, according to Austrian newspapers quoted in a Vienna dispatch, dated Monday, to The Daily Mail.

Lemberg was taken by surprise. Polish legions attempted to recapture the city. Both sides are using artillery and German officers are helping the Ukrainians. All traffic to and from Lemberg has been stopped and the residents are unable to leave their homes. The rattle of machine guns has been continuous and there was fierce fighting for the possession of the Town Hall, the Post Office, the Diet Building, and the Governor's palace, parts of the buildings being destroyed.

"The occupation by the allied powers of Alsace-Lorraine will not prejudice a solution of the question according to the principles of international right and peoples' self-determination."

BERLIN, Nov. 16, (via London, Nov. 20.)—Count zu Reventlow, in the Deutsche Tageszeitung, declares editorially:

"There is no doubt that the old system has definitely disappeared."

He asks his readers unreservedly to support the new German republic.

Both the Deutsche Tageszeitung and the Vossische Zeitung, formerly organs of Junkerism, have turned republican. The former has removed from its title its old motto, "Für Kaiser und Reich," meaning "For Kaiser and Empire," which now reads, "For the German people, German methods, and German works in town and country."

Though the Lokal-Anzeiger was able to make its appearance again this morning, Liebknecht and Rosa Luxembourg obtained an order from the Executive Committee of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council compelling the Lokal-Anzeiger Company to print and distribute "Die Roth Fahne," (The Red Flag,) the organ of the Spartacus group.

When the Lokal-Anzeiger's 1,500 employes heard this they held a meeting and declared that they would immediately strike if the order were insisted upon. Liebknecht and Rosa Luxembourg were then expelled from the building, but they threatened to return and enforce the order.

The order mentioned no compensation to be paid if the Lokal-Anzeiger undertook the printing of "Die Roth Fahne." Rosa Luxembourg, in an interview with the Lokal-Anzeiger's manager, made it quite clear that the Spartacus group had no intention of paying for the work demanded.

This morning the Lokal-Anzeiger stated that it would not print "Die Roth Fahne" under any circumstances, and argued that the order of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council was a gross violation of the rights of the people, calculated to stimulate a sense of lawlessness. The newspaper will invoke a decision by the Government.

1,580,000 Germans Killed in War, 4,000,000 Wounded

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 20.—Up to Oct. 31 1,580,000 German soldiers were killed and the fate of 260,000 was not known, the Vorwärts of Berlin says that it learns on reliable authority.

Four million soldiers had been wounded, some several times.

The newspaper adds that there were 490,000 German prisoners in hostile countries.

WARSHIPS TO ESCORT HIM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Opposition appeared to be developing in Congress today, particularly among Republican members, to President Wilson's plans to go to Europe for the coming peace conference.

While Republican leaders were not inclined at this time to openly voice their displeasure over the reported plans of the President, it was clearly apparent from informal talks with Senators and Representatives on the Republican side that they were not at all pleased with Mr. Wilson's projected absence during an indefinite period of time and it would not be surprising if this feeling were soon to take shape in debate in both branches of Congress.

From all that they have been able to ascertain regarding his plans, Republican leaders feel that the President, who contemplates leaving this country immediately after he delivers his forthcoming annual address to Congress, will be absent until after the first of the year, perhaps for several months, and they doubt the wisdom of the Chief Executive of the nation going abroad for an extended stay.

Republicans are inclined to look upon the projected visit as one that will involve a long-range discharge of the President's duties during one of the most important periods in the history of the nation. From what could be gathered as to the views of Republican leaders today, it appears to be their feeling that the most important thing before the country, aside from the work of the peace conference, is reconstruction legislation and they do not look with favor upon the idea of the President being absent during the next few months.

Nothing more definite is obtainable regarding the personnel of the Peace Commission. There is some reason to believe that the President has not indicated, even to his closest advisers, the names of those selected, except that Secretary Lansing has been chosen and will be Chairman of the American delegation. It seemed today less certain that Secretary Baker would be a member of the commission, although he is sure to be present at the conference in an advisory capacity.

The understanding that prevailed in official circles that Colonel House would not be appointed one of the American peace delegates is undergoing some modification, for suggestions emanating from high quarters indicate that the President may regard it as more feasible to accredit Colonel House to the peace conference than to retain him at the place of meeting in an unofficial capacity as the President's personal representative.

From the temper displayed in Republican circles it is evident that the appointment of Governor Samuel W. McCall of Massachusetts as one of the members of the delegation would not be satisfactory to the leaders of his party. Governor McCall criticised members of his party who attacked President Wilson's appeal for the election of a Democratic Congress, and this places him, in the opinion of many Republicans here, outside the list of those to be considered by the President in determining the selection of them as a recognition of the party. Either former President Taft, Elihu Root, or Charles E. Hughes would be acceptable.

The idea prevailing among Republican

VOTING POWER A PROBLEM

CZECHS AND SLAVS TO COME

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The practical details of the peace congress, such as the countries to be represented, the size of the delegations, and the voting strength of the countries, are now the subject of much discussion in diplomatic quarters.

It is the general belief that the countries to be represented will include all which declared war against the Central Powers, and those States which were formed as a result of the war, the Czechoslavic and Jugoslavic.

Besides Japan the Eastern countries will include Siam and China. The presence of China probably will have a bearing on the future of Kiao-Chau, which has undergone a change since China declared war on Germany, thus canceling the lease whereby Germany held Kiao-Chau before Japan occupied the port at the outset of the war.

The size of the delegations will doubtless be left to the various countries, but voting strength will not be dependent upon the size of the delegation. However, the same voting strength for all countries is thought open to objection, as giving Haiti, Montenegro and countries of that size the same strength as Great Britain, France, the United States, and the other great powers.

These are among the practical details likely to be adjusted before the sessions are opened. After the adjustment among the Allies it is probable that the representatives of the Central Powers will be called in for the arrangement of preliminaries.

It is expected that all the Central Powers will be represented, for while armistices were separately signed with Germany, Austria, Bulgaria, and Turkey, it is not expected that separate congresses will be necessary.

It is believed that the final conclusions will be embodied in two treaties, the first one to be concluded early, covering the essentials, and the second covering the larger general questions after a more thorough discussion.

Taking United States Senator Borah's declarations on publicity in connection with the discussions at the peace conference as a text, the Temps says editorially:

"Publicity will have great advantages if it averts the irritating problems containing the germs of future wars that secret treaties have implanted at certain points in Europe. It would be dangerous if it permitted Germany the means of organizing obstruction, for, as things are going at Berlin, we shall find arriving as German representatives the same tricky, shameless agents who collaborated in the preparation of the war and who drew up the Brest-Litovsk and Bucharest treaties. If the negotiations are secret, they will strive to imitate Talleyrand; if they are public, they will draw inspiration from Trotzky."

Versailles Is Preparing.

The City of Versailles is preparing to receive the delegates to the conference. The deliberations are expected to be held in the Grand Trianon, part of the Château of Versailles, once occupied by Marie Antoinette.

The priceless tapestries and furniture, removed to a place of safety during the course of hostilities, are now being replaced. The gardens are being restored, and the camouflage covering on the statues and fountains removed. The waters of the Grand Canal, which also had been camouflaged in order to avert airplane raids, are being restored to their natural condition.

"The Hall of Mirrors," where William I. proclaimed the German Empire and where the peace treaty doubtless will be signed, is one of the first

Germany Must Stop Cruelty to Prisoners Or Get No Food, British Government Warns

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The German Government was notified by wireless today that in any question of provisioning Germany the British Government would be obliged to take into account the conditions under which British prisoners in Germany were being released, unless the cruel treatment which such prisoners were receiving was discontinued.

The message was as follows:

"Information reaches his Majesty's Government of a shocking lack of organization in the release of British prisoners in German territory, and of their return march on foot, miserably clothed, without food or transport, and with no escort or guides to the allied lines, with the result of lamentable suffering and heavy mortality.

"His Majesty's Government cannot tolerate continuation of this cruel treatment and must insist on adequate arrangement being made, in all the above respects, by the German authorities with whom the responsibility lies. Otherwise we shall be compelled to take this into account in any question of revictualing Germany or satisfying the requirements of the German population.

"His Majesty's Government are ready to lend all available assistance by forwarding food, clothing, and transport to prisoners' camps where they are not otherwise forthcoming, and are addressing allied commanders in this sense.

"Please acknowledge receipt."

Since Sunday military or civil prisoners have constantly been brought to Paris by eastern railway trains. Nine hundred arrived on Sunday, 1,100 on Monday, 300 on Tuesday morning, and many more today. Ten thousand are reported to be on the way. Among the military prisoners are French, English, Belgians, Americans, and Italians. The civil prisoners are French or Belgian. They hail from all parts—some from the invaded departments, others from Alsace-Lorraine, Belgium, Württemberg, and even Germany.

Some of these men say they only obtained their liberty after going through minute formalities. Others availed themselves of the slackened vigilance of their guards to escape from the camps in which they were interned or the places where they were working. Yet others were requested to go by their guards when the latter learned that the armistice was signed. They were dismissed with the words: "Now you are free; you can go as you like and when you like."

Many of these men are in extremely poor physical shape and in a state of extreme mental depression, one being able to see at a glance that they have suffered terribly from hunger.

GERMANS GIVE UP 20 SUBMARINES

ALL TAKEN TO HARWICH

Five Cruisers and 20 Destroyers Sent Out to Meet Germans—British Wary of Treachery.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Twenty German submarines were surrendered to Rear Admiral Reginald W. Tyrwhitt thirty miles off Harwich this morning at sunrise, according to a Press Association dispatch. These are the first U-boats to be turned over to the Allies by Germany. Admiral Tyrwhitt received the surrender of the German craft on board his flagship, the Curaçao.

The submarines proceeded to Harwich in charge of their own crews. They were then boarded by British crews and interpreters and proceeded to Parkeston Quay, near by.

Twenty additional submarines will be surrendered on Thursday and twenty more on Friday. The remainder of the U-boats to be handed over in accordance with the armistice terms will be given up later.

After steaming some twenty miles across the North Sea this morning the Harwich forces, which consisted of five light cruisers and twenty destroyers, were sighted. High above the squadron hung a big observation balloon.

The squadron, headed by the flagship, then steamed toward the Dutch coast, followed by the Coventry, Dragon, Danale, and Centaur. Other ships followed in line, with their navigation lights showing. The picture was a fine one as the great vessels, with the moon still shining, plowed their way to take part in the surrender of the German U-boats.

Precaution Against Mines.

Soon after the British squadron started the "paravanes" were dropped overboard. These devices are shaped like tops and divert any mines which may be encountered, for the vessels were now entering a mine field. Almost every one on board donned a life belt and just as the sun shone above the horizon the first German submarine appeared in sight.

Soon after 7 o'clock twenty submarines were seen in line accompanied by two German destroyers, the Tibania and the Sierra Ventana, which were to take the submarine crews back to Germany after the transfer.

All the submarines were on the surface, with their hatches open and their crews standing on deck. The vessels were flying no flags whatever and their guns were trained fore and aft, in accordance with the terms of surrender.

A bugle sounded on the Curaçao and all the gun crews took up their stations ready for any possible treachery. The leading destroyer, in response to a signal from the Admiral, turned and led the way toward England and the submarines were ordered to follow. They immediately did so. The surrender had been accomplished.

Each cruiser turned, and, keeping a careful lookout, steamed toward Har-

ANTWERP, Nov. 19.—To the pealing of bells in the great cathedral and the cheers of massed crowds, the King of the Belgians made a State entry into the City of Antwerp today by the bridge across the Scheldt, known as the Tête de Flandres, and with the Queen drove around the streets to the Hotel de Ville in an open carraige.

Rain was falling and Antwerp was filled with a white mist, but this did not damp the spirits of the people, and some of those I saw put up colored umbrellas on which were the flags of all the Allies.

It is a noble old city, with broad streets and squares and big public buildings, and these were all draped with long banners, and across the highways were streamers and flags. In a village outside through which the King passed the people had placed Christmas trees adorned with little flags and Chinese lanterns, as if for the coming of Father Christmas with the spirit of peace.

Imprisoned for Jostling Officer.

Physically the people of Antwerp have not suffered in this war, but their joy at liberation, the enthusiasm with which they greeted King Albert, the stories they told me as I talked with individuals here and there, are proof enough that they suffered in a mental way severely enough to make them feel that a horror had been lifted from them by the retreat of the Germans.

The first man I met had been in prison three months for jostling a German officer while he was disputing with a friend over a point of grammar, and then he was suspended by the arms to a wall for fourteen days because he received a packet of chocolate and would not sell it to the Prison Governor who coveted it, saying:

"I do not make commerce with Germans."

Thousands of people went to prison for trivial offenses like this or for their refusal to pay fines. A lady I met, whose husband is a prisoner in Germany, was stripped at a railway station outside Antwerp and searched for any suspicious document she might be carrying. Many individuals suffered indignities which they remembered

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Nov. 20.—The Third Army resumed its advance toward the Rhine this morning, crossing into Luxemburg and Lorraine. Arlon was reached early in the day. Both Lorraine and Luxemburg are bedecked with American flags.

Civilians and released prisoners entering our lines early today said that Luxemburg was decorated with American, French, and British flags besides its own colors, awaiting the entrance of the American troops. This came as interesting news to the Americans, who had been speculating as to their reception. The duchy, which technically is neutral, has been during the war accused of being pro-German.

A man who came through a number of towns told me that a big reception was planned for the victorious Americans. This promised to settle another of the problems of the American Third Army.

But more than this, persons who came yesterday from towns along the Rhine south of Coblenz told me that the Americans would be received in a friendly spirit by the German population, adding, "especially if they bring food." There will be no German soldiers in contact with the Americans of the army of occupation, a ten-kilometer zone separating them; and if it is true that the German civilians are in good humor about the coming of the doughboys, why then the weather seems much less cold.

Released prisoners continue to pour through our lines by thousands. One is struck by the enormous numbers of Russians. Yesterday I saw at least 5,000 who were sent into the American lines by the Germans. They are being systematically turned back under orders which allow only prisoners from the allied armies which have fought on the western front to enter the allied lines at this time.

A large number of Italians are also coming over. They are being taken care of, and Frenchmen arriving are at once turned over to the care of the French military authorities. Of course the doughboys who are released get a welcome of their own.

The Third Army is supplying food by hundreds of tons to civilians in the liberated towns and villages, until the French and Belgian Governments can establish supply systems. The Germans have taken all foodstuffs with them, with very rare exceptions.

Generally speaking, the Germans are making a clean withdrawal. Few trucks are left behind, and little war material except ammunition. One exception was in the railroad yards at Virton, where we found a very large quantity of gasoline.

ENTER ENEMY'S TERRITORY.

Americans Cross Frontier Near Briey and Audun-le-Roman.

AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Nov. 20, (Associated Press.)—The American troops shoved their lines across the German frontier today. The frontier was crossed at points opposite Briey and Audun-le-Roman, and at points between these two places.

On the left American marines occupied the town of Arlon, Belgium, where the day was proclaimed a holiday. Thousands of civilians greeted the Americans, who entered Arlon early in the morning.

To the south the Americans went into Fontoy and Vitry in Lorraine and several villages to the northeast of Vitry.

Swinging northward from Metz the American 1st Division crossed into Luxemburg just before noon today, entering Esch, a mining town of 20,000 inhabitants. The civilians expected the Americans Thursday, but when the vanguard appeared the news spread quickly. The whistles at the mines were

Lichnowsky Appeals to Lord Lansdowne and Others to Show Clemency to Germany

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 20.—The latest German appeal for clemency is addressed by Prince Lichnowsky, former German Ambassador at London, to the British nation and especially to the Marquis of Lansdowne, Viscount Grey, and ex-Premier Asquith, and appears in the Berlin Vorwärts.

It declares that the aims for which Great Britain entered the war—the protection of Belgium and France and the conversion of Germany into a democratic State—have been attained, and adds:

"I cannot believe that lust for revenge and desire to strangle the German people prevail, to the exclusion of the sentiments which before the war dominated the British nation."

blown, bells were rung, children were excused from schools, stores were closed, and this afternoon was proclaimed a holiday.

In the store windows and public buildings along the principal streets there were pictures of President Wilson, drawn by an artist of Esch who had worked night and day to complete by hand as many drawings as possible. Pictures of President Poincaré, Marshal Foch, and King Albert also were prominently displayed.

To the first division fell the honor of crossing the Lorraine line, the advance guard entering Aumetz soon after 9 o'clock. For three days the civilians of Aumetz had been looking for the Americans, expecting them every minute. There had been no school all week, and the children had been drilled in singing and flag-waving to receive the advancing army.

Two hundred pupils, attired in fancy dress, those of the girls being of the colors of France, and the boys carrying the red and yellow colors of Lorraine, a home-made American flag and tricolored bunting of France, met the troops at the archway over the road entering the town from Audun-le-Roman. By the time the marching troops reached Esch the civilians were ready to receive them. The children tossed flowers at the soldiers as they passed through the streets.

The Esch Band, which had been called to assemble in a hurry, led the march of the civilians to the City Hall, where the Mayor and officials received the military officers. After mid-day even the mines closed in order to give the workers, many of whom are women and girls, an opportunity for assembling in the square, where formal ceremonies were held. The advance guard later advanced beyond Esch, but division headquarters was established there for the night.

At Fontoy the streets were decorated and civilians were out in force to receive the Americans. Fontoy is a railroad centre. Here the Americans found twenty-one locomotives in good condition and a yard full of passenger cars, flatcars, and freight cars. The roundhouse also is in such condition that it can be used by the Americans.

In Aumetz a number of stragglers from the German Army were disarmed and made prisoner.

Everywhere the Americans found excellent roads. German tractors were found abandoned along the road at various places, having broken down in the haste of the withdrawal. Nowhere are the Germans intentionally damaging property, so far as is known. The army report of Tuesday said it appeared that everywhere the Germans were observing the terms of the armistice.

Food supplies and ammunition and artillery are moving eastward with the infantry and the American force is prepared for any eventuality. The advance into Germany is regarded by both officers and men, however, as nothing more than an ordinary march.

The latest reports of the movements of the Germans indicate they are retiring in full compliance with the terms of the armistice. It is reported that in some towns on the line of the enemy retreat there are piles of thousands of rifles thrown down by German soldiers who declared they would not fight any more regardless of the provocation.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The official statement today on the advance of the French troops says:

Our troops today, moving on their left beyond Givet, pushed their advance posts on the line of Wancennes, Frometres, and Massoudre. Eight thousand allied prisoners were concentrated at Givet and important war material was found there, including batteries, tanks, and machine guns.

Further east we occupied the towns of Neufchâteau and Etalle, where our entry was greeted with great manifestations of sympathy.

The line reached by the heads of the columns today is marked by Verlain, Longlier, L'Eglise, and Habay la Vieille.

In Lorraine we have pushed forward detachments to St. Avold, Kochern, Forbach, and Sarrebruck, (Saarbrucken.)

In Alsace our troops have reached Obornay, southwest of Strassburg.

On the left bank of the Rhine we have occupied Neuf Brisach and Huningue St. Louis, (Hunningen.) Everywhere there were joyful manifestations evidencing the attachment of the populations to France.

FOUR CAMPS FOR PRISONERS.

Americans Establish Centres Where Men Will Be Cared For.

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 20, (Associated Press.)—American prisoners released by the Germans are making their way singly and in pairs across the line at various points. The German authorities apparently are unable to carry out the withdrawal plans agreed upon owing to the disturbed and disorganized conditions of transportation within that country.

To meet the emergency the American army has established stations at various points along the American sector of occupation where prisoners can be received and cared for as they arrive. Eventually they will be concentrated at four main camps at Chaudeney, Revigny, Chelles, and Saleux.

The returned men give varying accounts of their treatment by the Germans. Some say they were treated very harshly and brutally, while others say their captors were stern but not unduly harsh. Seemingly the treatment depended largely upon the administration of the prison in which the Americans were confined. The physical condition of the returned men also varies.

RETURNED TO TRAINING AREAS

Some American Units Sent Back as Third Army Advances.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN FRANCE, Nov. 19, (Associated Press.)—While the Third American Army is making its way toward the German frontier other units are slowly going back to their old training areas. A greater part of the troops still is in the battle areas, but many detachments have reached the camps established last year, where there are ample contonments and hospitals and where large supplies of fuel are available.

Here the men will be made as comfortable as possible in well-heated huts. These camps are on lines of railway, which simplifies the transport and supply problem. After their hardships in the Argonne the troops will be happy in their new surroundings and will have plenty of food.

General March's announcement regarding the demobilization of some units and the return of convalescent sick and wounded is causing quiet speculation. It is thought probable that men may be returned home who are now making arrangements for Thanksgiving Day and Christmas celebrations.

TWO AVIATORS LIBERATED.

Remington and Dineen Discovered in a Hospital at Longwy.

AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Nov. 20, (Associated Press.)—When the Americans entered Longwy they found in a hospital there two American aviators, Vernon Remington and Arthur C. Dineen, who were captured in October.

Remington was a member of a second pursuit group, and Dineen, whose home is in Huntington, Ind., belonged to the 91st Squadron. The aviators were brought down within the enemy lines in the week of Oct. 22. Their fate was not known and they were reported by their organizations as missing.

HOPED TO SPREAD DISORDER

Berne Hears that the Kaiser and Lenine Had a Scheme to Infect Allied Countries.

By JULIAN GRANDE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERNE, Nov. 20.—The general strike here, which lasted three days, must not be considered as a mere local disturbance, but as of international interest, because it shows the extent of the mischief which the Russian Bolsheviki have already succeeded in doing. It is now known that the Bolshevist agents in Switzerland intended to organize a sanguinary revolution, hoping to extend it to the neighboring countries, Italy and France. The allied Governments' representatives in Switzerland, and also Swiss authorities, got wind of these Bolshevist plans. Russian Bolshevist agents were immediately arrested, and, together with the Bolshevist legation staff, were sent across the frontier.

Nevertheless the Bolshevist organization in German Switzerland, particularly in the cities of Berne, Zurich, and Basle, was certainly very strong, for the leaders succeeded in organising the general strike without consulting many of the workers—that is, many of those most concerned. Numbers of workers, therefore, found themselves called upon to strike without knowing why. The majority of workers in French Switzerland, however, declined to strike, alleging that the general strike was a Bolshevist plot.

The Swiss Government immediately mobilized the First Division, who are French Swiss, and sent them to Berne, Basle, and Zurich to keep order, a task which they fulfilled admirably.

It is admitted by every one, from the President of the Confederation downward, that the strike was due to Bolshevist agitation. This Bolshevist agitation was notoriously fostered by the German General Staff, from whom the present trouble in Switzerland is simply a legacy.

The German General Staff were helped in their criminal efforts, consciously or unconsciously, by a section of the German Swiss press, and it is due to the French Swiss and their instant recognition of the Bolshevist danger that the Bolshevist plot did not cause enormously more trouble and public inconvenience than has been the case, and that its main object, the infection of France and Italy with the Bolshevist poison, has failed.

It must never be forgotten that the leaders who ordered the general strike are mostly not genuine Swiss, but Germans, naturalized as Swiss, and the principal leader is also a German naturalized as Swiss. Moreover, the editors of the two leading Swiss Socialist newspapers belong to the same category.

The principal strike leader is now disowned by the Swiss railway men, who say that he betrayed them by signing the strike manifesto without consulting their wishes.

Conditions on the Continent at present are such that it seems as if for some time 2,000,000 Anglo-American troops will certainly be required to restore order in Russia and generally put the Bolsheviki under control.

It is asserted that Lenine and the ex-Kaiser of Germany had a tacit understanding to co-operate. The latter hoped that the dissemination of Bolshevism in France, Italy, and the neutral countries would save the Hohenzollern throne by weakening Germany's enemies.

Those acquainted with the Kaiser's character think it will be absolutely necessary to intern him and family in St. Helena as the only security for avoidance of further Prussian plotting. In Germany little interest is felt in the ex-Kaiser or the Hohenzollerns, all the German people care for now being that America sends them food.

Many rich Junkers are endeavoring to come to Switzerland.

Yesterday fourteen German airplanes landed in Switzerland, the airmen asserting that they lost their way owing to the fog, but this statement is incredible, and it is known that many of them brought large sums of money with them.

JUGOSLAV VIEW OF FUTURE NATION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Dr. Hinko Hinkovitch, a member of the Jugoslav Committee in London representing that body in the United States, asserted today that all Jugoslavs of the former Austro-Hungarian Empire, were in favor of the creation of a Jugoslav Republic.

Dr. Hinkovitch was one of the signers of the Declaration of Corfu, which proposed the union of the Austro-Hungarian Jugoslavs with the Kingdom of Serbia. He said that at the time of the signing of the Corfu Declaration the Serbian Cabinet was a coalition Ministry, in which all the Serbian parties were represented, but that the present Cabinet of Premier Pashitch was a Government of only one, the "old radical," party, which does not have a majority. Asked for a statement on the Jugoslav situation and the probable solution of that question, Dr. Hinkovitch said:

"The Corfu Declaration of July 20, 1917, which had a moment of celebrity, is now but a historical reminiscence. The document was the result of a conference of the Jugoslav Committee in London and the Serbian Government as the then respective representatives of the Jugoslavs of Austro-Hungary and those of Serbia.

"It emphasized the centuries-old aspirations of all Jugoslavs, (Serbs, Croats and Slovenes,) without regard to political boundaries, to unite their whole race and the entire national territory into one State. A Constituent Assembly had to establish the constitution as 'the beginning and end of all authority.' At the same time the future State was designated as a kingdom under the sway of the Karagorgevich family.

"This was ambiguity unless the contradiction be smoothed. The most essential provision of every constitution is that concerning the form of the government. If really the constitution be reserved to the nation, represented by its Constituent Assembly, an anticipated imposition of a monarchy would obviously be an injury to the principle of self-determination.

"As a member of the Corfu conference, which drew the above declaration, I interpreted always this alleged contradiction explaining that the rights of the Constituent Assembly must be unlimited, the suggestion of a monarchy being only a plan of the conference, which certainly could not be entitled to settle definitely the most important question of every constitution.

"My interpretation was not generally accepted. Especially M. Pashitch, the Serbian Premier, manifested by his policy that, in his opinion, the monarchical form of the future Jugoslav State had already been authoritatively settled and that the union had to be accomplished under the aegis of Serbia.

"The difference between the two views may be shortly defined as the scheme of Greater Serbia and Jugoslavia. According to Mr. Pashitch, the Jugoslavs outside of Serbia ought to enter into this kingdom. Meanwhile the overwhelming majority of our nation most energetically refuses any idea of a Greater Serbia as well as a Greater Croatia. What we desire is to establish a new State which all parts of the nation should enter on absolutely equal terms, reserving to the Constituent Assembly the sovereign decision of the whole constitution, including, of course, the question of a republic or a monarchy.

REDS ON THE DVINA SHELL ALLIED POSTS

Combined Attacks of Gunboats and Infantry Result in Heavy Loss to Foe.

ARCHANGEL, Nov. 14, (Associated Press.)—The Bolshevist forces along the Dvina, their infantry attacks having been repulsed, today were bombarding the Russo-allied positions on the left bank of the river at Tulgas. The allied artillery is replying vigorously.

Since late in September the Bolsheviki have been trying stubbornly, but fruitlessly, to drive the allied forces up the Dvina to north of its junction with the Vaga. The small amount of ice in the river at this time of the year is helping the enemy gunboats. The Bolsheviki apparently possess a large number of river craft on which to mount naval guns brought from Petrograd.

As long as the enemy gunboats are able to move the Americans and British are combating great odds. But the enemy infantry is no match for the Allies, the Bolshevist losses in killed, wounded, and captured being at least five times that of the Allies.

In their attack on Nov. 11 the Bolsheviki advanced to the gun positions of the Canadian artillery. The guns continued to fire at pointblank range and the ground before them soon was heaped with enemy dead. The allied infantry then counterattacked and swept the Bolsheviki back into the forest, where patrols pursued them throughout the night. The enemy losses on that day were exceptionally heavy, while those of the Allies were small.

The Bolshevist bombardment continued on the 13th, but the American and British troops repulsed all infantry attacks and drove the enemy back into the swamps and the forest. Airplanes obtained several direct hits on Bolshevist gunboats in the river.

TURK BRUTALITY RECORDED

3,290 Captured British Reported Dead and 2,222 Missing.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—A "White Paper" on the treatment of British prisoners in Turkey, issued today, says that of 16,583 prisoners taken by the Turks, 3,290 are reported to be dead, while no trace can be found of 2,222 others, and it is believed they have perished.

These latter prisoners were all captured at Kut-el-Amara, so it is certain they passed living into Turkish hands, but no word has been heard from them.

The Kut prisoners were forced to march across the desert to Asia Minor without food or medical attention. As a result, the White Paper says, "parties of men were lying exhausted under any shelter they could find in all stages of dysentery and starvation, some dying, some dead, half clothed and without boots, having sold everything to buy a little milk."

The survivors were forced to work at tunneling on the Bagdad Railway. Where no use could be made of them they were sent to camps in the interior, being forced to march across the Taurus Mountains. An Austrian officer, describing the march, said: "It was a scene from 'Dante's Inferno.'"

Congressmen, which forms one of their main reasons for criticising the President's purpose to attend the peace conference, that Mr. Wilson may be absent from the United States several months, is based on an erroneous understanding, according to Democratic Senators who conferred with the President in regard to his trip.

These Senators, and others who have knowledge of the President's plans, say that the President will be away little more than a month, and certainly not longer than six weeks. The expectation is that he will be in Europe three weeks or less, and the only likelihood of an extension of his stay arises from the expected insistence that he pay ceremonial visits to England and Italy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20, (Associated Press.)—Navy officials today confirmed the report that it is planned to take the President and the peace delegation across the Atlantic on a big passenger liner now in use by the Government as a transport. A dreadnought and a flotilla of destroyers probably will be convoys.

The part the Senate may play in connection with the conference was discussed today by the Foreign Relations Committee. No action was taken and, with the consent of its author, the committee also postponed action on the resolution of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, to indorse the President's principle for a free Polish State.

On the question of connection of the Senate with peace negotiations, some members suggested that it might be advisable for the Senate to be represented on the American peace delegation. Others, however, believed such representation might be embarrassing. The principal consideration, Chairman Hitchcock said, was how the Senate and the committee should be kept informed of progress at the peace table, and how the Senate's views on the principles under discussion should be made clear.

Senator Lodge's resolution was laid aside because, after consultation by Senator Hitchcock with the State Department, it was said that all of the Allies were agreed on the question of a free Poland, and there was no disposition to circumscribe the proposed Polish State, except possibly by permitting Germany to retain a part of East Prussia.

Prince Lvoff, former Premier of the Russian Provisional Government, will be received next week by the committee for a discussion of Russian affairs.

DEPUTIES LAUD WILSON.

French Chamber Cheers When Renoult Mentions President's Name.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The Chamber of Deputies this afternoon at the opening of the sitting paid homage to President Wilson, who was proclaimed as "having well deserved of humanity." The same honor was rendered to the allied nations and their chiefs.

Rene Renoult, President of the Parliamentary Army Committee, made an eloquent speech in recommending the adoption of the motion, which was voted unanimously and amid the greatest applause.

In moving the motion M. Renoult spoke in glowing terms of all the Allies, especially Belgium, Serbia, Great Britain, and Italy. "The day came," he said, "when the flag of heroism threw out such sparks that they lit up the banks of the Atlantic. The grand voice of President Wilson then rose."

All sections of the Chamber cheered. M. Bracke, Socialist, said he and his friends would vote in favor of the motion, although he thought a special part in the homage should be given to President Wilson.

Premier Clemenceau, Foreign Minister Pichon, and most of the members of the Cabinet were present when M. Renoult introduced the motion, which follows:

"The French Chamber declares:

"Article I.—President Wilson and the American nation and the allied nations and the Chiefs of State at their head have well deserved of humanity.

"Article II.—The text of the present law shall be engraved permanently on all city halls and schools of the Republic."

places to be made ready to receive the plenipotentiaries. M. de Nolhac, conservator of the palace, is in charge of the preparations.

The American representatives at the peace conference and their staffs will occupy a building on the Place de la Concorde, which has been the headquarters of the American Red Cross since June. Headquarters for the Red Cross are now at the Hotel Regina.

All the delegates to the conference should be asked to visit the departments of France invaded by the Germans, and see for themselves the devastation committed by the enemy, it is asserted by Raoul Peret, President of the Budget Commission of the Chamber of Deputies, and Deputy Louis Dubois. The Deputies have just returned from an official visit to the liberated regions, and express the belief that France must exact from Germany not only reparation in money, but also the restitution of tools and raw materials carried away.

DUTCH WILL DISARM 150,000 GERMANS

That Number Passing Through Lemberg Expected to Cross the Border.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 20.—A continuous procession of German troops is passing through Limberg, homeward bound, according to the Handelsblad.

At least 150,000 will cross the border near Roosteren, where they will be disarmed by the Dutch.

GERMAN INDUSTRIES ACTIVE

Food and Work Will Prevent Bolshevism, Says Bergmann.

BERLIN, Nov. 17, (via Amsterdam, Nov. 20, Associated Press.)—Most of the large industrial plants in and about Berlin are already working. No unemployment is reported as a result of the cessation of war industries.

Sigismund Bergmann, who is said to have been connected once with Thomas A. Edison and to have been one of the founders of the General Electric Company in the United States, but who is now one of the leading industrialists in Germany, said today:

"On the second day of the revolution we started in to work on peace orders, of which we have enough booked to keep our 60,000 employes busy for two years. This holds good for virtually every plant of any importance in Germany.

"The country has been literally worn threadbare in all lines. Just as we have been turning our garments inside out, we have helped ourselves along with a multitude of substitute devices in other directions.

"We are badly in need of rolling stock, agricultural implements, turbines, and a thousand other things in the line of heavy steel construction. Our houses need new roofs and new paint. We must start in making everything fresh, from the clothespin to the automobile. We are also a ready market for finished products."

Herr Bergmann was not apprehensive of disturbances if the food situation holds out.

"If the 5,000,000 or more men now returning from the front are given three square meals a day and steady work," he said, "there will be no Bolshevism in Germany. The German workingman will not think of mischief so long as he has a comfortable fireside and something to keep him busy.

"The fighting men, too, are well disciplined. I have implicit faith in their ability and willingness to adjust themselves to normal life after four years of war. All that is needed is to keep them healthy and well clothed.

"We are in urgent need of copper, leather, and cotton, but the 'full dinner pail' is the first consideration. Germany has the money to pay for the food and everything else which she will be compelled to buy abroad."

JUNKER DEFENDERS YIELD

against the summoning of a Constituent Assembly, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. The resolution, however, demands the summoning of a general Soldiers' and Workmen's Congress "in order to take a decision as to the future of Germany."

Chancellor Ebert and other Moderates, the advices add, desperately tried to change the opinion of the Council, but the extreme elements appeared to be in the great majority.

In other German towns the extremist agitation is reported to be growing.

The German Socialist program, according to Vorwärts of Berlin, provides for State monopolization of all banks and industries of any importance.

Reports Big Army Marching East.

The situation in the east is causing anxiety in Germany and the Lokal-Anzeiger of Berlin learns that a great German army is marching eastward, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Mathias Erzberger, Secretary of State without portfolio in the German Cabinet and head of the delegates who were sent to Marsaal Foch's headquarters, has agreed, at the request of the Government, to continue the negotiations relative to the armistice in order to prepare for those of peace, according to the Post of Strassburg. He thus, it is said, is practically Secretary of State for Peace.

As a result of negotiations between Denmark and Germany, the latter will receive each month 75,000 tons of fats, 150,000 tons of meat and 230,000 tons of wheat, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Berlingske Tidende.

A Zurich dispatch says that the former King of Saxony, with his family, has gone to reside in the Chateau Sybillenort, Silesia, under the special protection of Silesian soldiers.

The former German Empress, in order to live more simply, has left the Potsdam palace and gone to the villa of her son, Eitel Friedrich.

By WARD PRICE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 13.—For the fourth time in a century British battleships have passed through the Dardanelles and arrived at Constantinople on a mission of war.

It was at 1:30 o'clock this morning that the flagship Superb was sighted in the Sea of Marmora, steaming slowly toward the entrance of the Bosporus. Behind her came the Temeraire, bearing General Sir Henry Wilson, who will command the garrisons of allied troops in the forts of the Dardanelles and the Bosporus. The Lord Nelson and the Agamemnon were next, and then followed, in the imposing procession of the line ahead, cruisers, destroyers, and other craft, making up the British squadron. Behind them came the French squadron in similar formation. Then followed Italian and Greek warships.

At the entrance of the Bosporus the fleet was divided into two parts. The Superb and Temeraire, followed by two French battleships, came on. As the silent line of great gray ships anchored close to the European shore of the straits, within near view of the Sultan's Palace and the Turkish Chamber of Deputies, the two French battleships dropped anchor astern of them, and then followed the battleships of Italy and Greece.

But the rest of the allied fleet is lying round the corner of the Bosporus in the Sea of Marmora, and at noon today the whole fleet will weigh anchor again and go to its prepared base in the Gulf of Ismidt.

General Wilson has just landed on the quay. He was received by Djevad Pasha, Turkish Chief of Staff, and on the quay were drawn up as a guard of honor several hundred British and Indian prisoners of war in their light-colored clothes of blanket cloth. Massed everywhere as near as the Turkish police would let them come, were dense crowds of Constantinople inhabitants. Most of these onlookers were Greeks who had been excited by the arrival of the Greek warships at the Turkish capital.

The Turks themselves watched the arrival of the allied ships with apparently complete indifference. Germans and Austrians who were abroad in Constantinople showed an inquisitiveness about this morning's events which one would have thought their own private feelings would have excluded. There were even Austrian soldiers down at the quay to photograph the ceremony.

METZ TRANSFORMED IN ONE JOYOUS NIGHT

BRUSHED UP THEIR FRENCH

People Dropped Boche Tongue That Prevailed for Years—Brilliant Military Spectacle.

METZ, Nov. 19, (Associated Press.)—The historic event accomplished at 2 o'clock this afternoon when Marshal Pétain, Commander in Chief of the French Armies, made his entry into Metz, the great stronghold of Lorraine and the pivot of Germany's effort to crush France, may be said more than any other happening to consecrate the victory of the Allies in this war.

The occasion, in which the French Commander figured for the first time as a Marshal of France, also gave rise to one of the most picturesque demonstrations ever carried out by the people of Lorraine. From early in the morning all the roads leading to Metz were crowded with Lorrainers on their way to the city to raise their voices there for Marshal Pétain and for France.

People unaccustomed to any other tongue than the German for years began many days ago brushing up their knowledge of French in preparation for this occasion, and although the majority of the population undoubtedly has a perfect acquaintance with no other tongue than the German, little of that language was heard in the streets today.

Other things German had disappeared over night, including the statues of the German rulers, which had been hauled down by the citizens. William I. had toppled over from the horse of his equestrian monument, while Frederick III., who for many long years had pointed a menacing finger at France from the pedestal upon which he stood, had come down with a rope around his neck.

French Statues Decorated.

On the other hand, flags were flying from the statues of French heroes still standing in Metz.

These preparations were made last night after the depature of the Germans, and today every inhabitant of the city, except those of German origin, was out early in readiness to receive Marshal Pétain. The Marshal made his triumphal entry with a staff of allied officers at the head of the famous Iron Division, the 39th Division of the 20th Army Corps.

A long procession of Lorraine societies and other groups, including a great number of girls in the national costume of Lorraine, met the Marshal at the Port de France and conducted him in triumph to the Esplanade where, surrounded by a remarkable group of Generals and other high officers, he reviewed the troops that had earned the honor by contributing to the victories of the Allies on almost every battlefield of France.

The day was one of notable enthusiasm throughout, which dusk failed to diminish. Bands, with torches, appeared as soon as the light began to fade, and jubilant processions continued gayly to circulate through the town until a late hour. Meanwhile, from the French lines all around the fortress there was a display of fireworks which brightly lighted the sky, signal fuses and star shells serving as skyrockets.

German Residents Glum.

It would be untrue to say that all Metz was gay today. A considerable number of Germans remain here. Some of these tried to put a good countenance on the situation and join in the throngs out of doors, but their glum faces were mostly seen from open windows, peering out with curiosity mingled with interest. Those Germans that were met with in the crowds were treated with a consideration that prevented incidents.

While the crowds were waiting the arrival of the Marshal the citizens gave free voice to their sentiments in their newly recovered freedom and practiced their newly acquired French in vociferous acclamation of the French Army and the Allies. Signalling the approach of the Marshal and his accompanying cavalcade, airplanes began flying over the town about 1 o'clock, and the air was soon full of miniature Tricolor flags which their airmen dropped.

A little later the cannon of the forts round about the city, which had just been taken over by the French artillery, began firing a salute of three hundred rounds. The famous Cathedral bell, the motto on which reads "I announce justice," gave the signal for the other bells in the city to peal forth a welcome to "our liberators," as the people of Metz with one accord call the French and the allied armies today.

Petain on White Charger.

When Marshal Pétain appeared on the Esplanade, mounted on a fine white charger and followed by the entire General Staff, with American and British officers attached, a shout went up that drowned the whirr of the dozen or more airplanes flying overhead, and the crowd surged forward, breaking the line of guards in places, to get a glimpse of the victorious commander.

Still mounted, Marshal Pétain, surrounded by a brilliant group of Generals and superior officers, took up his position in front of the statue of Marshal Ney to review the troops, comprising the 39th Division of Infantry, with its artillery, under General Pougin; a detachment of the First Corps of Cavalry, under General Feraud; other mounted troops under General de Boissieu, two escorting squadrons from the First Moroccan Division, and a detachment of tanks.

The staff of the Tenth Army, which General Mangin was prevented from heading because of the accident he had met with, was lined up directly in front of the Marshal, while General Fayolle, commanding the central group of armies, stood near the Commander in Chief just in front of the Ney statue, which the various superior officers saluted in passing.

Enthusiastic cheers of "Long live France!" greeted every flag as it appeared. The dignity of the reviewing ceremony, however, prevented the people from giving free play to their joy. The case was different in their contact with the troops in the streets after the column had left the Esplanade. Then there were three columns, two of which were citizens marching on either side, hand-in-hand, with the soldiers in the centre.

Embraced Bashful Poilus.

Pretty Lorraine girls brought a blush to the cheek of many a poilu with unexpected embraces. Aged women, who had known Metz when it once before was French, threw kisses and cried out thanks to their liberators from open windows along the line of march.

The ambition of every child in Metz appeared to be to shake hands with every man in a French or allied uniform and to give him a cordial greeting in French which, though often deficient, was never misunderstood.

The people of Metz, the majority being Roman Catholics, know Latin if they are not strong on French. They crowded the Cathedral all morning to witness the transformation of the statues. Meanwhile the statues of the French heroes Ney and Fabert, (Abraham De Fabert, Marshal of France in 1658,) were decked with flowers and bunting. French military engravings appeared as if by magic in the windows of art stores and an oil painting of Napoleon was hung out from a conspicuous window, where it would be in full view of the incoming heroes.

Preparations for the reception of Marshal Pétain were made Sunday evening at the first public meeting in forty-eight years at which the people of Lorraine could gather freely and converse in French without running the risk of being sent to prison. All classes of citizens participated, including newly returned exiles, and excluding only that element of the population descending from immigrants. All were out early this morning in long processions along the line of entry of the French troops, which were approaching the town in three columns along the Moselle to unite at Montigny.

AMERICANS FOUND IN METZ.

Fifty Wounded Prisoners Taken in Charge by Y. M. C. A.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Fifty American wounded prisoners were found in Metz. The Young Men's Christian Association took charge of them.

Williard Williams of New York and Dr. Dunning of Portland, Me., Y. M. C. A. workers, were the first Americans to enter Metz, Selina Somerville and Tracy l'Engle of New York and J. E. Hill of Iowa, women Y. M. C. A. workers, arriving later.

Twelve walking cases were transported to Nancy. Supplies of chocolate and other things were rushed to Metz for the other American wounded, who had received little attention. Two of the walking cases are Harry Zuckerman of 32 East Seventh Street, New York, and D. Ferreira of Hayward, Cal.

Five hundred Americans entered Metz with the French.

BEWARE OF GERMANY, LORD READING WARNS

Ambassador Says the Enemy Has Not Yet Shown a Change of Heart.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Germany in the end gave way, not because she had changed her views, but because she knew she was absolutely beaten, declared the Earl of Reading, who has been mentioned as one of the British peace delegates, in a speech in London today. Lord Reading uttered a warning, and said the allied countries should consider the utterances of her statesmen.

"The Germany which is now anxious to fall in with the views of our country," he said, "has yet to show by her actions and not merely by one day or two days or a year or two years that the whole spirit of Germany has changed as we wish it to change before we can ever believe in our hearts that Germany has changed from what it was before the war.

"When reading the German Foreign Secretary's messages regarding the armistice conditions, it should be remembered that the terms of the armistice were more gentle and more merciful than would have been the terms if the war had continued. Let us continue to be watchful and wary. In peace, as in war, we must remember what has happened. We must take to our hearts the lessons of the past. We do not require revenge; France has not asked for revenge. What we did wish and what we were determined to have, both in France and England and in all the nations associated in this great cause, was that justice should be meted out to those who were responsible for the awful horrors of the last four and one-half years.

"I recall in the early days of the war, at the end of September, 1914, when I was in France with Mr. Lloyd George. I remember talking to one of the great French Generals, General Castelnau, and asking him the question, which then was perhaps newer than it became during the four and one-half years of war:

"'How long do you expect the war will last?'

"His answer was a fine irrelevancy. General Castelnau was silent for some little time, and then came the reply:

"'The man who made this war had the soul of a devil.'

"We must see to it that out of these terrible scenes of horror and desolation which we have witnessed that there will arise a more lofty and more noble spirit among the peoples of the world, who would understand each other better, who would have greater love for each other as members of the same humanity, and who would strive together to concentrate all that there is in them for the preservation of liberty and in particular for justice in the world of the future and for the progress of humanity."

If this should come about, said Lord Reading, out of the war must come a benefit to all in the world.

Sir George Cave, who recently resigned as Secretary of State for the Home Department, speaking in the House of Lords tonight, said that although there was a pause in hostilities, the enemy's activities had not ceased.

"Germany has already begun to try to destroy the unity of the Allies and our unity at home," he said. "I believe there is a close alliance between Bolshevism and Germany. I have had evidence of this during the last week."

Regarding the Press Bureau, he saw no reason why it should be abolished. He said that he saw, only the other day, press cables from Russia which were obviously false and intended for propaganda purposes.

"We ought not to relinquish the weapons provided by the Defense of the Realm act for dealing with Bolshevism," he said. "A bill continuing the Aliens' act of 1914 should be introduced in the next Parliament enabling the Government to impose restrictions upon the landing of enemy aliens."

LOSSES IN BRITISH ARMIES.

How the Total of 3,049,000 Was Distributed on the Fronts.

The following tables show the losses in killed and wounded in the British armies, on all fronts in the war, as compiled from a London dispatch of The Associated Press printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday morning.

The casualties are listed for all the campaigns familiar in the official reports of operations, except those in Palestine. The base and headquarters for those campaigns was Egypt and the figures given out by the War Office for Egypt undoubtedly include the losses for the campaigns in the Holy Land. Other movements in Egypt, and directed from that military base, were too small to roll up a total casualty list of 57,853, as cited by Secretary Macpherson as the losses for Egypt.

It was pointed out in the dispatch that the total casualties of 3,049,991 for the period of the war included not only losses of troops from the British Isles, but also those of "troops from India and the Dominions"—which means Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. The dispatch added that "in addition to the grand total of deaths there were 19,000 deaths from various causes among the troops not forming any part of the expeditionary force." The division "other theatres" comprises losses among British troops sent to the aid of Allies or conducting minor campaigns in distant parts of the world. In these tables missing are omitted, the total of officers and men coming under that head being 359,145.

GERMAN PRESS RAILS AT DELAY ON FOOD

ROBBERY OF SHIPS CHARGED

Many Soldiers Streaming Back in Disorder Create a Critical Problem.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 16.—The economic position of Germany has reached a serious crisis which will tax all the powers of the new Government to overcome, even with what help can be rapidly placed at its disposal by the Entente and America.

The Government's difficulties are increased by the fact that it is impossible to use all the means of transport for the rapid demobilization of troops, many of whom are streaming toward Germany in disorder, as the authorities must devote some of it to keeping up the coal supply from the industrial regions and to the ordinary food distribution, &c.

As it is, the food supplies are such in Western Germany that it is quite impossible to feed large numbers of troops. The soldiers have been told so, and arrangements are being made on the Rhine to prevent the flood of soldiers and civilians from going further in disorder.

Some journals are spiteful enough to cast doubt on the genuineness of the plans of the Entente and America to afford help, and they rage against the armistice conditions, particularly as they affect the food supplies. The Weser Zeitung shouts that the "Triumph of force and lies has been achieved. Right and equality, which we inscribed on our banners from the very first day on which the enemy fell upon us, have been defeated. The dictatorship of militarism has been victorious."

Today's Cologne Volkeszeitung is angry about the "inhuman hunger war" and the "criminal barbarism" of the Entente in continuing to "starve" Germany.

In the view of the Rhenish Westphalian Gazette, the suggestion to use German ships for bringing food to Germany is merely robbery by England of Germany's ships.

The Kreuz-Zeitung rails against the Thanksgiving services held in England and terms them blasphemy, "seeing by what inhuman means England waged war."

wich. On the deck of one of the largest of the submarines, which carried two 5.9 guns, twenty-three officers and men were counted. The craft was estimated to be nearly 300 feet in length. Its number had been painted out.

Near the Ship Wash Lightship three large British seaplanes, followed by an airship, were observed.

One of the submarines was seen to send up a couple of carrier pigeons and at once a signal was flashed from the Admiral that it had no right to do this.

When the ships had cleared the minefield and entered the war channel the "paravanes" were hauled aboard. On reaching a point some twenty miles off Harwich the ships dropped anchor and Captain Addison came out on the warship Maldstone.

British crews were then put on board the submarines to take them into the harbor. With the exception of the engine staffs, all the German sailors remained on deck. The submarines were then taken through the gates of the harbor and the German crews transferred to the vessels which will take them back to Germany.

As the boats went through the gates the white ensign was run up on each of them, with the German flag underneath.

Each German submarine commander at the transfer was required to sign a declaration to the effect that his vessel was in running order, that its periscope was intact, that its torpedoes were unloaded, and that its torpedo heads were safe.

Orders had been issued forbidding any demonstration, and these instructions were obeyed to the letter. There was complete silence as the submarines surrendered and as the crews were transferred. So ended a historic event and the first portion of the German submarine fleet is now in the hands of the British Navy.

Harwich mentioned in the foregoing dispatch, has one of the best harbors on the east coast of England. It is in the County of Essex, northeast of London.

PERSIUS LAYS BARE GERMAN NAVY BLUFF

Many Capital Ships Were Stripped to Build Submarines, German Writer Asserts.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Captain Persius, the German naval critic, has chosen the moment when the finest vessels of the German navy are about to be surrendered to the Allies to publish in the Berlin Tageblatt an article containing revelations regarding the German fleet. Captain Persius says the hope that the German fleet would be able in a second Skagerrak battle to beat the British fleet rested upon the bluff and lies of the naval authorities.

In August, 1914, Germany had about one million tonnage in warships, he says, while Great Britain had more than double that, and thanks to the mistakes of von Tirpitz, the German material was quite inferior to the British. In the Skagerrak battle, he declares the German fleet was saved from destruction partly by good leadership and partly by favorable weather conditions. Had the weather been clear or Admiral von Scheer's leadership less able the destruction of the whole German navy would have resulted. The long-range British guns would have completely smashed the lighter-armed German ships. As it was, the losses of the German fleet were enormous, and on June 1, Captain Persius says, it was clear to every thinking man that the Skagerrak battle must be the only general naval engagement of the war.

On all sides, continues the writer, Admiral von Tirpitz was advised to construct only submarines, but he remained obstinate. On Oct. 1, 1915, several members of the Reichstag made an earnest appeal to the army command—not to the naval staff—with the result that an order was issued terminating the construction of battleships in order that the material might be used for the making of U-boats. In the meantime so great a scarcity of material had arisen that it became necessary to disarm a number of the battleships and take the metal. In this manner, at the beginning of 1916 twenty-three battleships had been disarmed, as well as one newly built cruiser.

At the beginning of this year, Captain Persius states, the German Navy consisted only of dreadnoughts and battleships of the Helgoland, Kaiser, and Markgraf types, and some few battle cruisers. All the ships which von Tirpitz had constructed from 1897 to 1906, at a cost of innumerable millions, had been destroyed, and the U-boats that had been constructed had proved unable to fight against British warships.

Admiral von Capelle during his period as head of the navy, says Captain Persius, constructed very few submarines, work being continued only on the construction of submarines of the large type, but in official quarters it was still stated that Germany possessed an enormous number of U-boats, and that the losses were virtually nil.

That was not true, the writer admits. In 1917, he states, 83 submarines were constructed, while 66 were destroyed. In April, 1917, Germany had 126 submarines, and in October 146. In February, 1918, she had 136, and in June of the same year 113, according to Captain Persius's figures.

Only a small percentage of these submarines were actively operating at any given time, Captain Persius declares. In January, 1917, for instance, when conditions were favorable for submarine work, only 12 per cent. were active, while 30 per cent. were in harbor, 38 per cent. were under repairs, and 20 per cent. were "incapacitated." Submarine crews, he says, were not sufficiently educated and trained, and they looked with distrust upon the weapon. In the last months, he reveals, it was very difficult to get men for submarine work, as experienced seamen looked upon the submarine warfare as political stupidity.

Captain Persius tells of the mutiny that broke out at the beginning of this month, when the German Navy was ordered out for attack. Had the seamen obeyed, the writer remarks, innumerable lives would have been lost, and he declares that "every thinking man, therefore, is of the opinion that the seamen on Nov. 5 rendered an invaluable service to their country."

ANTWERP EXULTS AS KING RETURNS

with passion, though passing down these streets one sees only the outward comfort of the population which has not passed through other rigors of war.

Surprise at Allied Uniforms.

One thing was curious today. At a man dressed in khaki the Antwerp crowds stared curiously, not knowing what uniform it might be, and only a few recognized that it was English. It is the same with the new French uniform. The wife of a French officer, now a prisoner, told me that when she said good-bye to him he was in the black tunic and red trousers of the army of 1914, and she was astounded to see the blue of the new French Army in Antwerp.

Last Sunday a week there were similar scenes in Antwerp to those which happened in Brussels. When the German soldiers heard the terms of the armistice they crowded around their officers, tore off their epaulets and all badges of rank, and said:

"This is finished. We do not take your orders now."

But there were no acts more violent than that, and on Friday night last, the last of the German garrison left the city in good order. They left behind them vast stores of merchandise in the harbor, and have their ships still lying up in dock with many English ships.

The most precious treasure of Antwerp, the "Descent from the Cross," by Rubens, hangs safe in the Cathedral, and I was glad to see it there today. For a time, during the bombardment of 1914, it had been hidden in cellars, but the glory of its color greets one again.

As I write, the King is being received by his people with immense enthusiam, and from all parts of the city the bells are ringing so that the air is full of this music, rising above the cheers.

DUTCH REVOLT COLLAPSES.

Proposed Revolutionary Outburst Became a Royalist Demonstration.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The London Daily Chronicle's diplomatic correspondent writes that the revolutionary agitation in Holland appears to have completely broken down. A great demonstration had been organized, the announcement of which occasioned considerable apprehension, but advices received during the day showed that the great masses of people who attended the gathering wore orange-colored rosettes, which is regarded as the loyal and national emblem. Indeed, the whole proceeding ultimately resolved itself into a great demonstration of loyalty to the throne and to the present order of things.

From very point of view this change in Dutch sentiment is to the advantage of the Allies. It may now become possible to make representations to the Dutch Government with regard to the position of the Kaiser. It is anticipated that before long the British Government, at any rate, will make clear its conviction that his present position is an extremely dangerous and unsatisfactory one, and that this will be followed by the French Government unless the Allied Powers associate themselves in a joint effort.

LIBERATED BRUSSELS HOLDS A BIG JUBILEE

BURGOMASTER MAX HAILED

BRUSSELS, Nov. 17.—Huge crowds thronged the streets of Brussels this morning, the last detachment of German troops having left the capital during the night. Acting Burgomaster Le Monier's proclamation inviting the people to prepare a welcome for the victorious troops and the Belgian King and Queen was placarded throughout the city. The streets were profusely beflagged with the Belgian and allied colors.

The first troops to arrive were greeted with intense enthusiasm.

The ceremony proclaiming the liberation of Brussels was performed in the Grand Place at 10 o'clock. The square was packed with people and former prisoners, while the windows and balconies were crowded with onlookers. Newsboys were shouting the names of newspapers which had been suppressed by the Germans and which reappeared today.

Burgomaster Le Monier, heralded by a fanfare of trumpets, appeared at the Leon Staircase, accompanied by an Alderman, and announced the liberation of the capital. His speech was continually interrupted by cheers from the crowd, which swore that the murders and robberies committed by the Germans would never be forgotten.

The Belgian flag was then hoisted over the Hotel de Ville, while the great mass of people in the square waved the national colors. The "Brabanconne" was sung and this was followed by the anthems of the Allies.

The excitement of the people reached its zenith when a procession was formed. It was headed by an old banner of the revolution of 1830, a symbol of Belgian liberty. The procession, ever growing larger, marched to the Place des Martyrs, where there is a monument to the heroes of the 1830 revolution. Here Burgomaster Le Monier made a patriotic speech.

After fifty months of captivity in Germany, Burgomaster Max came into his own again today. The Municipal Council met to receive him at the Hotel de Ville. The Dutch Minister, many prominent citizens, and officers of the allied armies were present.

Burgomaster Max was loudly cheered when he entered the hall and took his seat at the Aldermen's table. Acting Burgomaster Le Monier welcomed him with a flattering address and formally relinquished the Burgomaster's seat to Max, who made a short address.

The Burgomaster's speech was largely to the officers who had replaced him during his absence and who, he said, maintained "dignity and firmness in the face of the arrogance of insolent soldiers who thought everything was permissible until their tyranny got the answer it deserved." He said that he was almost tempted to say that he did not regret the aggression which Belgium had suffered, because it "permitted her to safeguard her honor and to acquire immortal glory."

All Belgians, he continued, approached the task of rebuilding their country with pride, hope, and joy. The workers would find in such remunerative labor compensation for their sufferings. Burgomaster Max said he regretted that criminals were pillaging and setting fires in Brussels, and added: "I resume my functions this very evening and I shall devote my energies to ending these disorders."

Later the Burgomaster went to the balcony of the City Hall and addressed an immense throng gathered before the building. He said he thanked the population of Brussels for its dignified behavior during the German occupation.

The fires in the central portion of Brussels resulting from explosions at the Midi station lasted eight hours and all the buildings in the streets nearest the station are in ruins. The region near the station has been evacuated in a radius of more than one mile.

"MUTINY" A GERMAN PLOT.

Engineered to Get Support of Belgian Socialists in Brussels.

By CHARLES DAWBORN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUGES, Nov. 18.—Private reports from Brussels show that the so-called mutiny there was engineered by the Germans with the express object of arousing the sympathy of the Belgian Socialists in the capital and thus procuring better terms for the evacuation.

The revolt was led by a German officer in mufti who addressed Belgian workmen at the Maison du Peuple in perfect French, and espoused Bolshevist theories. Some German soldiers who took the movement too seriously were shot with machine guns.

When the bulk of the Germans left, however, it was remarked that the discipline, particularly among the Bavarians, was perfect. The officers were as arrogant as ever, showing by their manner that they regarded their defeat as a temporary misfortune which would be rectified next time.

Interest in the new Belgian Government which is to be formed when King Albert enters Brussels on Thursday or Friday resides in its experimental character. The Premier, M. Léon Delacroix, has never taken office before, or even been in Parliament. Most of the Ministers are new men. In the higher posts they will be assisted by experts serving in a voluntary capacity.

M. Delacroix's selection has caused surprise. It is due to the fact that he has elaborated a program of reforms considered as most practical, yet devised, it is said, to include a measure of universal suffrage which will abolish plural voting as at present constituted. It is possible, however, that it will give a second vote to men over 40 as a premium on experience.

PLAN SHIPPING POOL FOR EUROPE'S RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Some representatives in London of the American Government are understood to believe that the task of moving the necessary foodstuffs to the distressed civilian populations in European countries and reconstruction material to France and Belgium can be accomplished successfully only through an international shipping pool.

These representatives also were said today to have recommended that American vessels requisitioned during the war be held by the Government and that restrictions on imports of unessentials into the United States remain in force until the work of supplying necessities to the war-devastated countries is completed.

An international pool of shipping for the movement of vitally necessary supplies to France, Belgium, Central Europe, and the Near East probably will be discussed, it was said today, at conferences between Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, who now is en route to Europe, and representatives of the allied Governments.

Some officials here believe that if this plan is adopted provision should be made for supplying the tonnage necessary for moving essential commodities to South America and Africa. These countries have had but limited access to the world's markets since the United States entered the war and are said to be short of much material and machinery necessary for the development of their industries.

CARLTON ASSAILS WIRELESSINVENTION

Western Union Head Says That Claim of Continuous Service Is "Humbug."

CANNOT DISPLACE CABLES

E. J. Nally of Marconi Company Answers That Radio Engineers Will Soon Get All Details.

In answer to the statement of E. J. Nally, Vice President of the Marconi Wireless Company, that the wireless had now been perfected as a result of the Weagant invention to such a point that there would probably be no more marine cables laid, Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union, said yesterday:

"The interesting statement by the Marconi Company, that wireless communication is now perfected, serves to remind me of similar predictions made by that organization and its friends during the last ten years; none of which have so far completely materialized, I have been in fairly close touch with the progress of wireless since 1908 and have observed an interesting coincidence between the predictions of epoch-making progress and the flotation of a fresh issue of stock. Had even a small part of these predictions materialized there would today be no marine cables or even land wires. I know something of what is now claimed to be the greatest step forward that has yet been made in wireless matters, and I venture to say that it will prove to be similar in character to many of the other much heralded innovations.

"I recall the statement a few years ago that the era of cable communications was at an end and that there would be no further extension of cable systems. That year marked the greatest extension the cable world has ever seen in mileage of cable laid and there are today thousands of miles of submarine cable that will be laid so soon as conditions permit. Intending investors should be sure that there is no connection between the dramatic publicity given to this improvement and the issue of Pan American Wireless stock.

"It seems proper that we should make this statement since the Western Union has been the collecting and distributing company of the Marconi Company since 1911 and until that company's operation was taken over by the Government in 1914. It should also be noted that thus far there is no confirmation of the value of this invention by any Government Department acquainted with wireless or by competent disinterested wireless engineers."

When Mr. Nally had read the above statement he said that it was the sort of a statement he would expect Mr. Carlton, "having cables of his own," to make.

"However," he continued, "it is the fate of inventors and those who have attempted 'epoch-making progress' to call forth the slurs and ill-tempered comments of the ignorant or those whose interests were affected. Marconi's original invention met with similar skepticism and denunciation on the part of those whose scientific vision and business foresight was limited. No stock has been issued by the Marconi Company since I have been connected with it, nor is any new issue contemplated; the company's resources are abundantly sufficient for its purposes."

With respect to the statement that no competent disinterested engineer had confirmed the claims made for this invention, Mr. Nally said:

"The obvious reason for this is that technical details cannot be disclosed until after the conclusion of peace, but I may say that it is the intention of the inventor to present a paper before the Institute of Radio Engineers covering completely the discovery and invention. Furthermore, the Marconi Company intends to invite a delegation of engineers chosen by various engineering and scientific bodies of the country to witness the operation of the static-preventing system immediately after the presentation of the technical paper. Obviously, such an offer would not be made unless the statements contained in the announcement could be supported by facts."

At his office last night, Mr. Carlton said there was little to add to his statement to which Mr. Nally had replied.

"However," he said, "we know all about that invention. We have investigated it and know all its details. That the invention will do something toward eliminating static under certain conditions there is no doubt, but to say that it is a cure-all, that it will do away with all difficulty under all conditions in all weather and during every month of the year, is pure humbug. Every credit should be given to those who have made improvements on the wireless, and undoubtedly wireless will always have a place supplementary to the cable and telegraph, but to say that the cable and telegraph will be unnecessary is nonsense. If for no other reason than that the cable has privacy and reliability, it will always have a certain preference over the wireless."

MANY VIENNA ARRESTS NIP BOLSHEVIST PLOT

Hundreds Are Accused of Conspiracy to Proclaim an Extremist Government.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Several hundred persons have been arrested in Vienna on charges of conspiring with the Red Guards to proclaim a Bolshevist Government, according to advices received in Copenhagen and transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Navy Dirigibles Over City.

Two big dirigible balloons crossed the upper bay yesterday afternoon, circled the Liberty Statue and then flew over the city, skimming the tops of high buildings. They sailed northward along the East River shore and just north of the Brooklyn Bridge they separated, one continuing north, the other turning west toward the Woolworth Building. This dirigible circled the Woolworth Tower and then turned south. Both machines later returned to their hangars. The Navy Department, to which the dirigibles are attached, said it was merely a practice flight and that they had sailed from Rockaway. It was the first time that any navy dirigibles traveled so far into the city.

Order Taking Over Cable Lines.

"Pursuant to the proclamation of the President of the United States, dated Nov. 2, 1918, I have assumed possession, control, and supervision of the marine cable systems of the United States. This proclamation has already been published, and the officers and operating officials of the cable companies are acquainted with its terms.

"Until further notice the marine cable companies shall continue operation in the ordinary course of business through regular channels. Regular dividends heretofore declared and maturing interest on bonds, debentures, and other obligations may be paid in due course, and the companies may renew or extend their maturing obligations, unless otherwise ordered by the Postmaster General. All officers, operators, and employes of the marine cable companies will continue in the performance of their present duties, reporting to the same officers as heretofore and on the same terms of employment. Should any officer, operator, or employe desire to leave the service he should give notice as heretofore to the proper officer, so that there may be no interruption or impairment of the service to the public.

"I earnestly request the loyal co-operation of all officers, operators, and employes and the public, in order that the service rendered shall not only be maintained at a high standard, but improved wherever possible. It is the purpose to co-ordinate and unify these services so that they may be operated as a national system, with due regard to the interests of the public and the owners of the properties.

"No changes will be made until after the most careful consideration of all the facts. When deemed advisable to make changes, due announcement will be made.

"Nothing contained in this order shall be construed to affect in any way the censorship of marine cables now conducted under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy under executive order of Sept. 26, 1918."

MACKAY ANSWERS BURLESON CHARGE

Income Discrepancies Described as Technical—"Persecution" Over Government Ownership.

In regard to the compensation which Postmaster General Burleson has awarded to the Postal Telegraph System for the use of the lines by the Government, Clarence H. Mackay, President of the Postal Telegraph System, said yesterday:

"The Postmaster General's office declines to tell us what has been awarded to us, although we inquired what the amount is. Meantime a statement is issued from his office with all sorts of reflections on our system. Now, Mr. Burleson knows very well the reasons why the Interstate Commerce reports of our thirty-nine subsidiary telegraph companies do not tell the whole story. I wrote him the following letter on Oct. 28:

Income Reports Only Partial.

Dear Sir—I write this letter in compliance with the very proper request of your counsel, Mr. Lamar, that we state in the form of a letter the reason why it happens that the compensation we ask from the Government for the use of our Postal Telegraph System during the war differs from the reports of our thirty-nine local Postal Telegraph companies to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The explanation is simple. It is that our Postal Telegraph System for a great many years has been organized on the plan of the Mackay companies, financing the little local companies by furnishing the money for all reconstruction of their telegraph lines, and for the annual interest of $800,000 a year, which has to be paid by the land line system, and also furnishing money for the construction of new lines in new territory and additional wires in old territory. In return, the Mackay Companies by contract with these various local companies receive a large proportion of the through tolls.

This arrangement is a matter of convenience and has grown up from the necessity of having these local companies, in order to comply with the State statutes relative to condemnation and granting of local ordinances, &c.—a necessity which arose in the very beginning of the Postal System in the early eighties. The whole of this compensation now claimed would have appeared in the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which reports began about two years ago, if the Mackay Companies were subject to the Interstate Commerce act, but not being subject to that act, (they being only an unincorporated trusteeship,) the Mackay Companies were not asked by the commission to make a report, and properly so, and hence did not make any.

The general plan of the organization is the same as that of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which, I understand, has several hundred subsidiary companies, and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company takes practically all of the through tolls, and, of course, reports them in its regular report to the Interstate Commerce Commission, that company being a telephone corporation subject to that act, and hence, reports under that act. If the Mackay Companies had been subject to that act they would have promptly made a report, and then all these figures would be on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission. In other words, the entire earnings of the Postal Telegraph System are divided between thirty-nine companies, which report to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the Mackay Companies, and the Boston District Messenger Company, which do not report to the Interstate Commerce Commission. They not being subject thereto.

I trust this will answer Mr. Lamar's inquiry, and if not, kindly let me know, and I will give any further information desired.

Yours very truly,
C. H. MACKAY, President.

"In addition to the above, Mr. Burleson ignores the fact that the Mackay Companies are a trusteeship, and that no trustee or individual is allowed by law to own or operate telegraph lines. Under the statutes they must be owned or operated by corporations.

"Notwithstanding all this, Mr. Burleson has now cut our compensation to some figure unknown to us. His committee last Saturday stated that this would be done, and so the day before yesterday I wrote Mr. Burleson a letter, of which the following is a copy:

Not Compensation, But "Robbery."

Hon. Albert S. Burleson, Postmaster General, Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Burleson: I write to protest against your committee's decision that the Postal Telegraph System shall receive as compensation from the Government for the use of its lines only about one-half of what those lines are actually earning. The Government is not operating the lines, and in fact has nothing to do with them, except technical possession, and yet your committee refuses to allow us even to keep our own. This is a misuse and abuse of power. It is not compensation. It is robbery. Is it possible that the Government is trying to make money out of the war by seizing a telegraph property and confiscating half of its earnings, without even doing anything to operate the lines?

And there is a still worse feature about it. The Western Union and Bell Telephone Companies are to be allowed to keep all they earn, and more, too. They get the full spoon, with something extra, while we are to get only half of what we actually earn. What right has the Government to keep the other half? This is a rank discrimination, and I cannot believe it has your approval. Of course, we have recourse to the Court of Claims and to Congress, but you are aware of the Secor claim growing out of the civil war, which claim was not paid until thirty years thereafter. I hope we shall not have the same experience.

In my letter to you of Nov. 11, I said we would ask no compensation of the Government, and would be content to keep merely what we earn, provided the telegraph lines of both companies were turned back at once, as they should be. I cannot understand on what theory one-half of our earnings are to be wrested from us and kept by the Government, which has done absolutely nothing to produce them. Cannot a man keep his own? For instance, in August we made $320,000, and your committee proposes to keep half of it and give us half of it, while allowing the Western Union to keep all of its August earnings and pay it something additional. That is not a square deal. The action of your committee is not American, and I don't believe that either you or the American people will approve it.

Yours truly,
CLARENCE H. MACKAY,
President.

"Mr. Burleson's committee said that it based our compensation on the physical value of our property, I discussed this question of physical value fully in a letter which I wrote to Mr. Burleson on Nov. 4, reading as follows:

Physical Valuation.

Nov. 4, 1918.

Hon. Albert S. Burleson, Postmaster General, Washington, D. C.:

My Dear Mr. Burleson—We gather from the discussions we have had with the committee appointed by you to report as to the proper compensation to be allowed the telegraph and telephone companies for the use of their property by the Government that that committee takes the position in regard to the Postal Telegraph lines that compensation should be a percentage of the physical value of the telegraph lines themselves. We cannot assent to this. It is not the basis of the compensation to the Bell Telephone Company or to the Western Union. The compensation to them is based on their earnings for the last year, and, in fact, the Western Union compensation is in excess of the earnings for the last year.

Apparently your committee has estimated the Postal properties at $30,000,000, and think that we should receive only 6 per cent. of that amount, which would be $150,000 a month. How in the world they arrived at so low a valuation I do not know. Now, even in August, a poor month in the telegraph business, but the first month in which the Government had control of our lines, we earned about $320,000 for the Government. Hence, on your committee's basis, the Government would pay us $150,000 and keep $170,000. This, of course, is absurd.

There has been an intimation that the Postal Company is making too much money, but the conclusive answer to that is that telegraph rates in the United States are lower than anywhere else in the world, and, more conclusive still is the fact that there is strenuous competition between the two telegraph companies, and that under that competition the Western Union has at times earned less than 2 per cent. on its capital stock, and at other times has been unable to set aside any reasonable reserve. Moreover, the Postal Company paid no dividends whatsoever for many years, and, in fact, lost a great deal of money for many years. The compensation you have given the Western Union is based on the present telegraph rates, and those rates are the same as the Postal Company gets.

And, even if the physical value of the Postal telegraph lines entered into the proposition at all that value cannot be ascertained without prolonged effort, and even then would be of little use. That value, whatever it may be, varies from day to day. Copper wire that cost us as low as 11 cents a pound a few years ago is now worth 28½ cents a pound, if we were at liberty to dismantle and sell it. The copper wire for which we have recently paid prices ranging up to 38½ cents a pound will be worth only 15 cents a pound after the war. Poles that cost us $1.25 each before the war are now worth from $3 to $4 each, if we could dismantle and sell them, while poles that now cost us from $3 to $4 will be worth only about $1 after the war. The same is true of crossarms, pins, insulators, office furniture, electric apparatus, &c.

The entire equipment of the telegraph company is made up of personal property, which fluctuates rapidly in value. The physical value today will not be the physical value next month. It rises and falls with the fluctuating market for this class of equipment. The Massachusetts Public Service Commission, in answer to the recent suggestion that a physical valuation be made of the elevated railroad properties in Boston, in connection with the financing of that company, put the matter very succinctly when it said:

"Appraisal would be a long and expensive task. At best the results would be dependent in no small degree upon the personal judgment of the engineers employed, for the notion that appraising is an exact science will be entertained only by those who lack experience. Any estimate of present cost of production would be void of public advantage owing to the recent course of prices."

Moreover, as stated above, the physical value has nothing to do with this question of compensation, either from a legal or business standpoint. The compensation we are entitled to is based upon the usable value and earning power of our telegraph line. When the United States Government took over the Monongahela Canal the Government claimed that it need not pay for the earning power of that canal, but the Supreme Court of the United States decided otherwise, and said (148 U. S. 337):

"After taking this property the Government will have the right to exact the same tolls the Navigation Company has been receiving. It would seem strange that, if by asserting its right to take the property, the Government could strip it largely of its value, destroying all that value which comes from the receipt of tolls, and having taken the property at this reduced valuation, immediately possess and enjoy all the profits from the collection of the same tolls."

A few months ago the Supreme Court again affirmed that principle of law when it said (246 U. S. 192):

That there is an element of value in an assembled and established plant, doing business and earning money, over one not thus advanced, is self-evident. This element of value is a property right, and should be considered in determining the value of the property, upon which the owner has a right to make a fair return when the same is privately owned, although dedicated to public use."

We have given you detailed figures showing what this property earned last year, and if we had been allowed to remain in control of the same property there would have been undoubtedly the same profit this year, and that is the basis of the compensation to be paid to us.

The compensation to be paid for the use of perishable personal property is not based on physical value, but rather on its earning value as a going utility, as we could show by many examples. When the Government seizes a building for use during the war it pays the owner the same rentals he has been receiving, irrespective of the cost or physical valuation of his building. Congress, in fixing the compensation for the railroads, paid no attention to their physical value, even though a very large part of that value consists of permanent terminals and right of way. Congress based their compensation entirely on earning power, and we can see no reason why the same rule should not be applied to us.

If by careful management we have made a substantial profit on our land line system, in spite of the fierce competition, we are entitled to that profit. As stated above, this applies particularly to perishable properties, such as telegraph lines. A single heavy snowstorm may carry down thousands of miles, including lines not over a year old, and that has happened. Telegraph lines are very perishable, and any claim that their usable value is merely, say, 6 per cent. of the physical value is unsupported by the history of telegraph lines or any other class of perishable property.

[illegible] stands the fact, as stated previously, that the compensation to the Western Union Telegraph Company is based on their 1917 earnings, and to ask my company to take less would, to put it mildly, be an injustice, and I am quite sure that you intend that the same fair treatment shall be accorded to all. Yours respectfully,

C. H. MACKAY, President.

Will Enter Court of Claims.

"We shall take the matter at once into the Court of Claims, although this probably means long delay.

"We think we have been very badly treated, especially as there is nothing complicated about our accounts. Professor Friday, the expert of the Post Office Committee, made a special trip from Washington to look into them, and he found nothing to criticise. In addition to this, we have the certificate of Messrs. Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., chartered accountants of New York and London, that our profit for the year 1917 was $4,269,547. The Post Office Committee knows that these figures are correct and yet they offer us only about half of that amount, while on the other hand they have given the Western Union Telegraph Company their full 1917 earnings and some more. Mr. Burleson denies this, but we have absolutely reliable information that it is true. The Postmaster General proposes to make a heavy profit out of the postal lines, and this profit will be used by the Postmaster General to pay his losses on the Western Union lines.

For years the Postal Company opposed Mr. Burleson's schemes for Government ownership, and apparently it is now singled out for persecution. This notwithstanding from the very beginning of the war its attitude has been one of helpfulness to the Administration. Last Spring, at the personal request of the President, we withdrew our discharge of union men, while the Western Union refused. Only a few months ago, at the request of the State Department, we strung a special wire on short notice to make up a through circuit from Washington to New York to connect with the cables of the Central and South American Cable Company, so as to give the State Department a rapid service to South America. Only a few days ago, when the State Department requested a special cable across the Atlantic, so that it could be in instantaneous communication with the American representatives at Paris, it applied to the Postal Telegraph-Commercial Cables for this facility, something which had never been done before. The Postal Telegraph-Commercial Cables promptly set aside one of their transatlantic cables for that purpose and furnished a through circuit from Washington to Paris, and the State Department is now using it.

"We have been badly treated, but we shall continue the fight."

BURLESON MERGES TELEGRAPH LINES

Will Be Operated as One Beginning Dec. 1, to Promote Efficiency, Postal Head Announces.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Postmaster General Burleson today announced the merger, for purposes of operation, of the telegraph systems taken over by the Federal Government.

"In order," said the official announcement, "that the telegraph facilities may be used to the fullest extent and the transmission of messages expedited, the telegraph systems shall hereafter be operated as one, and, effective Dec. 1, 1918, all telegraph offices shall accept for transmission all classes of messages now accepted by any one of them at the prescribed tariff rates."

So far as the plans of the Federal telegraph and telephone administration have been worked out, it is not contemplated to abolish the principal offices of either of the two telegraph companies in the larger cities, although it is possible that some of the smaller offices of the two companies will be closed wherever it is found possible that one office will be ample to receive all the telegraph traffic of the immediate vicinity.

David J. Lewis, who is at the head of the telegraph and telephone administration, made a careful survey of telegraph conditions in all large cities preliminary to the merger. He explained that hereafter both telegraph companies must accept all business tendered them, whether their lines reach the destination of the telegram or not. In the latter event it would be the duty of the telegraph company to turn over the telegram to the company whose line could transmit the dispatch. But it is not contemplated that there will be a physical merger of the two companies to the extent of the complete absorption of the Postal Telegraph by the Western Union.

It is understood that the merger of the two telegraph companies will be arranged along the lines of the merging of the railroad companies, the facilities of the two companies being pooled and telegrams being routed over the shortest line that can be set up from [illegible] of the two companies, just as freight and passenger traffic on the railroads is sent over the most available route, the tracks of any railroad being used.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Reports are on file recommending the merging of telegraph, telephone, and post offices, and officials indicated that steps along this line, governed by local conditions, might be expected after some experiments had been conducted in Washington. On Dec. 1 telegraph messages will be accepted at post office branches here and telephone pay stations will be installed in each branch. Other experiments are planned.

It was announced that after Jan. 1 employes of telegraph companies in service continuously two years would receive annual vacations of two weeks with pay and those in service one year, one week.

Extension of long-distance telephone service to all local lines where practicable is planned by the Postmaster General. Companies without long-distance connections were invited today to make applications in writing.

FEARS NEW SPOILS SYSTEM.

Reform League Wants Railroad Men and Telegraphers Under Regulations

The National Civil Service Reform League issued a statement yesterday reciting the action of its Executive Committee in "warning against the dangers that the vast body of employes of the railroads, telegraphs, telephone, and express companies, now under Government control, may be subjected to political manipulation."

The committee, according to the statement, adopted the following resolution:

The National Civil Service Reform League, through its Executive Committee, desires to call public attention to the grave danger to popular institutions existing in the administration of railways, express companies, telegraphs, telephones, and other industries if carried on by the Government, through political agencies, by means of appointments made on the discretionary authority of a Cabinet officer without reference to the civil service system.

We are not questioning the necessity for Government control of these industries during the war, nor the purposes of the present Cabinet officers who are administering them; but we call attention to the fact that the spoils system, which has now been in the main so happily eliminated from the Federal civil service, was due to the same conditions as now prevail in these industries, to wit, discriminatory appointments and political control.

When the war ceases and places in the service become highly desirable, it is inevitable that they will be sought and granted by political methods unless this service is now protected by a system which will render patronage impossible so long as these industries remain under Government control.

Otherwise there will be created a vast political machine, embracing nearly 2,000,000 subordinates and used for the purpose of controlling elections and probably for influencing the future status of these industries. This will be pregnant with disaster to free institutions.

The appointment of a special committee to develop a suitable plan to protect these agencies against the evils of political control, the statement said was also authorized, and it was suggested that this committee would confer with the Railroad Administration, representatives of the brotherhoods, and other official bodies.

THOUSANDS NEEDED TO DO WAR MENDING

PICTURES THEIR CONDITION

There Is Also Room for 600 Workers in the Reclamation of Soldier Clothing.

An appeal to turn from the work of making surgical dressings for American wounded to the prosaic task of sewing upon hundreds of thousands of garments for refugees and darning soldiers' garments was made to the Red Cross women last night at a meeting in the Grand Ball Room of the Waldorf. Speakers said frankly that the women do not like to sew, and that the complications of garments suited to all the liberated nationalities were most perplexing to American needlewomen, but the task was presented as a patriotic duty, and the thousand or more women present made it evident that they would not be found wanting.

Walter Jennings, Chairman of the New York County chapter, presided, and those in attendance included heads of most of the auxiliaries in the chapter. The announced purpose of the gathering was the reorganization of Red Cross work. So adequately had the organization provided for the surgical need of the allied armies, however, that almost the minute the armistice was signed, it was announced, the need for this work ceased, and it was to be stopped at once.

Miss Anna Day, organizer of auxiliaries, said there was room in the garment shops of the chapter for 4,000 workers. If that quota cannot be obtained, the chapter will appeal at once for pledges from at least 25,000 women to make at least one garment a week in order that the chapter may supply at least 100,000 each month. If the women could but see the poverty-stricken, weak, and generally pitiable state of repatriated civilians in the lands from which the German wave is slowly receding, Miss Day said, there would be no need for a second appeal.

"There are strange patterns coming to us from various parts of the world," Miss Day warned, "and, though we are quite willing to start you off on simple things, you must soon qualify yourselves to make anything that is needed. You must remember that, even if you do not appreciate the tremendous need of these garments, our soldiers, who daily are liberating whole populations, are going to come back vividly aware of the needs of those whom they have rescued. And if American women have not met those needs they will be unable to look their men in the eyes when they get back."

Mrs. Henry Ittelson told about the work on soldiers' clothes which she believed was not yet known to a great many Red Cross workers. The women were asked by the War Department last Summer to undertake experimentally the reclamation of light weight garments such as socks, shirts, underwear, blankets, and sweaters. A quota of 75,000 garments for the first five weeks was assigned and the first reclamation station was opened July 8. Nine in all soon were established, and over 80,000 pieces were repaired.

"So successful was the work," Mrs. Ittelson continued "that it was made a permanent feature, and now, when the War Department wants to cancel as many contracts as possible, it is relying upon us to renovate all the clothes we can.

"A few days ago we opened at 6 West Fifty-seventh Street our central station. We have room for 600 workers in three shifts and already a thousand department store girls are giving two nights a week to helping us, so that what we need most is workers in the morning and afternoon. We must do at least 100,000 garments a month and they want us to do 250,000. The work can be taken home or can be given out to sewing women by those who cannot find time to do it themselves."

Mrs. Ittelson assured the gathering that the clothing was sterilized before being given out to be mended.

Mr. Jennings announced that the International Longshoremen's Association has presented the chapter with a fully equipped ambulance. According to plans completed yesterday, the Red Cross Shop, of which Helen C. Frick is President, will be opened Dec. 1, at 587 Fifth Avenue, the house given by the Haggin estate.

GOV. GRAHAM INDICTED.

Vermont Official Under $5,000 Bond on Embezzlement Charge.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 20.—Governor Horace F. Graham gave $5,000 bond today for appearance under indictments alleging larceny and embezzlement from the State during his term of office as Auditor from 1902 to 1917. The indictments, secretly returned by the Grand Jury last Monday, include 152 counts of alleged larceny and six of alleged embezzlement.

At the request of R. E. Brown, counsel for the Governor, the trial was set for the March term of the court. The Governor was not placed under arrest, but went to court voluntarily accompanied by counsel. He made no comment regarding the case today, but in a statement to the public on Aug. 12, when the alleged shortage in accounts was brought to his attention, he asked that judgment be suspended, saying that while he had been wrong in the matter of handling his salary and official expenses as Auditor he had not previously been aware that any of his vouchers were missing.

FIND PLACES FOR WORKERS.

U. S. Employment Service Has a "Flying Squadron" at Work.

A plan to provide employment during the demobilization of war workers was announced yesterday by Thomas W. Churchill, Counselor of the United States Employment Service, who added that there has been created a Division of Labor Reabsorption at 460 Fifth Avenue, the State headquarters of the service. This division will ask employers to list their requirements for labor, so that war workers, and, later on, returning soldiers, may be directed to them.

"Each morning," Mr. Churchill said, "the Flying Squadron of the division will get an assorted list of employers, and then make its drive. After consultation with the employment managers it will report the various vacancies available, classified according to trade, age, salary, sex, &c., and this information will be handed to the Clearance Division, which will seek to find the worker for the job. On Monday, its first day of operation, the squadron reported 694 situations waiting."

Automobiles and auto trucks are needed to take soldiers and sailors on sightseeing trips on Thanksgiving Day. The Entertainment Committee is to inaugurate a drive among automobilists who will be asked to buy a decorative emblem at $1 each. The revenue will provide entertainment for the men in the service. The Tally-Ho Club, 141 Joralemon Street, Brooklyn, yesterday joined the War Camp Community Service and was opened for soldiers, sailors, and marines of the United States and the Allies.

WORLD NEEDS OUR STEEL.

Alsace Will Help to Rebuild France, Engineers Are Told.

Albert C. Ritchie, counsel for the War Industries Board and Attorney General of Maryland, spoke at a joint meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and other technical bodies, held last night in the Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street. He told of America's part in supplying steel for war needs of this country and the Allies, and predicted an unprecedented demand from Europe for reconstruction purposes.

J. Leonard Replogle, Director of Steel Supply of the War Industries Board, had been announced as the principal speaker of the evening, but J. E. Johnson, who presided, said that Mr. Replogle had been detained in Washington and delegated Mr. Ritchie to discuss the steel situation.

"When history is written about our work behind the lines," Mr. Ritchie said, "that relating to supplying our army will show no clearer or brighter page on this side of the Atlantic than Mr. Replogle's work in keeping our own and allied armies supplied with steel. Our duties called for allocations, priorities and price fixing.

"It was Pershing's locomotive, McAdoo's car, or Schwab's ship that we had to supply. It is to the everlasting credit of the steel industry men that through co-operation they helped to solve the problems of steel shortage with which this country was threatened during the war."

Mr. Ritchie said it was estimated that the price-fixing policy adopted by the War Industries Board on steel had saved the Government $3,000,000,000.

The speaker, after reviewing at length the achievements of the steel industry in the war, said that the War Industries Board would retain control hereafter over a given industry only when all interests asked for such supervision.

Captain P. E. Dulieux of the French High Commission said that immediate French requirements in the steel line called for 8,000,000 tons. He predicted that, with Alsace-Lorraine back in possession of France, his country might "at a not very distant date be your competitor."

Julius Kahn of Youngstown, Ohio, made an address on the larger uses of reinforced concrete in building operations of the immediate future. Mr. Kahn digressed sufficiently from his announced subject to say that he believed "that Germany should be allowed to become a member of the proposed League of Nations."

Mr. Kahn's remarks aroused the ire of some of his hearers, who held a meeting after the regular session was over and threatened to demand that the speaker's remarks be expunged from the official record of the proceedings.

WAR COST AND Profiteering

A Series of Fourteen Articles

By LOUIS SEIBOLD
World Staff Correspondent

What the War Has Cost the Government.

People Who Got the Money—How They Got It and Why.

The articles to be published by The World will disclose the results of an investigation into Government agencies, corporations and business concerns and a country-wide survey of living conditions.

The articles will reveal to you the cost of the great war to the Government of the United States and the civil population.

The extent and method of profiteering adopted by corporations and business concerns will be fully set forth.

The identities of corporations, firms and to a very large extent of individuals who have made money out of profiteering, as also those who have been penalized, will be established.

The various steps taken by the Federal and State Governments to protect the civil population from profiteering, with the results obtained, will form an interesting chapter of the disclosures.

Admissions contained in the correspondence of beef packers that they sold "fishy" butter to Camp Beauregard and that beef sold for xport "was so bad that we bathed it in vinegar and sold it before we showed it" will be exposed by The World's profiteering articles.

The first article will show the fluctuation in the purchasing value of the America dollar during the last five years and up to date, with comparisons showing the relative value of it in other countries.

The second article will disclose the results of the investigation into profiteering conducted by the Federal Trade Commission, covering flour, metal, lumber, coal, petroleum, canned provisions, etc.

Another article will present a survey of living conditions and prices, as also the steps taken by the Government to restrict profiteering in them.

Another article will present information showing the enormous profits made by a large number of the leading industries during the war as compared with the pre-war period.

Another article will show the manner in which the Food Administration has attempted to stimulate production, regulate supplies, nd the measure of success of these undertakings.

An article showing the extent of profiteering practised by leather and clothing manufacturers and retail dealers in sho s and clothing will tell you all about the abnormal profits made in those industries.

The extent and character of profiteering practised by coal producers and dealers will be revealed in another article, which will also include the number of profiteering coal dealers who have been prosecuted and penalized.

Another interesting article will show how the average family has been affected by the profiteering practised by landlords, the butcher, baker, groceryman and provision dealer, as also the prices for such commodities during the pre-war period and the present time.

The systems adopted by the Army and Navy for purchasing supplies, with quotations on the most important articles, will furnish the subject of another article.

One of the most important of the articles on profiteering will reveal the manner in which the Government seeks to reach the profiteers through the imposition of excess profits and war taxes on individuals and corporations, with concrete examples of the effect of such undertakings.

CAN EXAMINE VOTES AT CLOSE OF YEAR

Justice Philbin Holds Whitman Must Wait Till Smith Gets Certificate.

GOVERNOR WILL APPEAL

Extraordinary Session of the Legislature May Be Held to Amend Election Law.

Governor Whitman's right to have the ballots cast in the recent election in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx examined was upheld in a decision handed down yesterday by Justice Eugene A. Philbin of the Supreme Court. The exercise of that right, however, was denied until after Governor-elect Alfred E. Smith shall have received his certificate of election, subsequent to the final canvass of the vote by the State Board of Canvassers, which will not be completed until late in December.

Abraham S. Gilbert of counsel for Governor Whitman and the Republican State Committee announced last night that he would file an appeal from Justice Philbin's decision today, and that it probably would come before the Appellate Division for argument tomorrow. The appeal, Mr. Gilbert said, would be brought on the ground that in ordering a postponement of the examination of ballots Justice Philbin had invaded the rights of his client through the exercise of discretionary powers assumed by the court contrary to the intent of the statute. Incidentally it was reported that an extraordinary session of the Legislature to amend the law in some important respects might be called.

Election Board to Act.

Justice Philbin in his order directed that the examination of the ballots should be under the supervision of the Board of Elections, at the office of the board or such other place or places as the board may designate. It is further directed that the examination shall be begun at 9 o'clock in the morning on the day following the issuance of the certificate of election, and that Governor Whitman must file a stipulation to assume the entire expense incurred by the board in connection with the examination, and that he deposit a sum in cash for that purpose, with leave for the board to apply to the courts for a further deposit if necessary. Justice Philbin in his decision said:

"Counsel for the petitioner says that a postponement of the examination of the ballots until after the completion of the official canvass will deprive him of any remedies the law affords prior to the issuance of the certificate to the respondent and his induction into office. Although on the argument the counsel was asked to state in what manner any existing remedies would be thus prejudiced or defeated unless an examination of the ballots was allowed forthwith, he declined to say.

"On the other hand, I think that there are very substantial reasons why the relief sought should not be granted during the official canvass. It is contemplated by law that there shall ordinarily be but one examination of the ballots and that the same shall be made by the inspectors of election. No one else—not even the official canvassers—is permitted to examine the ballots except upon an order of the Court in a proper case, unless the matter involves a contested election of members of the Legislature, in which event a committee of the Legislature may order an examination (Id., Sects. 374, 437.) The reason is obvious. The promiscuous handling of ballots after election would afford opportunity for the perpetration of fraud. It would seem that a deferring of the examination until after the official canvass has been completed will be more likely to attain the desired result than if examinations are permitted during the canvass. It would also seem that an examination of the ballots before the official canvass has been completed and the result declared would be premature."

Senator Henry M. Sage of Albany, who was re-elected and at the coming session undoubtedly will be chosen again to head the Senate Finance Committee, apparently accepts the election figures as proof that Governor Whitman's opponent has won. He dropped in on Mr. Smith at the City Hall yesterday and conferred with him on budget matters, assuring him before he left that he would render him every possible assistance.

Pluralities by Counties.

County Clerk Joseph M. Callahan of the Bronx announced yesterday the result of the canvass on the vote cast for Governor in the country as follows: Whitman, Republican, 30,650; Prohibition, 184; miscellaneous, 30; total, 30,864. Smith, 76,843; Erwin, Socialist, 20,022. Plurality for Smith, 45,779.

The following pluralities, claimed to be official, in the case of all counties upState with the exception of Broome, Cayuga, Oneida, and Tioga, and in New York City counties with the exception of Bronx, Kings, and Queens were made public yesterday on behalf of the Democratic State Committee. The returns give Governor-elect Alfred E. Smith a plurality of 9,106, not counting the soldier vote. Following is the table:

Smith plurality, 9,106.

Not included in this count is a gain of 468 claimed for Mr. Smith in two Election Districts in Queens, where the tabulated returns had the vote for Governor Whitman and Governor-elect Smith transposed.

An order in favor of Meyer London on the Board of Canvassers to show cause why a recount should not be ordered was granted yesterday by Justice Gavegan.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Governor Whitman declined to comment upon the decision of Justice Philbin. If the Full-bin decision stands, it was stated at the Election Bureau of the Secretary of State's office, it is not likely that the inspection can be begun before Dec. 31, because the State Board of Canvassers, upon whose tabulations the certificate is issued, probably will not hold its final meeting until Dec. 30.

PRAISE TICKET ORDINANCE.

Ziegfeld, However, Fears Speculators Will Defeat It.

Among a dozen letters which District Attorney Swann said he received yesterday from business men and theatregoers commending his proposed ordinance for limiting the profit of theatre-ticket speculators to 50 cents on each ticket was one from a Justice of the Supreme Court.

"The Justice says he sent a messenger for two seats at a certain theatre and was told at the box office that all seats had been sold for six weeks in advance, and the advice was there given to apply to speculators for seats," said Mr. Swann. "The Justice sent his messenger again to ask for two seats six weeks ahead and was told that those tickets had not yet been printed. It was only at the third visit of the messenger, who then made known the name of the Justice to the box office, that he finally got two seats six weeks ahead."

Florenz Ziegfeld, who was out of town when the managers and agencies met with Mr. Swann on the proposed ordinance now before the Aldermen, sent a telegram to the District Attorney yesterday, which read:

"Sincerely trust you will succeed in having proposed ordinance passed, but doubt it. I fought them tooth and nail. Alderman Quinn proposed an ordinance that would have wiped speculators out entirely, but like all ordinances against these speculators, it is the last you hear of them and speculators go on their merry way. If they object to ordinance you propose, compel the passing of the Quinn ordinance that puts them out of business. Their influence, they brag of, I hope you will compel immediate action this time."

PENROSE FIGHT IN HAYS'S HANDS

Republican Chairman Will Attempt to Quell Mutiny of Progressives in Senate.

GROWING SIGNS OF A SPLIT

Regulars Hope Pennsylvanian Will Step Aside to Prevent Aid and Comfort to Democrats.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—When Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, arrives in Washington tomorrow he will have before him the task of attempting to smooth out the breach that threatens to upset the Republican control of the Senate in the next Congress. Party leaders do not hesitate to admit that it will require delicate diplomacy to bring about a working agreement that will avert a split.

The obstacle now in the way of harmony between the Republicans and Progressives is the determination of Old Guard leaders to put Senator Penrose at the head of the Finance Committee, which in the next few years will be the most important of the Senate in the work of readjustment of the country's finances. Progressive Senators threaten to align themselves with the Democrats in organizing the next Senate rather than have Mr. Penrose assume the Chairmanship.

While not all of the Progressive Senators are willing to carry the fight so far as to allow the Democrats to organize the Senate, still there may be enough of them to accomplish it, if no compromise can be reached in the meantime.

Chairman Hays owes his place largely to the support of Senator Penrose. It is known that he is to confer with Mr. Penrose early tomorrow. Mr. Hays also has a letter—or will get it upon his arrival tomorrow—written by a Progressive Senator, protesting against the plan to elevate Mr. Penrose to the Finance Committee Chairmanship. This Senator, while writing only in his own name, talked with other progressives before writing to Mr. Hays.

That Mr. Hays will endeavor to persuade Senator Penrose to step aside from the Chairmanship to which he is entitled by seniority is regarded as unlikely. But that Senator Penrose, rather than have the Progressives throw their support to the Democrats, may yield to persuasion of conferees in the Senate is considered as a possibility. Much as the Pennsylvanian would like the important Chairmanship, it is not thought he would impose his claim if his party, by his doing it, were to lose control of the Senate. A Progressive Senator said today that unless the Republicans dispose of Mr. Penrose in caucus by allowing him to take some other Chairmanship, the issue would be carried to the floor of the Senate when the attempt was made to organize. The Progressive Senators' objection to Mr. Penrose, it was stated, touches upon his attitude as a standpatter throughout his career in Congress, his views for high tariff rather than a revenue that will reach the wealthy corporations, and what they call a consistent attitude of opposition to advanced policies.

Although Senator Lodge, who will be the majority leader of the next Congress, does not oppose Senator Penrose for Chairman of the Finance Committee, it was stated today that he was seriously disturbed by the threats of the Progressive to throw their support to the Democrats. He will attempt with other leaders to conciliate them in an adjustment of committee appointments through the caucus that will remove the existing difficulty. But as against this there will be more than one progressive, it is stated, who will hold out against Mr. Penrose to the end.

Mr. Hays is expected to stay in Washington several days, during which time he will have conferences with Republicans and Progressives alone and later together.

An Embarkation Camp

THIS busy settlement is the temporary home of a crew loading a fleet of freight scows. When the scows have gone North, the camp will be broken up until another year. River freight can be transported only during a short season at the time of melting snows. A few days' delay in dispatching the scows makes the river too dangerous for navigation.

A camp like this requires living quarters, food, tools and equipment for a large number of men, and as it is miles away from any source of supply nothing must be omitted or forgotten. Newcomers in the North are always greatly interested in the more than military efficiency developed by the difficult conditions under which work is done.

RESERVE OFFICERS SOON TO BE FREED

All but Regulars to be Discharged from Army as Rapidly as They Can Be Spared.

WILL RECOMMISSION SOME

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Under authority of a circular issued today by General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff of the army, all officers of the army, except those who hold commissions in the regular establishment, will be discharged just as rapidly as their services can be spared. Whether they belong to the line or the staff corps, these officers are to be discharged just as soon as circumstances permit and commanders of departments, bureaus, camps, and corps have been so notified.

The officers to be discharged will be arranged into three groups. Those who want full and immediate separation from the military service will be the first to be discharged. Next in order will go those who want to be promptly separated from the service, but who are anxious for reappointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps. The last to be disposed of will be those who desire appointment in the permanent establishment of the regular army. Under this plan for the demobilization of the Officers' Corps of the army those who do not care to remain in the military service and who wish to return at once into civil life, where the services of many of them are needed, will have the first opportunity of leaving as soon as they can be spared from the army.

The plans for demobilization have been shaped, however, with the object of enabling the Government to retain permanently in the army those officers from civil life who have displayed marked ability in the service and whose records show them to be fitted for regular army life.

General March's Circular.

The text of General March's circular to the army is, in part, as follows:

"1. The President has determined, under the provisions of Section 9, Act of Congress approved May 18, 1917, that the public service will be promoted by the discharge, as rapidly as their services can be spared, of officers in the United States Army, except those holding commissions of any kind in the Regular Army.

"2. Department commanders, commanders of camps not under the jurisdiction of department commanders or of chiefs of bureaus of the War Department, commanders of ports of embarkation, all chiefs of staff corps and departments, including the chief of field artillery and the chief of coast artillery, are authorized and directed to discharge such officers of the line and staff as are under their command as rapidly as circumstances permit.

"3. All separations from the service will be by discharge as authorized by law; tenders of resignation will not be received nor considered. Such discharges will be a complete separation of the individual from the military service and will terminate all commissions held by him in the Officers' Reserve Corps or otherwise. All officers should be so informed and should also be informed that, while they are given opportunity to express their desires relative to commission in the Reserve Corps or the Regular Army, the granting of such commissions would be entirely dependent upon their fitness, eligibility and such vacancies as may be provided by existing or future laws and regulations.

"4.—Orders received directing the reduction of the enlisted strength of a command will be construed as requiring a corresponding reduction of commissioned strength in the manner provided by these instructions. For the purpose of determining the order of discharge, officers will be arranged into the following classes and discharged in this order:

First.—Officers desiring full and immediate separation from the service.

Second.—Officers desiring prompt separation from the service and subsequent appointment or reappointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps and whom commanding officers recommend for such appointment.

Third.—Officers desiring appointment, if opportunity permits, in the regular army and whom commanding officers recommend for such appointment.

Fifth.—The following officers will not be discharged under provisions of these instructions:

A.—Officers holding commissions in the regular army, either on the active list or retired list.

B.—Officers in arrest, under charges, or serving sentence of a general court-martial.

C.—Officers having had money or property accountability and who have not a clearance therefor.

E.—Officers who for exceptional reasons cannot be spared or who, in the opinion of the commanding officer, should not be discharged at this time.

Officers of the Classes B, C, D, and E may be discharged when no longer in the status stated.

Record of Discharges.

"6.—For each officer discharged under these instructions there will be prepared and forwarded to the Adjutant General of the army such records as are prescribed in Circular No. 73, War Department, 1918. In addition to the records and reports required therein, a report of discharge on Form 150-C. P. B.-G. S. will be sent separately by registered mail to the Adjutant General of the army. A copy of this form is being distributed. It will be produced locally in sufficient quantity to meet all requirements and will be completed in all respects before forwarding.

"7.—In addition to the reports required by Circular No. 73 and by Paragraph 6 of these instructions, a telegraphic report will be sent daily to the Adjutant General of the army, Attention Room 325, giving the following information: The number of officers of each arm or corps by grades discharged that day under provisions of this circular. Also a list, giving the full name, rank, organization arm, staff corps or department of each officer discharged that day, will be sent daily by registered mail to the Adjutant General of the army, Attention Commissioned Personnel Branch.

"8.—The following form of order will be used in discharging officers under these instructions:

By direction of the President, and under the provisions of Section 9, Act of Congress, May 18, 1917, and Circular No. 75, War Department, 1918, Captain John Doe, infantry, is hon. discharged from the service of the United States, for the convenience of the Government, to take effect this date, his services being no longer required.

"9—It is the intention to issue Reserve Corps commissions in general to those officers who have served with credit to themselves during the war and who desire such commissions. Care should be exercised therefore in the entries and recommendations on Form 56-C. P. B.-G. S., to insure justice to In case they desire to do so, applicants pend to Form 150-C. P. B.-G. S. copies for commission in the Reserve Corps or regular army will be permitted to append to Form 150—C. P. B.—G. S. copies of letters from military superiors setting forth specially meritorious service or action."

Secretary Baker also announced today that an order had been issued to chiefs of all staff corps and departments for the discharge of those who had been inducted into the military service with a view to being commissioned.

An Essential Call

The authorized health bulletins advise:

If keeping warm and clean are not enough, call your doctor; don't try to prescribe for yourself.

Scarcely less important as a health precaution is the same advice applied to the teeth:

And experience shows that disregarding this advice also is apt to cause grave results.

For safety's sake, be sure that you have Dr. Lyon's. It is unmedicated. It is essential—essential to good health and good teeth. If you can't go in person, use the 'phone.

HOWARD EXCUSES FALSE PEACE REPORT

Declares Neither He Nor The United Press Has Any Apology to Offer.

RUMOR STARTED IN PARIS

Investigation by Times Correspondent There Quickly Disclosed Its Falsity.

Roy W. Howard, President of The United Press, the news organization which sent from France the false report of the signing of the armistice, made a statement yesterday upon his return from Washington wit.. regard to the manner in which he had received the news and had filed it for transmission. He called upon Secretary Daniels in Washington on Tuesday to express his appreciation, he said, of Admiral Wilson's action giving The United Press a signed statement assuming responsibility for the bulletin which started the premature peace celebration of Nov. 7.

Mr. Howard's statement follows:

"Neither I, myself, nor The United Press has any apology to offer for giving to the American people as news a statement of the signing of the armistice announced as official, and furnished in writing for publication by the Vice Admiral of the United States, in supreme command of all the American naval forces in France. Were the same identical proposition presented tomorrow we would act exactly as on Nov. 7. No newspaperman could, or would, do otherwise.

"The bulletin which Admiral Wilson gave out, and which The United Press carried, was not a 'rumor' or a 'report.' It was a bulletin furnished to the Admiral as official, and so given to us.

"It was given to us for publication by the ranking active United States naval officer in France. There was no more ground for doubting Admiral Wilson's source of news than there would have been for doubting the statement had it come from Marshal Foch.

"It was about 10 o'clock in the morning (French time) when I first learned of a rumor that the armistice had been signed. The report was current in both French and American Army circles in Brest when I arrived that morning to embark for the United States.

"I put in the entire day endeavoring to confirm the report. But it was not until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon that Admiral Wilson was notified on what he stated was official authority, and on what I know he had every reason to believe was official authority, that the armistice had been signed.

"The announcement had been made by the local Brest newspaper and the civilians, soldiers, and sailors had their celebration under full headway before I was able to get from Admiral Wilson personally a copy of his written announcement and his personal assurance that the bulletin was official.

"The Admiral then sent his personal aid with me to assist me in filing the dispatch, as I do not speak French fluently.

"It was a fact that all Brest, including operators and censors, accepted the news as official, and was celebrating at the time that caused my wire to pass the French censorship at Brest unchallenged.

"Upon my return to the United States I learned that no news had been published here of the fact that celebrations of the signing of the armistice took place on Nov. 7 at practically all the army and naval bases on the French coast.

"I was also surprised to learn that nothing had reached here by cable concerning the fact that all Paris had the report of the armistice being signed. At the American Luncheon Club meeting in Paris on that day the toastmaster arose, and, with Admiral Benson seated on one side of him and American Consul General Thacwara on the other announced on what he said was the authority of the American Embassy that the armistice had been signed. All the celebration on that day was by no means on this side of the Atlantic.

"Nothing much has yet been said as to the source of Admiral Wilson's information. This is not for me to discuss. Nothing has been said as to the reason for the report current on that day throughout France. No explanation has yet been offered of how the report reached the American Embassy in Paris as official. Neither has any explanation been offered yet as to what became of the first German armistice delegation, headed by von Hintze, which was reported to have reached the French lines on Nov. 6, and which then disappeared from the news, being supplanted by the Erzberger plenipotentiaries. Some of these matters will be cleared up after peace is signed."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Secretary Daniels read Roy W. Howard's explanation of the United Press report that an armistice had been signed on Nov. 7, and attributing the source of the information to Vice Admiral Wilson, without comment, except to say:

"I authorized no statement of Howard's conference with me; in fact, I did not understand he intended to make any."

FALSE REPORT IS TRACED.

Originated in Paris an Times Correspondent Quickly Disproved It.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent in Paris has cabled THE TIMES that the premature report of the signing of the armistice sent to the United Press from Brest was based on an unauthorized announcement made that day at a luncheon in Paris. An Admiral who was present sent the report to Admiral Wilson at Brest. The same announcement was made on the Paris Bourse, but THE TIMES correspondent investigated and at once learned its falsity. Presumably other correspondents investigated, with the same result, for nothing was sent to America on the subject except the dispatch to The United Press.

STOLE FOR STORY MATERIAL

Widow Wished to Write About an Offender's Emotions.

Mrs. Inez Termatt, who said she was a Western school teacher and a widow, living temporarily at New Brunswick, N. J., pleaded guilty in Special Sessions yesterday to the theft of $11.50 worth of goods from Wanamaker's, and then she told the court that she had turned shoplifter on this one occasion only for the purpose of getting "human interest" material for "short stories." Ellen Cohn, a companion of Mrs. Termatt, who was arraigned on a similar charge, also pleaded guilty, and asserted that she was not a shoplifter but had simply entered into the "scheme of Mrs. Termatt for the furthering of her literary ambition."

"I've been writing fiction short stories for a year or more, but the publishers said my work lacked vital interest, so I came to New York to study characters and to get the right material and touch to my stories," Mrs. Termatt told Justices McInerney, Herrman, and Voorhees. "I did not seem to accomplish this by visits to the police courts, so I decided to have myself arrested to enable me to portray the emotions of an offender and to picture the effects of the law on wrongdoing."

The woman admitted that she had used an assumed name to protect her relatives. She gave information privately to the court, which she said would prove by investigation the truth of her statement. Pending this inquiry by probation officers both women were remanded for sentence tomorrow.

Grand Jury Reindicts Graziadio.

The Grand Jury returned an indictment yesterday against Arthur Graziadio, 19 years old, of 226 East 108th Street, charging him with the murder of Ferdinand La Reginia, a grocer of 236 East 108th Street, on Aug. 7. This is the second indictment against Graziadio on the same charge. A few days ago Judge Malone dismissed the first indictment, saying the evidence was insufficient and unsatisfactory in quality, and then released the prisoner. District Attorney Swann caused the rearrest of Graziadio. His attorney, Charles E. Le Barbier, said he would raise the question of the validity of the new indictment.

ASKS KNITTERS TO HURRY:

Soldiers Need Winter Comforts, Says Mrs. Satterlee's Appeal.

An appeal for knitted garments for the American soldiers in Siberia and in the American Army of Occupation was issued yesterday by Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Chairman of the Comforts Committee of the Navy League, at 405 Madison Avenue. She said that the soldiers in the army advancing upon the Rhine would need warmer garments than they have because of the increased altitude in the country they were occupying.

"Just because the actual fighting in this war is over most women seem to think all troubles are ended for our boys," Mrs. Satterlee said in her appeal. "The wind and sleet will be just as bitter and hard on all our naval vessels on the seas this Winter and there are more of them than last year. Today we had to refuse a request for 1,000 sets of knitted comforts because we had none in stock. We are nearly desperate because of the overwhelming number of requests for sweaters, socks, helmets, and other knitted garments. Now is the time for all of us to be knitters and not quitters.

"Wool for the garments may be bought at cost price at the headquarters, 405 Madison Avenue, as well as at Mary Elizabeth's shop, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street, and at Silo's Galleries, Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street."

PAYS $9,300 FOR MS.

W. E. Benjamin Obtains Volume Once Owned by Kings.

William Evarts Benjamin paid $9,300 yesterday in the sale of Robert H. Dodd's library at the Anderson Galleries for Catalogue No. 573a, an important "Missale Romanum" from the Robert Hoe collection, written on 364 leaves of vellum and decorated with illustrations, large and small miniatures, borders, and ornamental capitals. It was executed at the instance of Charles VI. of France and presented by him to Henry V. of England on the occasion of his marriage to Catherine of Valois, daughter of Charles VI. and Isabel of Bavaria, at the same time that the King of France declared the King of England heir to his kingdom. Later the manuscript was in the possession of Henry VI., Henry VII., and Henry VIII. It was one of the most remarkable manuscripts in the Didot sale in 1879, and was purchased by Fontaine, the Paris bookseller, who sold it to the Comtesse Mniszeck, stepdaughter of Honore de Balzac, for 100,000 francs. Later it came into Mr. Hoe's possession. Probably more than one artist executed the miniatures.

The total for the session was $12,079. The total to date is $18,056. The sale will be continued today.

Wife Sues Naval Officer.

Lieutenant Commander Herbert R. Borchardt, U. S. N., of 511 West 178th Street was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday for a separation by Edith C. Borchardt, whom he married in Philadelphia on July 16, 1917, on the ground of cruelty. The plaintiff says her husband spoke to her in an abusive manner and she decided to sue him after he had kept her a prisoner in their apartment all last Sunday.

Tired out?

Do you come home at night feeling as though the whole world is dark? Do you worry about your work?

YOU know, of course, that things are really not as bad as they seem. Your tired out condition puts a black cloud over your mind. Fatigue poisons have saturated your system and you are in danger of becoming a victim of exhaustion.

You can't do the work which the world expects of you when you are tired out. You even run the chance of serious illness when you are continually suffering from fatigue.

"Fatigue undoubtedly diminishes the resistance of the tissues to bacteria," says Professor F. S. Lee, of Columbia University, a famous writer on physiology.

Speaking of fatigue, Dr. Thomas Oliver, the well-known British authority, said before a committee of the British Home Office: "The waste products added to the blood act upon the nerve endings in the muscle and upon the gray matter of the brain and create a sense of fatigue."

You can prevent over-fatigue

Remove one of the causes of over-fatigue. The average person takes 8,000 steps a day—gives his system 8,000 jolts and jars. Picture in your mind what goes on all day long as you take these steps. Stop pounding away your energy with nail-studded heels on hard pavements and hardwood floors.

You can save your nervous system from this useless shock and strain. Replace hard leather heels with O'Sullivan's Heels.

They are guaranteed to outlast any other heels. They will wear three times as long as leather heels, and will give uniformly satisfactory service to the very end.

Because of our special process, O'Sullivan's Heels combine the greatest durability with the greatest resiliency.

Good dealers sell the latest style shoes with O'Sullivan's Heels already attached. Have O'Sullivan's put on all your shoes today.

What Determines Meat and Live-Stock Prices?

Some stock men still think that Swift & Company—and other big packers—can pay as little for live-stock as they wish.

Some consumers are still led to believe that the packers can charge as much for dressed meat as they wish.

This is not true. These prices are fixed by a law of human nature as old as human nature itself—the law of supply and demand.

When more people want meat than there is meat to be had, the scramble along the line to get it for them sends prices up. When there is more meat than there are people who want it, the scramble all along the line to get rid of it within a few days, while it is still fresh, sends prices down.

When prices of meat go up, Swift & Company not only can pay the producer more, but has to pay him more, or some other packer will.

Similarly, when prices recede all down the line Swift & Company cannot continue to pay the producer the same prices as before, and still remain in the packing business.

All the packer can do is to keep the expense of turning stock into meat at a minimum, so that the consumer can get as much as possible for his money, and the producer as much as possible for his live-stock.

Thanks to its splendid plants, modern methods, branch houses, car routes, fleet of refrigerator cars, experience and organization, Swift & Company is able to pay for live cattle 90 per cent of what it receives for beef and by-products, and to cover expense of production and distribution, as well as its profit (a small fraction of a cent per pound), out of the other 10 per cent.

B. R. T. SWITCHMAN SENT TO RUN TRAIN

CALL DIRECTORS DUMMIES

Two Bankers on N. Y. Consolidated Board Testify That They Are Not Even Stockholders.

Further testimony that partially trained and inexperienced men were employed to run overcrowded trains on the B. R. T. on Nov. 1, when the accident occurred in the Malbone Street tunnel, in which ninety-one lives were lost, was introduced yesterday at the John Doe inquiry conducted by District Attorney Lewis before Mayor Hylan, sitting as a Magistrate in the Kings County Court House, Brooklyn.

Robert Ketcham, a switchman, of 825 Thirty-seventh Street, Brooklyn, testified that he had been ordered to act as a motorman on Nov. 1 to aid in filling the place of strikers, although he had received no training as a motorman within five years and had never driven a train alone on the elevated. According to previous witnesses, employment as a switchman does not tend to qualify a man for motorman.

Ketcham said that he made twelve trips and worked about fourteen hours that day. He said he received his orders to drive a train from Division Superintendent Thomas F. Blewett. Superintendent Blewett's immediate superior is John J. Dempsey, Vice President and operating head of the B. R. T.

Officials have testified that the matter of dealing with the shortage of employes was left to Mr. Dempsey and that he had asserted he would not be greatly embarrassed in giving service by the strike. Both Mr. Dempsey and Superintendent Blewett have declined to waive immunity, so they have not been called upon as witnesses to establish the source of the order which resulted in the employment of inexperienced men as motormen.

W. S. Menden, assistant to Colonel Timothy S. Williams, President of the B. R. T., said yesterday that he attended a conference after news of the impending strike was received.

"Did you talk with Mr. Dempsey about the shortage of men?" asked District Attorney Lewis.

"Yes, and he said he could operate the road without difficulty."

Mr. Menden was questioned about a change in the plans of the curve into Malbone Street tunnel. It was originally planned, according to District Attorney Lewis, to have the outer rail five inches higher than the inner rail at the curve, but the rise of the outer rail was eventually reduced to two inches. Mr. Menden said this change was made, because this particular curve ran into a second curve in the opposite direction. A rise of five inches in the outer rail of the first curve, he said, would have created danger in running trains into the second curve in a different direction.

"Would not the five-inch elevation have resulted in consuming more power?" asked District Attorney Lewis.

"No," said the witness, "the two-inch elevation makes it necessary to use more power than the five-inch elevation would have done."

Directors Generally Dummies.

Further witnesses were called in an effort to show that the Directors of the B. R. T. subsidiaries were generally dummies, and that President Williams, Vice President Dempsey, and other officials of the system are in actual control of the entire family of corporations. Charles A. Boody, President of the People's Trust Company, and a Director of the New York Consolidated Railroad Company, said he was not a stockholder of the road, had no financial interest in it, and had never made any recommendations concerning its policy.

"I should think Colonel Williams and the Executive Committee of the B. R. T."

"Have the Directors ever made any suggestions as to the kind of motormen and the kind of cars to be used?"

"No."

W. S. Benedict, a member of the firm of Benedict & Benedict, which handles insurance for the B. R. T., said he was a Director of the New York Consolidated Railroad Company. He had consulted with Colonel Williams about financial matters affecting the road and said specific questions of policy were sometimes brought up at meetings of the Board of Directors.

G. W. Chauncey, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Mechanics Bank in Brooklyn and a Director of the New York Consolidated, said he had no financial interest in the company, had never known the Directors to make a tour of inspection of the road, and knew of no recommendations by the Directors as to the employment of men, except possibly in one or two unimportant positions.

J. J. Dick, Secretary to Vice President Dempsey, said he remembered the first visit of a committee representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who sought to interview Mr. Dempsey shortly before the strike. He said that, by direction of Mr. Dempsey, he told them Mr. Dempsey was sick, but would see them the next day. The next day, he said, Mr. Dempsey offered to meet one of them, but would not talk to the three as a committee. All thereupon left, declining to enter Mr. Dempsey's office as individuals.

The hearing was adjourned until next Tuesday to allow time for studying records of the B. R. T. and associated companies.

MOVE TO CANCEL BAN ON BUILDING HERE

Mayor's Committee Recommends the Speedy Removal of All War Board Restrictions.

WANTS ACTIVITY RESUMED

Washington Authorities Anxious to Have Peace Conditions Restored as Quickly as Possible.

The Mayor's Committee on National Defense, which was appointed to supervise all building construction of a non-war character and recently completed an organization at the Hall of Records for the purpose of handling applications for the distribution of building materials and equipment, recommended to the Non-War Construction Section of the War Industries Board at Washington yesterday that all restrictions upon building construction be removed at the earliest possible moment and that the building industry be immediately placed back upon a peace basis.

The Mayor's Committee on National Defense received on Tuesday a telegram that was sent to all Councils of National Defense and to the heads of building material manufacturing companies, asking what in their judgment would be the effect of immediately dropping all bans on distribution or manufacture. A telegram also was sent to the heads of railway and lighterage companies inquiring what the supply of transportation facilities was and whether they could handle a general movement of building materials.

Immediately there was a flood of telegrams from manufacturers who were anxious to have all the war restrictions removed immediately. There were also many telegrams of protest, especially from those who believed there was danger of a general stampede for the low supply of materials, with the result that prices would be forced to such levels as to make an uneven distribution of supplies.

The majority, however, according to Washington reports, were in favor of dropping restrictions at once. So insistent was the demand for relief from this part of the country that it was practically agreed that no action would be taken by the War Industries Board until the opinion of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense at New York was obtained. This was the telegram received by George McDonald, the chairman from the Washington authorities:

Mayor's Committee, National Defense,
Hall of Records, New York.

From the best information available here we believe that there is now available sufficient labor, fuel, transportation, and building materials to warrant the withdrawal of all restrictions on building projects. We feel it the duty of this board to aid the public and the industries to return to normal conditions as quickly as possible, and unless there be sound objections to this course by the State Councils of National Defense it is our purpose to take immediate action along this line. Will you kindly wire promptly your views and recommendations, having in mind particularly the conditions in your section of the country?

D. R. McLENNAN,
Chief Non-War Construction Section, War Industries Board.

D. R. McLennan, Chief Non-War Construction Section, War Industries Board, Washington.

Our committee thinks it most desirable to withdraw all restrictions as soon as possible. In view of your statement as to the sufficiency of labor, fuel, transportation, and building material, we can see no sound reason for retaining restrictions further. All owners and builders here have cheerfully conformed to your orders regarding building construction. We feel, however, that their interests and those of the City of New York will be best served by promptly withdrawing all restrictions so that the development of the city may be resumed and the business producing such development may be transacted unrestricted.

GEORGE McDONALD,
Chairman, Committee on Building and Construction, Mayor's Committee on National Defense.

TOP PRICE FOR SON OF SAN FRANCISCO

FEW TRIED HORSES SOLD

Winema, a Promising Young Mare Timed in 2:06¾, Is Purchased by Charles Welland.

There was another large crowd in Madison Square Garden yesterday for the Old Glory sale of light harness horses, but though the bidding was brisk for the choice lots offered and prices were well maintained, there were fewer potential stars offered and the top figure for the sale, which was reached on Tuesday, was not approached.

Yearlings which depended on their breeding alone to interest buyers again constituted the largest part of the various consignments, but the few horses with records which had already proved their worth on the trotting tracks of the country were eagerly snapped up at prices likely to render them good investments.

H. W. Hanan, the Brooklyn horseman, had the post of honor in paying the highest price of the day when he gave $2,000 for Star Shoot, a yearling bay colt by San Francisco-Silver Silk. This youngster is a half brother to Silvado, 2:08¾, and is richly bred both on the male and distaff side. His sire, San Francisco, has already made a reputation at the stud to add to his record of 2:07¾, gained in competition, while his dam, Silver Silk, stepped a mile in 2:08¾. Extreme speed is indicated by the fine lines of Star Shoot, which is engaged in most of the principal stakes. He is likely also to be seen in competition on the Metropolitan circuit, where he has every prospect of capturing many prizes for his owner.

Star Shoot is no relation to the noted thoroughbred of that name, but one of the comedy incidents of the sale was provided by the amazement of Charles Hill, trainer of Clarence H. Mackay's racers, when he was told that Star Shoot was to be sold. There was a laugh on the veteran when the high-stepping yearling was driven into the ring instead of the matured thoroughbred sire that he expected to see.

Star Shoot was the best of the remainder of the Walnut Hall Farm consignment which brought good prices, considering that many of them were the get of young sires, such as Native King and Manrico, with a sprinkling of San Francisco's to make up the lot of thirty-two. Altogether, sixty-two from Walnut Hall Farm were disposed of on Tuesday and yesterday, and they realized the fair average of $437.

Another good consignment of fairly large proportions was that of Hillandale Farm, Mamaroneck, N. Y., which is owned by W. B. Dickerman. Winema, a four-year-old mare, was the best of the lot from Mamaroneck. She has a record of 2:12¼, made last year, and has been timed in a race in 2:06¾. This fine racing prospect went to Charles Welland, an old Speedway driver, for $1,600. There were many yearlings by Atlantic Express in the Hillandale consignment, and the average for the thirteen head sold was $420.

INVITE BAKER AND DANIELS.

Secretaries of War and Navy May Attend Football Game Here.

Herbert L. Pratt, Chairman of the National Sports Committee of the United War Work Campaign, yesterday wired invitations to Secretary of War Baker and Secretary Daniels of the Navy to witness the football game at the Polo Grounds on Saturday between the Harvard Radio School and the Princeton Aviators. Mr. Pratt wired: "The Sports Committee cordially invites you to be present, trusting that you will be able to spare sufficient time from your exacting duties to spend an afternoon in viewing an exhibition of the sport which did so much to equip our land and sea forces with the physical stamina and moral courage that enabled them to emerge victorious from the great conflict.

The committee announced yesterday that men in uniform and schoolboys would be admitted to the $1 bleacher seats for 50 cents.

The first game will start at 1:30 and will bring together the Granite State eleven, which has been coached by Tom Thorp, and the Newport Naval Station team. The Granite State team has not yet been defeated. The officials for this game will be L. M. Andrews, Yale, referee; Fred Murphy, Brown, umpire, and V. A. Schwartz, Brown, linesman. These officials will also work in the Harvard-Princeton service contest with the exception of referee, W. N. Morice of Pennsylvania being chosen to act in that capacity in the second contest, which will probably start about 3 o'clock.

Words of protest have already started to come from Annapolis. The Middies claim that the men of the Great Lakes Naval Station, which plays the Middies on Saturday, are demanding odds of 5 to 1 on the game. The midshipmen maintain that this is an unreasonable proposition inasmuch as the Great Lakes crowd is claiming the service championship of the West. The Middies are more than anxious to back their eleven, but as one of them wired to THE NEW YORK TIMES last night, "We are playing football, not Wall Street."

Former gridiron stars from Eastern universities predominate in the make-up of the Camp Devens eleven from Ayer, Mass., which meets the Garden City Aviators on Saturday at Ebbets Field. Seven of Captain George Hoban's regulars formerly played with Eastern teams, two come from the University of Texas, while two had no college affiliation, but have shown enough football ability to win regular berths.

Justice Bartow S. Weeks of the New York A. C., former President and Secretary-Treasurer of the A. A. U., has been selected to fill the vacancy on the International Olympic Committee, made by the death of Evert Jansen Wendell, on Aug. 27, 1917.

CRANK LIKES HEAVY GOING.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 20.—One of the best cards of the present meeting was presented by the Southern Maryland Association this afternoon, but unfortunately the heavy track caused several of the cracks to be scratched. There were plenty of mudlarks to provide competition, however, and all the events with the exception of the feature attracted fairly large fields.

In the Standard Handicap only three went to the post, with Samuel Ross's Crack the top weight in the absence of Leochares. Both Kashmir and Slippery Elm were believed to have good chances to defeat Crank, but the latter ran one of his best races and in the hands of Buxton captured the long end of the purse with a little in reserve.

Little George Walls had a good day in the saddle. By an energetic ride in the third race he managed to land W. Cahill's Blue Thistle in front, that gelding scoring his first victory in many moons. In the sixth, also, he surprised the talent when he piloted W. Stockton's Bravado and defeated a fair field of three-year-olds. Herbert L. Pratt's Game Cock showed that he is a greatly improved horse by winning the Autumn Consolation Purse at a mile from a good field.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For maiden 2-year-olds, six furlongs. King Plaudit, 115 pounds, (W. O'Brien,) $6.70, $6.20, and $6.10, won; Vigilante, 115, (L. McAtee,) $68.80 and $24.50, second; Little Ed, 115, (T. Rice,) $15.80, third. Time—1:16 3-5. Court Gallant, Rae Samuels, Pollu, Hurricane, Hohokus, Sunstep, Miss Voski, and Clip also ran.

SECOND RACE.—For 3-year-olds and upward, claiming; one mile and a sixteenth. Flora Finch, 117 pounds, (W. Kelsay,) $28.90, $8.50, and $4.50, won; Fairly, 110, (A. Stirling,) $8.50 and $3.10, second; Sam Hill, 101, (L. Stalker,) $6.40, third. Time—1:56 4-5. Dartworth, Progressive, Dr. Charcot, Porin, Bob Redfield, Tranby, Sea Beach, and Veldt also ran.

THIRD RACE.—For 3-year-olds and upward, claiming; one mile and a sixteenth. Blue Thistle, 110 pounds, (G. Walls,) $8.10, $4.10, and $3.40, won; Luther, 110, (T. Rice,) $6.20 and $4.70, second; Ocean Prince, 114, (R. Doyle,) $5.90, third. Time—1:54 4-5. G. M. Miller, Vocabulary, Alma B., Star Craft, Edith Baumann, Hwfa, and Don Jose also ran.

FOURTH RACE.—Standard Handicap, for all ages; six and a half furlongs. Crank, 114 pounds, (M. Buxton,) $4.20, $2.50, and out, won; Kashmir, 103, (R. McCrann,) $2.40 and out, second; Slippery Elm, 105, (L. Stalker,) out for third, third. Time 1:22 1-5. Only three starters.

FIFTH RACE.—Autumn Consolation Purse, for 3-year-olds and upward; one mile. Game Cock, 102 pounds, (L. Stalker,) $6.10, $3.60, and $2.70, won; Deckmate, 108, (W. Kelsay,) $5.80 and $3.50, second; Matinee Idol, 102, (R. McCrann,) $3.60, third. Time—1:45 2-5. Trophy, Highland Lad, Minto II. and Snapdragon II. also ran.

SIXTH RACE.—For 3-year-olds, one mile and seventy yards. Bravado, 105 pounds, (G. Walls,) $19.60, $8.10, and $3.60, won; Valspar, 108, (J. Carroll,) $9.70 and $4.20, second; Fidra, 106, (L. Stalker,) $2.70, third. Time—1:51 3-5. Pepper, Grayson, Peerless One, Senator Broderick, and Ballast also ran.

FRAZEE ADVOCATES NEW COMMISSION

Owner of World's Champions Starts Campaign to Have a One-Man Court in Baseball.

Harry H. Frazee, owner of the world's champion Boston Red Sox, has started a campaign for a noe-man National Commission, in place of the board of three which now make up baseball's highest court. Frazee yesterday made known his project, and it is expected that other club owners will favor the scheme before the leagues hold their annual meetings next month.

The Boston owner believes that a man of national reputation who has no interest whatever in the game, should serve as the arbitrator of all baseball differences. The Boston owner and the officials of the Chicago National League Club, started an agitation against the commission during the world's series in Boston last Fall. At that time, there was some friction between the commission and the owner of the champions, and this feeling has grown more bitter in the meantime.

Since the signing of the National Agreement several years ago, August Herrmann of Cincinnati, owner of the Reds, has served as Chairman of the commission at a salary of about $10,000 a year. The Presidents of both major leagues also serve on the commission. The other salaried position on the board is that of Secretary, held by John E. Bruce of Cincinnati.

The commission has always given the National League two votes and the American League only one and this situation has been the cause of almost continual controversy. President Frazee of the Boston club advocates an official to serve as a commission whose verdicts would be entirely impartial. This is only one of the many inovations which are being contemplated in the executive end of the game and with the opening of the season of 1919 practically assured by the ending of the war, it is likely that there will be more than one shake-up in the executive ranks of the sport at the annual sessions early in December.

Monmouth Hounds Lead Merry Chase in New Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Nov. 20.—Following the hounds over farm and meadow lands, the Monmouth County Hunt was held today, starting at East Freehold and finishing well up near the Phalanx.

Rufus C. Finch, Master of Hounds, was mounted on his gray horse All Aboard, which, paired with his Annadale, won the blues for the best pair of hunters at the recent Madison Square Garden Horse Show. Miss Betty Thompson rode her hunter and show ring jumper, Handy Boy. Among the other riders were G. Jason Waters, Thomas S. Field, Jack Sullivan, Michael Daly, and William C. Stonebridge.

The next run will be from the Shrewsbury Station on Saturday afternoon. The club will hold its biggest meet of the season Thanksgiving at 11 o'clock, meeting at Grant Cedars, near Red Bank.

YACHTING TO BE REVIVED.

Newport Expects Navy to Return Craft to Owners.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 20.—Yachting will be resumed here next Summer largely with the smaller sailing yachts and perhaps with some of the steam craft which were turned over to the Navy at the beginning of the war which the navy will soon start returning to their owners. In some cases after the Navy removes its ordnance and other property, the owners will have their own yachts overhauled.

At the Newport shipyard there is but one of the Newport thirty-footers remaining, the Esperanza, the property of H. O. Havemeyer, the remainder of that famous fleet constructed by the Herreshoffs at Bristol.

Jekel Leads Harriers Home.

Russell Jekel led a large field of runners last night in a three-mile handicap road race held through the streets of Bushwick by the Brooklyn A. A. as part of an elaborate United War Work Campaign display. Jekel's time was 16:45. B. Falkenstein was second, and S. Hersig finished third. Eddie Mayo of Fort Slocum started from scratch and gained the fast time prize. He finished ninth in 15:17.

SEARCHLIGHT AIDS MIDDIES' PRACTICE

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 20.—Naval Academy regulations cannot be relaxed for football practice, and in spite of the fact that the midshipmen face a hard game against the Great Lakes team on Saturday, only a short practice period is accorded each afternoon.

Hardly more than a half-hour of daylight is available on the afternoons of this week, and Doble's charges have to finish their practice by searchlight and with a white ball. However, the crafty Doble, in spite of all disadvantages, is planning to spring some surprises on his opponents next Saturday. The bad luck which has been in attendance the whole season is still in evidence. Butler, the only back to lose no time from sickness or injuries up to this point, now has tonsilitis, while Roberts, another of the regular backfield men, is still in such shape that his playing is doubtful. Finally, Perry, the big guard who generally drops back to do the punting, was hurt yesterday and will lose a day or two of practice, though he is likely to be available by Saturday.

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Nov. 20.—Preparations are under way today for a special train to carry football enthusiasts from the Naval Training Station to the game on Saturday at Annapolis, Md., between the Great Lakes and Naval Academy teams.

This activity followed an order from Captain W. A. Moffett, commandant at the training station here, granting furloughs to sailors who desire to make the trip to Annapolis to see the contest. The sailors will be charged only 1 cent a mile, it was announced, thus enabling them to make the round trip for about $20. It is planned to have 100 pieces of the battalion band accompany the excursionists.

COLUMBIA PLAYS SAILORS.

Columbia's Varsity football team had a hard drill on South Field yesterday with the eleven from the Granite State. For more than an hour the Blue and White scrimmaged with the sailors, but no scoring was permitted. In breaking up Columbia's short forward passes over the line of scrimmage the sailors were very effective but they had difficulty in checking the backs on end runs and dashes off tackle.

While on the defensive Columbia was kept busy holding back the tars, who slammed play after play directly through the line. They had a forward pass which also gave the Varsity team a lot of trouble, but toward the end of the scrimmage the Columbia eleven broke it up whenever it was tried.

GARDNER LOSES TO HOPPE.

Billiard Champion Disposes of Crack Amateur Easily.

Edward Gardner fell a victim to the cue wizardry of Willie Hoppe, professional balk-line champion, when the two clashed last night in an exhibition at the Rational Recreation Academy, Brooklyn, for the benefit of the Women's Motor Corps.

CONCANNON FORGES AHEAD.

By winning both blocks yesterday, Joseph Concannon increased his advantage over John Layton in their 1,200 points pocket billiards match at Daly's Academy. Concannon won the afternoon block in nine innings with a score of 100 to 55, making a high run of 32. Layton's highest break was 20.

In the evening Concannon was again victorious, this time by a score of 100 to 96 in eleven innings.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—Negotiations were concluded today for a game between the University of Pittsburgh and Cleveland Naval Reserve football elevens here Nov. 30.

AVIATORS TROUNCE ARMED GUARDSMEN

The Garden City Air Service, Field No. 2, football eleven trounced the Armed Guard yesterday in a hard fought game at Garden City, by the score of 16 to 6. The contest was played on a slippery and treacherous gridiron but despite this produced plenty of spectacular plays.

The Garden City flyers were on the offensive for the greater part of the game but met a stubborn defense by the sailor eleven. In the first quarter, the jackies jumped to a lead when Carroll, fullback, recovered a fumble and raced 20 yards for a touchdown. Dowling, on a fake forward pass, ran 65 yards through a broken field for a Garden City touchdown in the second quarter, and when Blaine kicked goal the fliers took the lead.

Later in this period Boyer took a forward pass from Todd and scored another touchdown for the aviators after a run of 25 yards. Blaine again kicked goal. In the third quarter a sailor safety gave the fliers their other points.

The line-up:

"Roll Your Own"

Good News from Washington

Part of "BULL" DURHAM Tobacco Released to Civilians at Home to "Roll Their Own"

—With the little muslin sack of "BULL" DURHAM in the pockets of every one of our fighting men on land and sea—

—And with the future demands of the War Department abundantly cared for, part of "BULL" DURHAM Tobacco is offered again to the men at home who "roll their own".

And to these men we want to say, that in giving up so freely all your "Bull," when your Country asked for it for its fighting men, you did a human "bit." However small that little muslin sack may seem, you may have the satisfaction of knowing that your sack of "Bull" was meat and drink to some boy waiting or fighting at the front, and that your supply of "Bull" helped to make the distribution to our forces full and complete, and make it quickly. Now that Washington assures us that such distribution is a fact, you will welcome the "Makings" home again.

And with greater satisfaction and more pleasure than ever, you will, we know, with your own hands, roll a cigarette again for yourself—a cigarette machines can't imitate—the mildest, the most fragrant, the most economical cigarette in the world.

Are we wrong in thinking that you will be as proud as we are of your little muslin sack of "Bull"?

SERGE PROKOFIEFF A VIRILE PIANIST

HIS FINGERS LIKE STEEL

He Has Speed and Surety, but a Narrow Gamut of Dynamics. All "Crash" or Whisperings.

New ears for new music! The new ears were necessary to appreciate the new music made by Serge Prokofieff in his first pianoforte recital at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon. He is younger looking than his years, which are patriarchal, almost twenty-seven. He is biond, slender, modest as a musician, and his impassibility contrasted with the volcanic eruptions he produced on the keyboard. We have already one musical anarch here, Leo Ornstein, yet that youth's "Wild Man's Dance" is a mere exercise in euphony, a piece positively Mozartian, in comparison with the astounding disharmonies gentle Serge extorted from his suffering pianoforte; the young man's style is orchestral, and the instruments of percussion rule in his Scythian drama.

He is an individual virtuoso with a technique all his own. He can create big sonorities, sometimes mellow to richness, more often brittle and raucous. His fingers are steel, his wrists steel, his biceps and triceps steel, his scapula steel. He is a tonal steel trust. He has speed, surely, but a narrow gamut of dynamics, all crash or whisperings; no tonal gradations, with a special aptitude in the performance of double notes, octaves and chords taken at a dizzy tempo, again orchestral, all this. It is for Prokofieff the mere breaking of a butterfly on a wheel to play other men's music. But the gracious butterfly of Scriabine was metamorphosed into a gigantic prehistoric pterodactyl with horrid snout and crocodile wings which ominously whirred as they flew over the pianist. Ah! a Jabberwock, it was, not a butterfly!

He played in addition to his own music three preludes of Rachmaninoff—who was in the audience—and two etudes of Scriabine, one in C sharp minor, the other in D sharp minor, (Dis Moll,) and introduced here by Josef Hofmann, which he plays in the grand manner without shattering its syntax or our ear-drums. It is really, this study, in echo of Chopin's D minor prelude and not so poetic. One of the Rachmaninoff preludes in G minor is also a Hofmann favorite. Prokofieff did not play it like Hofmann. He is not that sort of a virtuoso. His treatment of trifles is brutal. But unquestionably a virile pianist.

As a composer he is cerebral. His music is volitional and essentially cold, as are all cerebral composers. At first you are stunned by the overwhelming quality of his music; presently a pattern is noted. The lyric themes are generally insipid. The etude-form, and there is a well-defined one, predominates. Immense technical difficulties deafen one to the intrinsic poverty of ideas in his music. The four etudes have in a nutshell his style; the sonata, a second one, contains no sustained musical development, the first allegro being a mosaic, violent in transitions, in moods rather monotonous; but in the scherzo he swept everything before him with its tremendous rhythmic urge. Again, the etude scheme. His sonata form is rather negligible, the very formal virtue which Scriabine possesses. Scriabine evidently has been an inspiration to this gifted young man. The finale of the work evoked visions of a charge of Mammoths on some vast immemorial Asiatic plateau. Rebikoff seems a miniaturist after this.

Prokofieff uses, like Arnold Schoenberg, the entire modern harmonies. The abuse of Bondage of normal key relationships is discarded. He is a psychologist of the uglier emotions—hatred, contempt, rage—above all rage—disgust, despair, mockery, and defiance legitimately serve as models for moods. Occasionally there are moments of tenderness exquisite jewels that briefly sparkle and then melt into seething undertow. The danger in all this highly spiced music is manifest; it soon exhausts our faculty of attention; Pelion must be piled on Ossa, else the lights burn dimmer. His scale scheme is omnitonic—or is it emphatic? But now and then we get a glimpse of a recondite region, of a No Man's Land wherein wander enigmatic and fascinating figures, an unearthly landscape, an atmosphere, murky and luminous, but painted in the bold, feverish strokes of a canvas by Boris Anisfeld. We confess that we anticipate novel things in the Prokofieff concerto for pianoforte, which he has played for Harold Bauer; also something new in his symphony, which we are to hear next month at a concert of the Russian Symphony Orchestra. The gavotte he gave yesterday is one of the movements, certainly it is symphonic in tone. His "Suggestion Diabolique," which, barring several encores, closed the afternoon, derives from Liszt—the B minor dance in Lenau's "Faust."

A parterre of pianists greeted the newcomer with dynamic applause. Of his instant success there can be no doubt. Whether he will last—Ah! New music for new ears. Serge Prokofieff is very startling.

'THE ELIXIR OF LOVE' SUNG.

Caruso, Scotti, and Hempel in Donizetti's Sparkling Comedy.

"L'Elisir d'Amore," that sparkling lyric comedy of Donizetti, was sung last night in Italian for the first time this season at the Metropolitan Opera House. With a cast that comprised such names as Caruso, Scotti, Didur, and Frieda Hempel there was little danger that the original wine would prove "corked," to employ a subtle anti-prohibition term. There was throughout an atmosphere of rollicking humor that put the large audience into a happy frame of mind. Caruso, to begin with, was in madcap spirits. The Italian Tony Lumpkin that he so cleverly enacts is an absurd character, but Caruso makes him credible as well as likable. He played the rôle in the key of low comedy, but did not underline his sallies and carried off each scene with a light hand. It was excellent foolery, to which only an Italian knows the secret. He was in fine vocal condition and in the concerted music as in "Quanté bella" and the famous "Una furtiva lagrima." His impersonation was heartily enjoyed and his singing enthusiastically applauded.

Alice Hempel, very pretty, slimmer than last season, and in brilliant voice, was vivacious and a comedian to her finger tips. She, too, was warmly greeted. Scotti, as the fiery Sergeant, was in a familiar part, which he played and sang with his accustomed finish. An amusing Dr. Dulcamara was Adamo Didur, who sang with gusto and the appropriate buffoonery in the old popular duo, "Io sono ricio," with Miss Hempel as his charming associate. The chorus and orchestra were in tiptop form, and Conductor Papi made all his points.

The last "drive" of the United War Workers was successfully carried over the top, and Signor Guglielmo Guardi introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Simmons.

Robert B. Mantell Acts Shylock.

Robert B. Mantell's familiar portrait of Shylock was seen for the first time during his present engagement last night at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. Genevieve Hamper was the Portia. "The Merchant of Venice" will be repeated tonight, and tomorrow night Mr. Mantell will be seen as Macbeth.

ROCHESTER DAILIES STOP.

ROCHESTER, Nov. 20.—For the first time in the history of the city Rochester was without local newspapers today on account of the strike. Indications tonight point to a settlement of the strike of the allied printing trades, although the men voted to stay out until all demands were granted. The President of the Stereotypers International Union was the first official to reach the city. He declared the stereotypers had no right to strike and ordered the men back to work. The men prepared to comply with the order, but were unable to accomplish anything on account of the other departments being out.

First Vice President Barrett of the International Typographical Union arrived here tonight, and a conference was called for 8 o'clock. While it is probable that no morning papers will be issued, it is declared that Barrett bears word from President Scott of the International Typographical Union in which he says the Rochester men are wrong, and that they must go back to work at once.

WANT EX-KAISER PUNISHED.

United Presbyterians Ask That He Be Tried for Crimes.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 20.—A resolution adopted by the Cleveland Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church, in session here today, insists upon the punishment of the Kaiser before peace terms are signed. The text of the resolution, which was voted to be sent to President Wilson, follows:

"In view of the awful atrocities committed by the Kaiser and his military cohorts, we insist that they be tried before a court of justice and punished for their crimes before peace terms are signed."

SON'S GIFT TO PERSHING.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 20.—Warren Pershing, little son of General John J. Pershing, took into consideration the average soldier's penchant for sweets when he sent his father's Christmas presents this season. The General's Christmas box, which has gone forward from the boy's home in Lincoln, to New York, for shipment to Europe, contained a layer of chocolates, a layer of candied fruit, a knife, three linen handkerchiefs and a pair of silk socks.

DANIELS PRESSES FOR A GREAT NAVY

WAR ESTIMATE TO BE CUT

Secretary Says Expenditures, Especially for Guns and Men, Will Be Reduced Considerably.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Secretary Daniels appeared before the House Naval Affairs Committee today and explained that he would press the continuation of the three-year naval building program despite the end of the war and the possibility that the peace conference would limit international armament. The completion of the first three-year program and the carrying out of his present recommendations would give the American fleet thirty-two new capital ships or fifty-one dreadnoughts, which would place the navy of this country in second place, and close to Great Britain.

The policy of the Navy Department toward further armament was given to the committee in executive session after Republican members yesterday had seriously objected to the announced plans of the Government to expend more next year in increasing the navy than was done last year in the war period.

Mr. Daniels explained that the estimates had been prepared in September, when peace was not in sight, and contemplated the equipment of the navy for another year's war. He said that the estimates amounting to $2,400,000,000 would be scaled down greatly, especially in ordnance and personnel. The expenditures called for a navy of 700,000 men, while it is not intended, he said, to keep the navy in peace time at more than half that strength, including the men to be used in the merchant service.

In reply to questions as to why he advocated the policy of expanding the navy in face of the possible creation of the League to Enforce Peace, Mr. Daniels said that it was desirable to have a navy which would be thoroughly representative of the nation, and place it in a position to cope with the fleets of other world powers. The impression given by the Secretary was that the United States and Great Britain would be the major sea powers in the League of Nations, and that their navies would be expected to police the seas and maintain peace.

Republican objectors to the expenditure of so much money seemed to be greatly impressed with his statement. There were only four Republicans and one Democrat at the meeting today, and therefore no policy was arrived at as to the appropriation for the three-year program. One of the leading members said that the Republicans finally would be united, and while they would not oppose the building up of the navy, if it was necessary, they would demand that all building activities cease for a year, or until the peace conference should decide upon the armament question.

An attempt probably will be made to authorize the Secretary of the Navy to continue the building program at the end of the peace conference in case the limitation placed on armament permits the American Navy to be expanded.

SHIP NEWS BAN STILL ON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—It developed tonight that the removal of the censorship ban on news pertaining to the war was not broad enough to permit the publication of all news respecting merchant and warship movements. It was learned that an order had been issued to officers of the Naval Communication Service directing them to see that the press did not print items regarding certain ship movements.

It was explained by a high naval officer that what the new order sought to accomplish was to prevent the publication of any news regarding the movement of vessels operated by the United States Government or the United States Shipping Board. It was further explained that, at the request of the British Government, news of the movements of British vessels was not to be printed, except when authorized, and that the communication officers at New York and other ports would from night to night indicate the names of such arriving and departing British ships as the British Government was willing to have printed. It was explained that the ban against publication of ship movements did not apply to merchant marine vessels not in the classes specified.

HARVARD TO RESUME ACADEMIC WORK

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—In view of the fact that the Government has announced that men now in officers' training camps may exercise their option between remaining in the camps and receiving an honorable discharge from the army, Harvard University has made prompt provision for the new enrollment of students. This is possible from the fact that, in addition to the military training, the ordinary academic organization and instruction have been kept in operation throughout the war.

On Tuesday the faculty of arts and sciences decided that properly qualified students would be permitted to begin or resume study in Harvard College immediately. They are urged to return as soon as possible and the last date for registration will be Friday, Nov. 29, at 9 A. M. Those who are unable to register at this time will have an opportunity to take up their work on Dec. 30, the day on which the second term begins.

The Law School, Divinity School, the School of Business Administration, and the School of Architecture are also prepared to admit students who apply at once.

In addition to men from camps, it is expected that men in the navy will also be released in large numbers.

No official order for the demobilization of the students' army training camps at Columbia University, New York University, the City College, or other institutions here had been received yesterday, but faculty members said it had been indicated unofficially that some order for cessation of training or modification to permit students to resume their regular academic work would be sent out soon from the War Department. All the colleges are ready to continue their regular academic work as soon as the demobilization order is given.

"All the regular courses at Columbia College and all the other departments at Columbia have been continued through the war despite the falling off in attendance through the operation of the draft and the officers' training camps," said Frank D. Fackenthal, the Secretary of Columbia University. "If the Columbia students were mustered out of our training camp tomorrow they could resume academic work immediately. Some courses have been suspended or merged, but they are few and the university is prepared to continue all its work of education on pre-war scale and standards of efficiency."

Some of the students in the Columbia S. A. T. C. continued their academic work as far as their military duties permitted, it was said, and would be able to resume their courses with no loss of time or credit leading toward their degrees. Many of the courses given in the military program are in the regular curriculum of the university, and men discharged honorably from the training camp resume their academic status.

In other colleges where women are admitted most of the courses have been continued and the soldiers who are mustered out may go back to their studies without delay. All the professional and business schools have been kept open in all the colleges and none of the faculties has been dispersed, so that all the institutions are ready to go on.

EXPRESS RATES RAISED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—General increases in express rates were announced today by Director General McAdoo of the Railroad Administration. East of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers the new rates on merchandise will be 16 or 17 cents a hundred pounds more than at present. The increase in food rates will be about 75 per cent. as much. For the remainder of the country the merchandise rate will be increased by from 10 to 12 cents a hundred pounds, and the increase in food rates will be proportionately 75 per cent.

The new order, effective January 1, will raise about $24,000,000 additional revenue, half of which the American Railway Express Company, before it was taken over entirely by the Government, had planned to distribute among employes in higher wages. The wage question is now before the Railroad Administration's Board of Wages and Working Conditions.

"It is expected," said a Railroad Administration announcement, "that the increased express rates will have the effect of transferring considerable of the short haul business to motor trucks and back to the freight service, where it really should be handled, also the transferring of some of the smaller packages to parcel post."

The reason for making the rate increase greater in Eastern territory, it is stated, is that hauls there are shorter and city delivery and terminal service, necessarily expensive, proportionately higher. The increases may be reviewed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

THE INSTRUCTIONS.

Commissioners sent to attend peace conferences receive instructions and what are called full powers from the Governments they represent. Commissioners or delegates sent by the United States to the coming peace conference at Paris will receive instructions from the President. But President WILSON, outranking all appointed delegates, will himself attend the conference. There is no one to instruct him. His own opinions will be his instructions. It will not be denied, however, that he goes to the conference as a representative of the Government and the people of the United States. His actions should be guided, his decisions controlled, by the will of the people he represents.

If, reconsidering his unfortunate purpose to take personal part in the conference, the President should remain at Washington he would be in a way to inform himself of the state of public opinion concerning the terms of the final treaty. He could ascertain what the people thought, as Presidents do, by consultation with members of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Senate and with other Senators and Representatives, by the speech of people, from the public press, and from the multitude of individual communications that flow into the White House. But how can Mr. WILSON, 3,000 miles away, find out what the people think about the treaty? He will be in daily conference with his own subordinates, all extraordinarily deferential to his opinions. He is likely to learn little from them. From the usual and sufficient sources of information as to the public view in the United States he will be completely cut off. The seizure of the cables and the alarming information given out at Washington as to the dissemination of news of the conference raise doubts whether our people will not also be pretty effectually cut off from Paris.

There is another difficulty, and one of no little moment. Mr. WILSON goes to Paris, it is generally understood, to impress upon the conference his own views concerning the freedom of the seas and the League of Nations. As the representative of the American people he ought to know the prevailing opinion upon those undoubtedly important matters. Who can say what is the prevailing opinion? They are subjects of controversy. In his address to Congress on Jan. 8 the President proclaimed this principle as to the first of these questions:

> Absolute freedom of navigation upon the seas, outside territorial waters, alike in peace and in war, except as the seas may be closed in whole or in part by international action for the enforcement of international covenants.

The allied nations have made express reservation as to this principle, which is one of the fourteen points. It is not of universal acceptance here, for it goes beyond the latest authoritative American declaration concerning freedom of the seas, that issued by the representatives of this Government at The Hague Conference in 1909. It is asserted that, had the regulation been enforced during the war just ended by the armistice, the allied nations would have never been able to conquer Germany; through Holland and the Scandinavian countries she would have received unhindered foodstuffs and supplies sufficient to meet her needs. The application of this principle would have prolonged indefinitely our civil war. Mr. WILSON's new principle may be sound and right; it has not yet been justified to the American people in any sense warranting its presentation at Paris as their doctrine. There is much disagreement about the League of Nations, general ignorance as to what it is to be like. While we believe that the great majority of the American people favor the principle, since like the rest of the world we are tired of war, there is no understanding of how the principle is to be applied, how the league is to be constituted, how far membership would involve the surrender of sovereign rights, and how the decrees of the league are to be enforced. How can Mr. WILSON at Paris, or even at Washington, know what the American people think about these two momentous questions when as yet they do not themselves know what they think about them?

This nation does not know what Mr. WILSON, presenting himself as its representative at the conference, is going to say or do. Is not the President putting himself in a position of some peril? Questions as to the source from which he derives his full powers and his instructions, should a delegate of any other Power have the temerity to ask such questions, would be exceedingly awkward. Moreover, guided only by his own reasoning, for which undeniably the country has profound respect, since it is usually so just and sound, conclusions reached by him at Paris and actually embodied in the treaty might conceivably be rejected by the Senate of the United States in obedience to public opinion formed here in the President's absence. That would be deplorable, nobody wants it to happen.

This deplorable thing may happen if the President and the people remain in mutual ignorance of each other's views. In his address of Sept. 27 in this city Mr. WILSON declared "that this is a people's war, not a "statesmen's. Statesmen must follow "the clarified common thought or be "broken." "Assemblies and associations of many kinds," he continued, "made up of plain workaday people "have demanded, almost every time "they came together, and are still de"manding, that the leaders of their "Governments declare to them plain"ly what it is, exactly what it is, "that they are seeking in this war, "and what they think the items of "the final settlement should be." If there has been any exact definition of what the leading statesman of this country thinks should be written into the final treaty concerning the freedom of the seas and the League of Nations it has not come to the public knowledge. We do not think we have need to pursue this subject further to make it reasonably clear that there is much to be done before the President of the United States sets out for Paris as a representative of the American people at the peace conference.

CONGRESS SHOULD "RESUME ITS NORMAL FUNCTION."

The resolution adopted by the caucus of Republican Senators "that the "Congress shall assert and exercise "its normal and constitutional function, including legislation necessary "for reconstruction," expresses an intention which should not be opposed by Democratic Senators. Congress gave up a great deal of its power to the Executive for the patriotic purpose of pushing the war. But the war is over, and Congress would fail in its duty if it continued in times of peace the policy it pursued in the bloody and dangerous time just passed.

If there should be among the Democrats any Senators foolish enough to dissent from this proposal of the Republicans, we presume that they will base their dissent on the fact that, though the war is over, reconstruction is not. But that is an argument for, not against, the resolution of the Republican Senators. It is in the work of reconstruction that the powers committed to Congress are peculiarly necessary. In time of war it becomes necessary to centralize authority, to sacrifice everything to the winning of the war, but no such necessity appears in times of reconstruction, and the people are very jealous of their Constitution, with its threefold Government. They will not be pleased with any party or any set of public officials who, under any pretext whatever, attempt to continue the autocratic power with which the people willingly vested the executive officers of the Government so long as the country was actually in danger.

There are some officials, Mr. BURLESON for example, who seem to think not only that these extraordinary powers are to be continued, but that they are to be actually increased. This is a great mistake. The people are entirely satisfied with the republican form of government under which they have lived for many years, and if it is much meddled with they will express their displeasure in a way that cannot be mistaken.

MR. ASQUITH ON THE ELECTION.

Mr. ASQUITH, head of the official Liberals, clothes his brow with an almost amusing gloom when he says in an election speech that it would be "both a blunder and a calamity that "the country should be plunged into "the tumult of the general election" at this time. Now "the whole future "international development of the "world is in the crucible." The official Liberals are a little hard to please. While the war was going on they were certain that an election would be a blunder and a calamity. Now the war is over they remain of the same opinion. Mr. ASQUITH says that the soldiers in the field will be unable to vote. On Oct. 24 Mr. HAYES FISHER, then President of the Local Government Board, said that that body "had "done everything it could to secure "that the greatest possible number of "sailors and soldiers should get upon "the register and be able to vote." He believed that "the great majority of "the men who were entitled to vote "would find themselves upon the "register." It was true that "unless the soldiers could be stabilized "for a time an enormous number of "them would not be able to give effective votes."

One would suppose that the armistice must have promoted that stabilization. Nominations are to be made on Dec. 4, ten days before the polling. A bill before Parliament allows the counting to be postponed until Dec. 28. When the Representation of the People act was passed only eight days were allowed for the receipt of the ballot papers of absent voters after the close of the polls in England. Notice was given on Nov. 14 that the proclamation summoning a new Parliament would be issued on Nov. 25. According to Mr. FISHER, "the advice of experts was that at least "eight days' notice should be given "before the issue of the Royal Proclamation." Eleven days' notice has been given. According to Mr. HERBERT SAMUEL, a distinguished Asquith Liberal, "a sufficient notice of intention to dissolve Parliament was necessary if large numbers of soldiers "were not to be disfranchised." Mr. ASQUITH must maintain that eleven days' notice is not sufficient.

He mournfully declares that a House of Commons elected in the present circumstances and without the votes of the soldiers, as he assumes, "will be "of such a nature as to lack the right "authority." Late in September Mr. ASQUITH, speaking in Manchester, said that "we have a House of Com"mons in whose veins the old blood "is drying. And the new blood is not "free to flow." Whence is the new blood to come if not from the new and greatly increased electorate? A general election, he said, should not be held "until the war was either over "or in sight of the end." The end came sooner than he expected, so he has had to find a new objection to an election which the official Liberal Party and its press "view with alarm." Mr. LLOYD GEORGE, with no party of his own, has some strength with all parties. Mr. ASQUITH promises to support "any party" that has a progressive reconstruction policy. It is not a party but a coalition that is and will be continued in power. Remembering his own extrusion from the Premiership, Mr. ASQUITH cannot be expected to dote on Mr. GEORGE; but, on the whole, he has behaved most patriotically and magnanimously, and will so behave in the next House.

PLACEHOLDERS BY THE MILLION.

If so worthy and useful an organization as the National Civil Service Reform League will forgive us for saying so, the decision of its Executive Committee to appoint a special committee to devise a plan to keep "the evils of political control" out of the railroad, telegraph, telephone, cable, and express services so long as the Government runs them contemplates altogether too weak a remedy against an enormous danger. If the State Socialists at Washington are allowed to have their way and continue in peace the Government's administration of the great services of transportation and communication; if those two million or more of employés are to become civil servants, the introduction of civil service rules will not prevent nor palliate the use of those millions as a political machine.

It would be difficult to dislodge an Administration and a Congress that satisfied the demands of this army of employés. A Government in charge of the telegraph and cable system could manufacture and direct or color news and opinions. Its well-paid and continually growing force of two million could be depended upon not to strike the hand that fed them.

The National Civil Service Reform League does well to call public attention to "the grave danger" to popular institutions existing" in Government administration of these vast and vital public activities; but the right and only sure way of avoiding "political control" is to end, as soon as possible, subject to existing engagements, Government control of those activities. It is poison to democratic self-government.

METZ.

How different the French Army that marched into Metz on Tuesday with bands playing and flags streaming from the army that fought bravely but unavailingly at Vionville and Gravelotte in 1870, only to surrender at last in humiliation and despair! What a contrast between the leaders of those armies! In the battles that preceded the investment of Metz in the former war the French Army was defective in organization and always at a loss to take advantage of its casual successes. At Colombey BAZAINE, who had the post of a Marshal but not the skill and ardent courage that a French Marshal should have, signally failed to use his superiority in numbers, 50,700 rifles to 30,500, to rout the audacious MANTEUFFEL, who had manoeuvred himself into an apparently hopeless position. It was the same at Vionville, (Mars-la-Tour,) where BAZAINE himself was almost taken by the enemy. On that battlefield he had twice as large a force as the Germans in the morning, and, when the latter were reinforced in the afternoon, the French still had a great superiority, 83,000 rifles to 47,000. These battles were full of surprises for both sides, the intelligence departments being very much at fault; but the French, often on the eve of success and a decision, were badly handled and their valor was wasted. The men in the ranks were splendid, the high command was incompetent. But it must be said that the training of the French Army of that time was far below the standard of today. The defense of Metz by BAZAINE was an awful example of bad judgment and vacillation. His sorties were ill-timed and lamely conducted. They proved to be forlorn hopes, because the troops had no confidence in their commander. OLLIVIER in "The Franco-Prussian War" says of two of BAZAINE'S worst exhibitions of feeble leadership:

> On Aug. 16, at Resonville, we had the superiority in numbers and position, we were actually victorious, and if BAZAINE, with a blindness deserving of never-ending tears, had not given the order to retreat to an army which he should have thrown forward upon an enemy poorly placed and entangled in gorges and ravines, we should have scored one of those triumphs which put an end to wars. Again, on Aug. 18, at St. Privat, if the Guard and artillery reserve had been thrown in by BAZAINE and BOURBAKI, to cut through the centre the insane enveloping movement of the Germans, or to wipe out the Prussian Guard already decimated by CANROBERT, we should have found again on that day the good fortune that we were unable to grasp on the 16th.

Shut up in Metz for fifty-four days, the French Army, nearly 100,000 strong, was at last reduced to eating its cavalry and artillery horses. The surrender had been a bitter memory for forty-seven years, until another Marshal of France entered the redeemed city at the head of a victorious army. A superb army it was; well-nigh perfect in organization, trained to the last degree of efficiency, trusting its leaders, who knew no such word as fail, and commanded by the silent, inflexible, and undaunted PETAIN, who in the defense of Verdun of imperishable memory had made no mistakes, never faltered, and was always captain of his soul. Proudly the poilus must have swung through the streets of Metz, once the reproach of the French Army and now its glory.

THE FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN.

The only news about the oversubscription of the Fourth Liberty Loan is the exact figures—$6,989,047,000—nearly seven billions, and 116 per cent. of the amount asked. There is nothing in financial history to match it, and every part of the country shares the credit of subscribing as our soldiers fought, almost. It is doubtless the last war loan. The next loan will be a victory or a peace loan, and there may be several of them, but different. Our war finance has taken a course in fortunate contrast with that of other countries. They had no opportunity for deliberation and no early period of enrichment.

That the war should last through four years of such enormous expenditures was given to no man to foresee. KITCHENER'S estimate of three years was thought excessive when made. The result was that the war was financed abroad mostly with short-term Government paper or even with bank credits. If the war had lasted only a year or two and had been of the magnitude of other wars, that would have been good finance. Events took another course, and we were so deluged with foreign gold and saw such signs of the portentous proportion of the world struggle that we financed the war from the beginning with long-term Government bonds and a minimum of bank credit, despite some inflation. The result is that now we have little refunding to do, and can manage the rest of the war finance with short-term loans.

It is not to be forgotten that a twenty-five-year loan requires interest equal to the original principal. The burden upon the taxpayers is undesirable, and the absorption of commercial funds in Government finance means short commons for business. A moderate amount of national debt may be a national blessing, but Americans prefer to pay their debt down in order to leave the people with their own money. The cessation of the output of long-term bonds tends to give them a scarcity value in no distant time, and probably would not prevent the flotation of short-term bonds even at a slightly higher rate of interest without increasing the discount on existing issues, or even preventing its ultimate disappearance.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

If ever a flag went down in what seemed hopeless defeat it was the black, red and gold flag raised by the German revolutionists of '48. Indeed, so far was that revolution from attaining success that it hardly deserves a better name than revolt. The men who took part in it recognized that the liberty won in one or another degree in all other parts of Europe could not be attained in Germany. Some of them fled to lands where patriots more fortunate or made of sterner stuff had fought through their fight with autocracy, and the rest apparently gave up in despair and soon became indistinguishable from the great mass of Germans who were quite content with government on the feudal plan.

Something, however, of the spirit, or at any rate something of the memories, of '48 must have survived, silent and concealed, in Germany, for again the black, red and gold flag has been raised in Berlin, and apparently it has been accepted as a properly significant standard by the men who are now exercising a precarious and avowedly temporary power in place of the fugitive Kaiser. The omen is not auspicious. It is a long time since 1848, and much water has passed under political bridges since then. What the men of that day wanted—what would have contented them—no longer comprises all that liberty and free institutions have come to mean, and while the use of the old flag might be taken as an indication that the aspirations of seventy years ago have never died in Germany, there is danger that it will be interpreted as evidence that the democrats of Germany, as democrats, are as much behind the times as are its monarchists as monarchists.

Writers Who Took Two Payments.

Sincere sympathy—streaked with a little of the enjoyment found in the misfortunes of friends when the misfortunes are not too severe—will be given to The Atlantic Monthly and other estimable periodicals that have been buying and printing articles written by hired agents of the Brewers' Association. Some of these articles were sufficiently interesting to make it easy to understand why the editors accepted them. The brewers did not waste their money on incompetent scribblers, but selected their literary defenders with skill.

Against such guile as this even the wisest and most suspicious of editors would not have an always trustworthy defense, and those who were thus themselves deceived cannot be justly criticised for having in turn deceived their readers. That they did so, however, is a fact, lamentable and humiliating, for had it been known and revealed that the authors of the articles in question were in receipt of salaries from the brewers, while their productions might still have been published on their merits, they would have been read from a wholly different point of view. The lawyer who makes out the best case he can for his client may be perfectly honest, but his speech is not expected to tell both sides of that case and is accepted for what it is. If the retainer were secret, though he said precisely the same things, he would not be honest and those who heard him would be deceived. The press agents of the brewers departed from honesty in the same way.

Of Course He Thought of the Park.

In response to the Mayor's request for suggestions for a "Victory Arch," RODMAN WANAMAKER has offered the sketch that was reproduced in THE TIMES yesterday. Mr. WANAMAKER presumably did his best, and, as is well known, angels can do no more than that.

Criticism of the monument he evolved can be left to the art critics. Here it is only necessary to express the firm opinion that Central Park is not the place for Mr. WANAMAKER'S arch or for the arch of anybody else. Experience has taught us not to be surprised that his first thought was of the Park as the site for his creation, but experience should have taught him that he wouldn't be allowed to put it there—certainly not without having had the fight of his life against a very articulate and determined part of the New York public.

That the victorious termination of the war should have an appropriate exemplification in bronze or marble is true. With that everybody will agree. But Central Park is not the place for it. Better and far better would it be to execute at last the long-planned water gate on the river front before Grant's Tomb. That, now, would be a noble achievement.

Luxemburg's Future.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The statement about the future of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, quoted in today's TIMES from Lausanne, is, assuredly, misleading. The great majority of the people of that little country are eager to be free, not only from the irksome German occupation but from all relations with Germany as respects customs and transportation. First and foremost, they want independence. With that achieved, undoubtedly their next step would be economic affiliation with Belgium, from whose government they were severed by the Treaty of 1839, made for, and not by them, and with whose fortunes theirs were identified for centuries. They like France and always have, but they are far more akin to Belgium in opinions and in character. Several periodicals are supported by Luxemburgers outside of the Grand Duchy—where all free speech has been throttled since 1914—and the sentiment expressed is patently Belgian, although many of the 2,000 volunteers have fought with the French army, because it was easier to join it. Whether the Grand Duchess will hold her own is doubtful amid the falling crowns of Europe. But it may prove that she is, as she said at her inauguration in 1912, Luxemburger first of all and less German than her court has been. The assertion that she was betrothed to Rupert of Bavaria is entirely erroneous. She has persistently refused all Teutonic suitors. It was her young sister Antoinette who accepted that elderly Bavarian widower. She is but seventeen and yielded to the pressure of her mother. But being the fourth of the six sisters, her marriage was of no importance to Luxemburg, which will work out her own salvation at last, instead of being a ward of the powers. If over-small for the independence it desires, Luxemburg will choose its own connection—undoubtedly with its ancient comrade, Belgium.

RUTH PUTNAM.

One Trouble with "Ypres Square."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With reference to the letter of John A. Stewart in your issue of today respecting the proposal to petition the Board of Aldermen to change the name of Greeley Square to Ypres Square, I beg to enter an emphatic protest against the idea. My objection is based entirely on the ground of unsuitability of the word Ypres, by reason of the difficulty that the great majority of people would have in pronouncing the name properly. Do not let us give our French friends any excuse to refuse to join the league of nations because we proclaim that we cannot pronounce their language.

WALTER E. ALLEN.

An Appeal for a Needy Family.

For years Mr. R. had been a dependable worker, a devoted husband and the best of fathers, when suddenly he began to drink heavily and was seized with violent delusions. Now he is in a hospital for the insane, and his wife is trying to keep up the fight to feed, clothe, and shelter their two little ones. The Charity Organization Society asks for $108, which will help Mrs. R. for a long time to come. Contributions should be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street. Acknowledgments will be promptly mailed.

THE DAY.

Are hushed before the slowly deepening flush
That mounts the East. The terrified, quick rush
So are they stilled, the hoarsely barking guns

ENEMY PROPAGANDA BACKED BY BREWERS

MANY FIRMS BLACKLISTED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Evidence that linked brewing interests with German propaganda was brought out today before the Senate Judiciary Committee in its investigation into the activities of the brewers in buying up newspapers and in other ways attempting to influence public opinion.

Major E. Lowry Humes, who is conducting the investigation for the committee, drew from Hugh H. Fox of New York, Secretary of the United States Brewers' Association, that in the offices of the organization there had been prepared in 1915 a statement to go out under the name of Dr. Hexamer, head of the German-American Alliance, opposing the shipment of munitions to the Allies.

Details of the method of applying the brewers' blacklist against concerns which advocated prohibition were also revealed through the evidence of Mr. Fox. The latter resented the use of the word "boycott" as employed by Major Humes in referring to the blacklist. Mr. Fox insisted that the list was only used to protect the brewers, and was a legitimate weapon.

Major Humes opened the way for the evidence as to the relation between the brewers and German propaganda by producing a statement from the Brewers' Association's offices. It bore a caption "A proposed statement of the President of the German-American Alliance." Major Humes read from the statement, the import of which was an appeal to German-Americans to be loyal to the United States, but which, later in its text, developed into a protest against allowing shipments of munitions to the Allies. "German-Americans must be loyal to the United States," the statement read in part. "No matter how any one may sympathize with Germany, at any time the interests of the United States are threatened German-Americans must stand by this country."

Blowing up munitions plants was condemned as sabotage, and German-Americans were urged to discourage any such acts of violence.

"But," the statement went on, "it does not appear as those acts have been inspired by German or Austrian authorities."

The shipment of munitions to the Allies, the statement proceeded, could be no less opposed to the neutrality of the United States than the refusal to allow munitions to go to Germany.

Major Humes asked Mr. Fox if he had not known of the preparation of this statement, and if it was not absolute evidence of the relation of the brewers' interests with German propaganda.

"I did not know any such statement was prepared in our offices," replied the witness. "Whether it would show any relation between the brewers and the German propagandists I doubt very much."

"But don't you consider it rather significant that it came from your office, and was prepared there for the head of the German-American Alliance?" insisted Major Humes.

"I cannot recall that, but it might have been done," replied Mr. Fox.

Pressed to tell if the Brewers' Association had not paid $25,000 at one time to the German-American Alliance, Mr. Fox said: "I might have true."

Going into the brewers' blacklist, Major Humes asked if the association had not, for years, maintained a boycott against concerns that opposed the liquor interests.

"There was no boycott," replied Mr. Fox. "We were simply engaged in what was practically a warfare. We had our business at stake, and we felt that we had a legitimate right to throw business to those who were friendly to us. That is why we had our list or concerns that were unfriendly."

Many Firms Blacklisted.

In the blacklist of concerns as produced by Major Humes were automobile firms and manufacturers of commodities of a varied character. Among the concerns were the Packard Motor Company, the Cadillac Company, the Reo Company, Procter & Gamble, soap manufacturers of Cincinnati; the Sherwin-Williams Company, paint manufacturers of Cleveland; the Grasselli Chemical Company of Cleveland, H. J. Heintz, the pickle manufacturer of Pittsburgh, and Rogers, Peet & Co., New York clothiers. The Western Union Telegraph Company was also on the blacklist.

"You had on your blacklist some of the biggest concerns in the country," commented Senator Overman. "The Cadillac Company, I see, is here, and also the Wanamaker Company."

"The Cadillac Company was actually the leader in the fight against us in their community," said Mr. Fox. "We felt that if they could try to put us out of business, we had a right to defend ourselves."

While the Packard Motor Company was once upon the blacklist, a letter from Mr. Fox showed that it had reinstated itself with the brewers.

"The Packard Company has made ample apology through President Joy. You had better drop the matter," wrote Mr. Fox to one of the officials of the Brewers' Association.

The Western Union Telegraph Company incurred the displeasure of the Brewers' Association, according to one letter, because it had "been unfriendly." Mr. Fox admitted that he had written a letter to Newcomb Carlton, President of the company, protesting against the attitude of the company in declining to employ others than total abstainers. In this letter Mr. Fox wrote that he approved of temperance, but could not recognize the right of the company to enforce absolute prohibition upon its employes.

The embargo against the Heinz Company, it developed, was due to the activities of Mr. Heinz, its President, in working with the Pennsylvania Sabbath School Association for prohibition.

A letter to Mr. Fox by one of the brewers told of his having withdrawn his patronage from Rogers Peet & Co. because it had assumed an unfair attitude toward the brewing interests. In reply to this Mr. Fox wrote:

After the Republic Rubber Company had been put on the blacklist it was restored to the good graces of the brewers, a letter from Mr. Fox reading that "we have had some wet meetings in their plant."

The Blackstone Hotel in Chicago had lost considerable patronage from the brewers, Major Humes told the committee, because it had obeyed the Sunday closing order. Mr. Fox explained that he had patronized the hotel and had been in sympathy with its complying with the dry order. But he felt that the management was in sympathy with the dry forces, and he, with others of the brewery interests, felt they might better turn their patronage elsewhere.

War on Billy Sunday.

One letter read by Major Humes indicated that Mr. Fox had tried to have Directors of the Grasselli Chemical Company of Cleveland ousted because of their activity in the Billy Sunday campaign. The County Judge in Cleveland refused to give licenses to saloon keepers because of the Billy Sunday campaign, according to the letter, and the brewers had suffered through it.

Patronage of the Lackawanna and Western Railroad was withdrawn by the brewers' interests, according to another letter, because of an order prohibiting trainmen from drinking any intoxicants. This order of the railroad, Major Humes explained, came after the Corning (N. Y.) wreck, in which fifty passengers were killed through a trainman being intoxicated.

John Gardner of Philadelphia, former president of the Pennsylvania State Brewers' Association and former Chairman of the Organization of Brewers of the United States—the latter of which was created to carry out the political activities of the brewers—admitted that the brewing interests had supported their own candidates in various states. Major Humes asked if the brewers did not get up their lists of candidates in nearly every election in the wet States.

"I do not know that they do," replied the witness. "But it is likely they did so in many elections. It would be natural to suppose they would support candidates friendly to their interests."

Asked as to the money spent by the brewers in advertising in newspapers and magazines, the witness said it might run to $50,000 a year.

"But we've been quiescent in the last year or so," he said. "There's been little money spent lately."

Spent Large Sums in Politics.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20, (Associated Press.)—Evidence relating to political activities of brewers and their alleged efforts to boycott firms and individuals antagonistic to the liquor business was adduced today before the Senate Committee investigating brewers' propaganda and the purchase of The Washington Times by Arthur Brisbane.

Major E. Lowry Humes, who is conducting the inquiry for the committee, brought out evidence of the political activities of the brewers when John Gardiner of Philadelphia, former Chairman of the Organization Committee, was called to the stand. The witness said he might have seen lists of candidates at different times from 1911 to 1914 which the Brewers' Association indorsed in some States, including Iowa, Texas, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and one candidate for Congress from Illinois, but he could not recall the details. He admitted that the Association's Organization Committee was active in "wet" and "dry" fights in several States in those years, and said that in that time it spent between $400,000 and $500,000 "doing all it legitimately could to arouse public sentiment in our favor."

Gardiner declared that the brewers made no contribution to political campaign committees, and at first denied that it had indorsed any set of candidates.

"Haven't you seen these lists of candidates to be supported by the Brewers' Association and the German-American Alliance that were sent out each year," asked Major Humes.

Records of the Brewers' Association, read by Major Humes, showed that in 1914 the Pennsylvania State Association collected $294,114 for political activity in that State and that in the following year $196,754 was collected for the same purpose. Gardiner said he did not think the amounts were as high as that, and explained that different State organizations raised various amounts, each brewery being assessed on the amount of its output in the "wet" and "dry" campaign. In Nebraska several years ago, he said, the assessment was 50 cents for each barrel of beer brewed. The "fight was lost," the witness added. In reply to questions he said the Pennsylvania State Association adopted the policy of destroying check stubs and canceled checks each month after its bank accounts were balanced. No minutes of its meetings were kept.

"Wasn't it because the activity of the Pennsylvania State Association was entirely political that you thought it best to adopt this policy?" asked Major Humes.

The witness denied this, saying that labor disputes which he desired to keep from the public led to the adoption of the policy.

DISCUSS POST-WAR STEPS.

Delegates to Rochester Convention Take Up Reconstruction.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The future of America's soldiers, sailors, and war workers after the end of hostilities in Europe is the great problem confronting the conference on reconstruction which began here today, under the auspices of the National Municipal League, the Council of National Defense, and other patriotic organizations. Discussions on this topic are to continue during the three days of the meeting, which ends Friday night.

Both in the papers and in the resultant discussions it was emphasized that the readjustment of America's manpower to the activities of peace was not the only matter for consideration, but that the thousands of women who had taken up industrial pursuits in wartime must also be reckoned with. It was felt that a particular solution perhaps lay in the fact that many of the men leaving the army and navy would refuse to return to the sedentary lives which they led before entering the service, thus leaving opportunities for women to continue their present work in offices and factories.

The extent of the military disaster which preceded the appeal of Austria for an armistice was indicated by figures made public by Edward A. Moree, representing the Italian Bureau of Public Information in New York City, in an address. According to these figures practically the whole Austrian Army, men and equipment, was in the hands of Italy before the armistice terms were signed.

WAR PLANTS MUST SHIFT.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 20.—The War Department will not countenance needless delay by plants now doing war work in replacing their military production with commercial work, manufacturers of Connecticut and Western Massachusetts were told at a meeting here today under the auspices of the Bridgeport district, Ordnance Department. Major Benjamin A. Franklin, Assistant District Chief, explained the situation and informed the manufacturers immediate action for new production must be taken.

Representatives of the plants working on ordnance contracts were told that the War Department would not pursue the policy of immediate cancellation of contracts, but each factory would be depended upon in a spirit of patriotism to co-operate in meeting the problems that now beset industry. Every manufacturer holding a war contract will be treated with absolute impartiality, it was explained.

"War babies," or plants which have been developed strictly for the manufacture of war materials, will have to find some new field of enterprise or disappear, it was announced.

ROOSEVELT THANKS PARIS.

Touched by Council's Condolence on the Death of His Son.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Henri Rousselle, Vice President of the Municipal Council of Paris, has made public the following message received from Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, replying to a cablegram of condolence on the death of Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt:

"I am profoundly touched by the cablegram you sent me in the name of the Municipal Council of Paris. I thank you for your sympathy. The death of our son is a bitter affliction, but this affliction would have been more bitter if our boy had not had an ardent desire to face death for such a noble cause. You will not forget that he was given the name of a French ancestor who left France 225 years ago."

French Honor Belgian Queen.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Official announcement was made today that the French Government had decided to confer the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor on Queen Elizabeth of Belgium. It was announced also that Prince Leopold, heir apparent to the throne of Belgium, would receive the War Cross.

WANT CURB KEPT ON CAPITAL ISSUES

WAR LOAN PLANS FOR 1919

Smaller Issues with Short Maturity —$8,000,000,000 in Bonds and $2,000,000,000 in Stamps.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Secretary McAdoo and members of the Capital Issues Committee today agreed that the committee should continue indefinitely its functions of supervising proposed issues of stocks and bonds for capital purposes, as a measure of rationing capital in preparation for future war loans. At the same time it became known that the Treasury plans tentatively to float about $8,000,000,000 more securities during 1919, and hopes to get at least $3,000,000,000 of this sum from war savings.

Despite the decision to continue the activity of the Capital Issues Committee in an effort to suppress fraudulent securities which promoters would seek to exchange for Liberty bonds held by small purchasers, considerable doubt over the future status of the committee still exists in the mind of Secretary McAdoo and other Treasury officials, it was said.

Some advocate that Congress be asked to give the committee compulsory power which it now lacks and without which it is feared it can not make its restrictions effective after the ardor of war-time co-operation among business interests has cooled. Others suggest that the functions of the committee be taken over by a Treasury agency, to which the President might delegate his power, conferred by the Fourth Liberty Bond act to regulate the sale of Liberty bonds. In this manner, it might be possible to require promoters who exchange their securities for Liberty bonds to report regularly the amounts of bonds thus taken in, and these reports, it is felt, might act as a restraining influence.

Members of the Capital Issues Committee, although expressing themselves as individually anxious to relinquish their duties, agreed to take up questions of relaxing their past strict regulations to permit the floating of bonds for public improvements by States, counties, and municipalities, and to facilitate the construction of buildings in regions where materials and labor are available without detracting from more essential Government projects. In other words, the committee now intends to work out a systematic program for permitting the financing of enterprises which will make up the slack in industrial and labor fields caused by cessation of war activities.

This policy, when formulated, will be set forth in a statement by the committee. This may be issued within a few days.

Special effort will be made to discourage the floating of questionable, or highly speculative, security issues, although without authority to coerce promoters. The committee must rely mainly on the co-operation of investment bankers and other banking interests whose leaders have assured the committee of support.

Another difficult problem of late war financing confronting the Treasury is the maintenance of the extensive war savings organization built up during the last year, with thousands of men and women giving their time to the movement without compensation. Many of these workers now wish to be relieved of their duties, but the Treasury is urging them to stay, both to aid in gathering $2,000,000,000 in the campaign of 1919 and in placing bonds.

Government war bond selling in the future will be along distinctly new lines. Bonds will have short maturities, and Secretary McAdoo explained today that by this is meant from three to seven or eight years. In addition, issues will be smaller than in the past, and probably will be marketed continuously. The 4¼ per cent. interest rate borne by the last two issues may be changed, depending on other terms of the securities.

Amounts of future issues, interest rates, and time of marketing cannot be determined definitely for another month or two, but the heavy oversubscription of the Fourth Liberty Loan, with a total of $6,989,047,000, or 16.48 per cent. more than the $6,000,000,000 sought, will enable the Treasury to postpone the next issue longer than otherwise. It still is expected by Spring.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's statement that future offerings of Liberty bonds would consist of short-term issues was received with much satisfaction in banking and investment quarters yesterday. Bankers, who have participated actively in the flotation of Liberty bonds said that the information from Washington relieved them of considerable suspense over the form the future financing would take, and predictions were made that Government offerings, maturing in five years or less from the date of issue, would be easily absorbed even though they ran into several billions of dollars and were brought on the market at a fairly rapid pace.

The stabilizing influence of the Treasury's plans on existing Liberty bonds was referred to as of great value. The Government has been paying 4¼

WAR FUND TOTAL IS $158,565,058

38 STATES "OVER THE TOP"

NEW YORK STILL GIVING

Cities Hold Down District Total Here, but Country Has Responded Generously.

Incomplete reports received up to yesterday at the National United War Work Campaign headquarters, 60 Vanderbilt Avenue, indicated that the nation is still $11,500,000 short of the $170,500,000 for the seven accredited civilian war work agencies. The national figures, for the most part, included State reports up to Tuesday night. The amount for the nation thus stood at $158,565,058. The campaign ended last night, and it was expected that a considerably increased total will result when all the late returns are in.

New York City is also behind in attaining its $35,000,000 quota. The indications at the close of the day's work yesterday were that when the reports of the teams and the industrial divisions are handed in at today's luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce, New York's quota will still lack from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

At the New York Campaign Headquarters, 680 Fifth Avenue, last night, the managers of the various divisions agreed that while the leaders and those working with them were still enthusiastic in their efforts, the public had failed to respond in a manner that would insure the collection of the minimum total of $35,000,000. The feeling, however, was that New York could not close the campaign until its full quota had been subscribed, and the leaders were unanimous in the determination to continue their efforts to that end.

What form this later effort will take will not be announced until it is known exactly what today's luncheon reports will produce.

Perkins Looks for Late Returns.

"It is impossible to give anything like accurate figures as the campaign draws to a close," George W. Perkins, Chairman of the Finance Department of the entire campaign, said last night. "Every town and county throughout the United States is rounding up its drive, and we shall hardly have accurate figures for forty-eight hours or more.

"As quickly as the figures are all in a statement showing the exact amount secured in each State in the Union will be made public. Scattering returns today are very satisfactory, but New York City, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, St. Louis, and other cities, as well as a large number of county committees, have not yet had their final meetings.

"New York, for instance, has its final meeting Thursday noon. The Philadelphia War Chest, which determines how much Philadelphia will give, has its meeting, we understand, Thursday forenoon. Pennsylvania, outside of Philadelphia, and New York State, outside of New York City, and Illinois, outside of Chicago, are all three well over their goals, and at this hour it looks as though the cities, when their work is finished and returns are in, will do equally well."

Thirty-eight States Over Top.

Thirty-eight States are over the top, however, and all the New England and the Southern States have a perfect record. Only the great metropolitan sections in the East are still lagging, and it is confidently expected that they will at least equal the showing of the rest of the country.

Every military department went over the top yesterday, except the Eastern, which includes New York, Pennsylvania, and States as far South as Virginia.

Hawaii, whose quota was $215,000, has raised $296,000, and Cuba, with an allotment of $100,000, has more than doubled that with $231,000.

Kansas City, Kan., has hung up a record with 150 per cent. of its allotment subscribed.

How the Cities Stood Yesterday.

New York	$27,763,978
Chicago	6,500,000
Boston	4,635,400
Buffalo	1,970,000
Los Angeles	1,150,000
San Francisco	1,062,000
Providence, R. I.	749,968
Louisville	647,350
Seattle	620,000
Portland, Ore.	475,000
Duluth	271,000
Spokane	140,000
Covington, Ky.	112,920

$250,000 by Sailors and Marines.

Rear Admiral T. J. Cowie, in charge of the campaign in the navy, telegraphed to headquarters last night that subscriptions from the bluejackets and marines, all voluntary, now totaled more than $250,000. Admiral Sims has cabled contributions from several vessels in European waters, while the marine detachment station at Pekin, China, has subscribed $65. The naval station at Solea Island, in mid-Pacific, has pledged $300.

Collection for the United War Work Campaign in Brooklyn yesterday fell far short of any previous day's record during the drive. About $1,695,345 of the $3,000,000 quota has been raised, but campaign managers expect last minute reports today to increase this figure.

At the headquarters of the Queens United War Work Campaign Committee in Long Island City, Richard S. Newcombe, Chairman of the committee, said last evening that he felt sure the borough would reach its quota of $800,000. He had received reports from a number of the districts, but more than half were yet to be heard from. The total figures at headquarters last night were about $500,000.

Six districts in Queens Borough up to last evening had gone over the top, returning total subscriptions of more than their quota. They were Elmhurst, $10,000; Winfield, $8,500; Corona, $7,000; Woodhaven, $12,000; College Point, $25,000; Flushing, $60,000.

Pershing Cables to Welfare Board.

Colonel Harry Cutler, Chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board, yesterday made public the following cable message from General John J. Pershing in response to a recent message of congratulation sent on behalf of the Jews of America to the victorious American Expeditionary Forces:

Colonel Harry Cutler, Chairman of the Jewish Welfare Board, United States Army and Navy, New York City.

The American Expeditionary Forces thank the Jewish Welfare Board for your cordial cablegram of congratulations, and returns to them best wishes.

PERSHING.

Big Industries and Corporations.

The industries of New York, which are expected to make up the greater part of the city's $35,000,000 quota, turned in $166,995.95 yesterday. Phelps, Dodge & Co., of which Cleveland H. Dodge, Treasurer of the New York campaign, is a Director, notified Judge Elbert H. Gary that they would assign $27,000 more of their entire $250,000 contribution to the credit of the New York fund. This left $23,000 distributed among towns in Arizona and New Mexico, where the plants of the concern are situated.

The Corn Products Refining Company gave an additional $50,000, making a total contribution of $100,000. The International Paper Company gave $25,000, of which $10,000 will be paid to the New York canvass. Of $100,000 from the Lackawanna Steel Company, $25,000 will go to the New York City fund.

Some of the largest contributors among the insurance companies have been the Great American Insurance Company, $40,000, and the Atlantic Mutual, $10,000.

Woman Gives a Week's Pay.

F. S. McVicor, manager of the Encyclopaedia Britannica Corporation, sent $386.70 with a letter, in which he said:

"This amount represents one day's salary for each of the employes in our office, together with the entire week's salary of one woman, who wished to donate one day's pay to each of the seven allied organizations."

Further contributions announced were $25,000 from the General Motors Corporation, $5,000 from the Manhattan Shirt Company, and $10,500 from Fleitmann & Co.

Department store contributions included B. Altman & Co., $28,500; Stern Brothers, $5,274.94; Best & Co., $3,128.03, and Gimbel Brothers, $2,500.

The Bank of New York gave $15,000, the General Equipment Company $5,000, and Bernard E. Pollak $2,500.

From Cloak and Suit Trade.

In the cloak, suit and skirt industry forty-two concerns gave $500 or over, and several gave $5,000 each, including Jacob Sperber, R. Sadowsky, National Cloak and Suit Company, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Rosenbaum, and Weinstein Brothers & Co.

Harry Kitzinger & Co. gave $3,100, Moyses & Dreyfus and H. B. Rubin $2,500 each, Joseph Durst $1,900, A. Portolis & Co., $1,750, Rubin Brothers $1,500, and Jacob Wertheim $1,600.

The following concerns contributed $1,000 each: Garment Salesmen's Association, Louis Weinstein & Co., E. B. Kline, Blauner Brothers Company, Superior Garment Company, Inc., Jacobus Brothers & Co., Inc., Zelenko & Moskowitis, Meyer Vessel, and Ritter Brothers.

$168,305 by Women's Division.

The Women's Organizations Division reported total contributions up to noon yesterday of $168,305.36. Among the larger contributions were the Woman's Union of Shearith Israel, $9,819; Art War Relief, $4,767; Women's Representatives of Ethical Culture Society, $14,999; Woman's City Club, $8,787; Woman's University Club, $10,517; Emmanuel Sisterhood, $10,756, and Junior Leagues, $7,724.

Other contributions were: The Y. W. C. A., $54,237; Shaaray Tefila Sisterhood, $2,721; Temple Israel, $3,241; Temple Ansche Chesed Sisterhood, $2,036; Brearley League, $1,948; Eastern Star, $2,436; Colonial Dames of America, $1,558; Sewing Circle for Hebrew Infants, $1,906; New York Council of Jewish Women, $1,030; New York City Woman Suffrage Party, $2,006; Red Cross Auxiliary, No. 158, $2,146; Recreation Rooms and Settlement, $3,755.

The Rebecca Assembly of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, which is the women's auxiliary of the lodge, announced that its State organization had donated $500 to the United War Work Campaign.

"Y" Plea Brought More Than $3,000.

The Junior League girls who, under the leadership of Mrs. R. J. McClelland, went the rounds of Fifth Avenue hotels and restaurants in the last ten days, sold more than $3,000 worth of "Y" pies for the benefit of the campaign.

Barnard College, with its 650 students, has contributed $12,534.15, thus surpassing the $5,000 quota by $7,534.15. The average donation per student was $20, so far the highest per capita amount of any college in the country.

The Catholic Girls' Club of the Church of Our Lady of Mercy opened a bazaar for the fund last night at Marion Avenue and Fordham Road, the Bronx. Several hundred manufacturers were asked to donate articles to the bazaar, which continues until Saturday night.

"Dare Devil" Schreyer made his last dive from a dizzy height across Broadway at Fifty-ninth Street for the benefit of the fund yesterday afternoon. A Salvation Army band played and a number of speakers exhorted the large crowd to give generously.

PERMITS WOMEN TO CROSS ATLANTIC

TOURISTS STILL BARRED

New Ruling Affects Only Those Desiring to Visit Relatives in the British Isles.

The British Consulate General at 44 Whitehall Street was directed yesterday by a cable dispatch from the Foreign Office in London to remove the restrictions, in existence since April, 1917, preventing women who are British subjects from crossing the ocean to England, Scotland, Ireland or Wales.

This did not apply, it was explained, to women who desired to visit Great Britain for sight-seeing purposes, but referred only to those desiring to see their families abroad. Voyagers will have to give fourteen days' notice to the United States immigration authorities at the Permit Office, after their passports have been visaed at the Consulate and also have the passports stamped at the Customs Intelligence Bureau in Room 129, Custom House.

Passenger agents of the various steamship lines said yesterday they did not expect that tourist travel to Europe would be permitted by the United States and allied Governments until 1920, because the steamships would be required for other purposes.

It is understood that the White Star and Cunard liners will begin immediately to bring back the 18,000 American troops stationed in the camps in England, and after that task has been accomplished they will call at Queenstown to convey Irish men and women to New York who have been waiting for nearly two years for a chance to return.

One of the best informed steerage passenger agents said yesterday that there were at the least 25,000 men and women waiting in Ireland to come over. A large percentage of these, he added, had been servants in hotels and private houses in this country and were visiting their relatives when the edict against permitting women to cross the Atlantic was put into force.

Will Provides for $500,000 Gift to Cornell University.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Cornell University will benefit to the extent of $500,000 under the will of Dr. Andrew D. White, former Ambassador to Germany, who died at Ithaca last week.

Dr. White's estate is valued at $900,000. He owned property valued at $500,000 in this city. The will divides this property into twenty equal parts devised to Cornell University as trustee. The income is to go to relatives in this city and upon the deaths of the legatees reverts to the university.

There is a bequest of $5,000 to Yale University and valuable paintings are given to the Syracuse Museum of Fine Arts. The remainder of the estate is divided among relatives here.

JUNE ELVIDGE MARRIES.

Screen Star Wed to Lieut. Frank C. Badgley, M. C.

The marriage is announced of Miss June Elvidge, the screen star, and Lieutenant Frank C. Badgley, M. C., who has been in charge of the photographic section of the British Bureau of Information in this city, which took place on Tuesday. The ceremony was performed by Magistrate Peter T. Barlow.

The bride has been in motion pictures for about three years, and her two best known pictures are "The Power and the Glory," and "A Woman of Redemption."

Lieutenant Badgley went overseas in 1914 with the First Canadian Expeditionary Force. He won the Military Cross at the battle of Courcelette, and afterward was invalided to this country after being wounded, shell shocked and gassed.

Miss Murphy is the daughter of Mr. Murphy's second wife, who was Mrs. Graham, and has recently adopted her stepfather's name. Senator Foley is 37 years old.

Westray Ensor Linen and Miss Eleanor Davis Anderson, both of East Orange, N. J., were married yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Church, that town, by the Rev. W. P. Taylor. Miss Fannie L. Moore was the bridesmaid and John Davis Anderson was the best man.

PROF. RICKETTS DEAD.

Professor Pierre de Peyster Ricketts, head of Ricketts, Inc., 80 Maiden Lane, mineralogical and mining engineers, and for thirty-four years at Columbia University as assayist and analytical chemist, died yesterday at his home, 115 East Seventy-ninth Street, of arteriosclerosis in his seventy-first year.

He was son of George Richard Ashe Ricketts and Catherine Adriana de Peyster Greene, and was born in Brooklyn. He was graduated at Columbia University in 1871, and later received his Ph. degree there. In 1876 he wrote a book entitled "Notes on Assaying," which was the first authoritative work on the subject, and was adopted in schools and colleges throughout the United States. He severed his connection with Columbia University in 1900, and devoted his time to mining and mineralogical industries.

EULOGIZE CAPT. GREENHUT.

Funeral services for Captain Joseph B. Greenhut, civil war veteran, and a merchant here for twenty years, who died at his home at 325 West End Avenue on Sunday, were held yesterday in the Temple Emanu-El. They were attended by many of his business associates and members of the G. A. R. here.

"Joseph B. Greenhut was a soldier—that is the outstanding factor of his life and no estimate of his career or character can be just unless based upon that fact," said the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman in his eulogy. "Even before he entered the army he gave evidence of soldierly traits. With undaunted courage and steadfast purpose he set out to make his mark in the world.

"All familiar with his career will agree that he was a self-made man. His only capital was reliance, courage, readiness to serve, willingness to work, industry, and thrift. From a very small beginning he rose by singleness of purpose and an understanding of the needs of the people, to a position of honor, importance, and authority in the business world. He was 100 per cent. American in thought, feeling, aspiration, and deed."

General George B. Loud, Past Department Commander of the G. A. R. in New York, spoke of the achievements of Captain Greenhut in the civil war, and laid upon his coffin a wreath and a flag sent by the Legion of Honor. The honorary pall bearers were Jacob H. Schiff, Henry Morgenthau, ex-Supreme Court Justice David Leventritt, Isador Saks, Charles Strauss, and Elias Summerfield. Burial was in Salem Fields Cemetery, Cypress Hills.

Four days ago Mr. Tumulty took a turn for the worse and his four sons, Phillip, Jr., Joseph P., Thomas, and Felix, and his daughter Ethel were summoned to his bedside.

He was born in the County Cavan, Ireland, and came to America when he was 9 years old and lived with his parents in Jersey City. At the age of 16 he joined the New Jersey Volunteers and was twice wounded in the civil war. He was a former member of the New Jersey Legislature.

$850 invested today in well secured bonds will pay fifty dollars per year for over thirty-five years, and in 1954, $1,000. In all for the $850 and interest there will have been received $2775

Net earnings of the company issuing these bonds are over twice the amount required to pay interest on all bonds outstanding.

The power furnished is of hydro-electric generation, employing water instead of steam. This not only lessens cost of production, but eliminates to a large extent the labor factor because of the few men required in the operation.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The more prominent developments of financial import yesterday were of a character to find reflection in the future activities of the security markets if not in current operations. In the copper industry it was apparent from the various items which came to light that producers were taking a lively interest in preparations being made abroad for purchases in this country, and were taking steps to perfect selling methods to meet concentrated buying. The Webb law which permits the combination between manufacturers and exporters for foreign trade appears to supply the machinery for use in the situation which must be faced in peace times, not only by the copper trade but also by steel producers and the producers of many other lines of goods. Sufficient progress has not yet been made to indicate the full course which the copper men are to follow, but it is significant of the active attention being paid to plans for the readjustment period of business and commerce that they are working on a definite program.

Some of the copper stocks were inclined to work lower, without, however, moving out of line with a number of industrial issues in which selling pressure developed. Comment in trading quarters indicated that talk of a lowering trend of prices for the metal in the near future had more immediate effect on quotations than a general survey of economic conditions. As far as could be learned there has been as yet little disposition among producers to consider prices under the established 26-cent level, and they would prefer to have the market controlled until the extent of the early peace demand may be sized up, and also the matter of wages at mine and refinery. The stock market as a whole was again irregular, with decidedly weak spots here and there. International Mercantile Marine preferred quite naturally reflected the Government's intervention in the company's plan to sell the British ships with an early decline of nearly 6 points, of which the greater part was recovered before the close. The passing of the quarterly scrip dividend on the Maxwell Motor Company's first preferred stock brought about a severe break in all of this company's stock issues. At the end of the day the price list was well divided between gains and losses.

Reviews of the iron and steel trades indicated a greater degree of confusion than was evident a week ago, a development which was hardly surprising. There have been substantial cancellations of Government orders in particular directions, and one encouraging thing was the information contained in The Iron Age that a wire-making concern which a week ago was engaged to its full capacity on Government orders had been able to turn its complete facilities almost immediately to commercial manufacturing. Further heavy cancellations are looked for, although it is not yet indicated that a complete program along this line is to be applied in the near future. As with copper so with steel, the price situation is becoming the subject of more intense discussion, both among producers and consumers. The weekly summaries of steel trade conditions showed a hopeful attitude in regard to the future buying of commercial steel, but it is not possible to determine at this early date whether private purchases will show an immediate and general stimulation while the price situation continues subject to arbitrary factors.

COPPER INTERESTS MAY FORM MERGER

Rumors That Action Will Be Taken Today to Meet New Conditions.

PRICE CUTTING FEARED

Reports current here that syndicates, formed for the purpose of purchasing copper in this country, were being organized in England, France, and Italy with a view to reducing competition it was said yesterday had convinced producers that something should be done toward establishing a merger of interests that would act as a protection for the American companies. Some definite action, it was said, might be taken at a meeting scheduled for this afternoon. In several quarters it was denied that such a meeting was under consideration, but one official high in the councils of the copper industry let it be known that the copper men were ready to look seriously into the question this afternoon.

It is understood, according to one official, that the syndicates formed abroad have the sanction of their Governments. It is felt here that there might be underbidding for trade were the copper producers not to stand together to maintain the price of copper. At present the price of copper is fixed at 26 cents by the authorities at Washington, and while price fixing remains in force the producers could not suffer appreciably. There would be even then, according to some estimates, a possibility of cut rates being offered to secure the foreign trade.

The merger is made possible by the Webb law, offered in Congress just before this country went into the war, but not passed until after war had been declared. This law allows a combination to control foreign trade, and in view of the situation abroad is considered as highly valuable for the stabilizing of the copper industry. An official of a copper company said yesterday that he thought such a community of interests would be desirable, and admitted that it had been talked about as a measure of protection, but he would not acknowledge that the plans were in more than a formative stage.

Last week a committee representing the copper interests conferred with the War Industries Board at Washington, and it was learned that the present price of copper would probably be maintained for some little time. The effect of a cut in prices, it was felt, would be reflected in the labor market to such an extent that it would be inadvisable to allow a change for this reason, even were there no others.

While the war was in active progress, with this country as one of the Allies, the purchasing of metal for European account was done through the Inter-allied Purchasing Bureau of the War Industries Board at Washington. Therefore the copper output to the extent of about 90 per cent. is now under the control of the Government. This was to have gone into the making of munitions and other war material, but with the canceling of contracts copper might be left on the hands of some companies which could be offered below the Government price of 26 cents. There were reports yesterday that some copper had already been sold by concerns which had an overabundance for about half a cent below the fixed price. It was pointed out yesterday that some of this copper might find its way to European markets at a lower rate than prevailed here.

MAXWELL PASSES DIVIDEND.

The Maxwell Motor Company yesterday passed the scrip dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the first preferred stock. Following the announcement of this fact the stock of the company suffered a sharp decline. The first preferred dropped 13⅛ points and closed at the low level of the day. The decline was also pronounced in the other shares of the company. The common stock was set back 7¼ points and the second preferred declined 5½ points.

"The work in which the company has been engaged, and which is occupying more than 80 per cent. of its capacity, has necessitated the carrying of a substantial inventory of raw materials with its corresponding obligations. Now that the war is approaching an end a substantial modification or revision of existing war orders is anticipated, which will necessitate liquidation by the company of its present inventories and a conversion of its manufacturing facilities from a war basis to a peace basis.

"How soon the liquidation and conversion can be effected cannot be foreseen or determined until the policy of the Government is more definitely established and announced. In the meantime, until the company has passed through the period of readjustment which is coming, it is the judgment of the directors that cash resources of the company should be conserved to meet unknown contingencies, and the dividend of the first preferred stock being accumulative, that the interest of the company will be better served and the interests of the first preferred stock holders as to the dividend equally protected by discontinuing the issue of a scrip dividend, which imposes on the company an obligation to pay same on a fixed date when the conditions which will then exist cannot now be foreseen."

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 6,875 packages. Supplies of high grades of fresh creamery are very short and prices advanced 1 cent, with a firm feeling at the close. Medium qualities are sharing in the improvement to some extent. Renovated steadier. Ladies slightly firmer. Packing stock ready. EGGS.—Receipts, 7,344 packages. The market shows no material change. Supplies of fresh-gathered eggs of desirable quality are no greater than needed at steady to firm prices, but the trade is active, buyers are rather critical, and the medium qualities, including the remaining stocks of held fresh, are moving slowly and rule slightly in buyers' favor. Storage eggs continue in strong demand. Good qualities sell promptly to the full extent of the prices permitted by the Food Administration rulings. Nearby white eggs are still in limited supply, but there are very few of fancy quality that show good size. These sell to the extent of the small receipts at fully sustained prices, but lots that are mixed with small eggs and that show shrinkage drag heavily at weak prices. Further moderate sales of the best California whites are reported at 83c, but there is no movement in the lower grades and value is nominal. City Island Bus Fare 20 Cents Now.

An opinion given yesterday by Public Service Commissioner Samuel H. Ordway, permits the City Island Motor Bus Company to charge 20 cents instead of the present fare of 15 cents. The buses operate between West Farms, the naval training station in Pelham Bay Park and City Island. Mr. Ordway stipulates that the company shall issue a six-trip ticket for one dollar. The company is believed operating on a very narrow financial margin, and Mr. Ordway found that it might be wiped out of existence by any accident which would involve any large expense.

BETTER FEELING SHOWN IN COTTON MARKET

There was a better feeling generally around the cotton ring yesterday, due to several factors of decided import to cotton values. Intimations reached the trade that additional freight room for shipment of cotton to Great Britain for the month of December, originally placed at about 150,000 bales, will be increased to 250,000 bales for the coming month, and that shipments can now be made against this month. The earlier shipment of the staple is an indication of the urgency of the need of cotton on the other side and will shortly be reflected in the enlarged export figures. The better feeling in Liverpool, evidenced by a firm and steady market there, likewise helped the market to show a better tone than that displayed in recent sessions.

The opening saw prices from 27 to 50 points higher for the active contracts, December leading at 27.40c, January 27.05c, March 26.55c, and May 26.35c. Later in the morning session the market went into lower ground on Southern hedge selling, but after the absorption the market held steady to firm.

The Census Bureau report on cotton ginned will be released today at 10 o'clock. The estimate of the National Ginners' Association is for a crop approximately 8,780,000 bales, the smallest for the last six seasons except 1912.

EXPECTS NO DROP IN TAXES.

Rates Likely to be Maintained for Some Time, Roper Asserts.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 20.—Daniel C. Roper, Internal Revenue Commissioner, in an address here today before the Business Men's Club of Cincinnati, said:

"We must expect present rates of taxation to be substantially maintained and reductions to be made only gradually from year to year."

For this reason, he explained, the Revenue Bureau is making special efforts to guard against tax dodging by a small percentage of taxpayers, through organization of a great corps of expert auditors at Washington and throughout the country to examine racefully the 4,000,000 income tax returns now awaiting audit. In some cases this involves the personal examination of taxpayers' account books and the ferreting out of information which persons seeking to evade taxes had tried to conceal.

Mr. Roper urged that taxpayers familiarize themselves with tax laws and regulations and try to keep adequate records as aids to both the Government and themselves in making returns and paying taxes.

New Securities Offered.

Two offerings of new securities were announced yesterday, one by the Guaranty Trust Company and the other by Halsey, Stuart & Co. The Guaranty Trust Company is putting out for public subscription today $7,000,000, of City of Philadelphia 4½ per cent. thirty year bonds at 104, to yield about 4.25 per cent. The bonds were bought a few days ago at slightly more than 102.8. Halsey, Stuart & Co. are offering Interborough Rapid Transit Company three year convertible 7 per cent. gold notes at a price to yield about 7.40 per cent. These notes are secured by the deposit of the company's first and refunding 5 per cent. bonds due in 1966 and are convertible at the holder's option so long as the notes are outstanding into first and refunding 5's at 87½.

CITIES SERVICE DIVIDEND.

Monthly Payments Declared on Preferred and Common Shares.

The Directors of the Cities Service Company, at their meeting held yesterday, declared the regular monthly cash dividend of 50 cents a share on the preferred stock and the common stock, and increased the monthly dividend on the common stock, payable in common stock at par, from ¾ of 1 per cent. monthly to 1 per cent. monthly, all these dividends being payable Feb. 1, 1919, to stock of record Jan. 15 next.

It was said that the action of the board indicated that the dividend on Cities Service Company common stock in 1919, payable in common stock at par, would be at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, instead of at the rate of 9 per cent., as in the current year.

Speakers at Bond Men's Luncheon.

The chief address at the monthly luncheon of the Bond Men's Club, to be held at the Bankers' Club this noon, will be delivered by Basil P. Blackett of the British Treasury, who has represented his Government in this country since July, 1917. Albert Tyck, an Alderman of the City of Antwerp, Belgium, when the Germans invaded his city, who also was at Louvain when the Germans destroyed that city, will speak on the internal conditions of the German Empire as it is today.

CUBA'S LOAN RECORD.

Subscribed $10,752,850 in Fourth Campaign—To Get Honor Flag.

Cuba showed its determination to help make the world safe for democracy by subscribing $10,752,850 to the Fourth Liberty Loan. A cable message giving the final results of the campaign there was received yesterday by A. J. Sheldon, Chairman of District 3, from W. A. Merchant, Chairman of the Cuban Liberty Loan Committee.

Mr. Merchant reported that enthusiasm had been unexcelled there and promised that Cuba would raise $15,000,000 for the next loan. At the outset of the campaign the Cuban Committee set itself a voluntary quota of $5,000,000, adopting as a slogan "A Million for Every Billion." It filled its quota early, but kept right on soliciting subscriptions.

President Menocal, besides subscribing $22,000 on his own account, was instrumental in raising almost $1,000,000 more by requesting that every sugar mill on the Island give an equivalent of ten cents for each bag of sugar of the last crop. The response was unanimous by the mill owners.

The Liberty Loan Committee will send a big honor flag to the Island Republic, and the American Minister will present it to President Menocal on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28, which for the first time is to be made a national holiday in Cuba.

MERGENTHALER REPORT.

The Mergenthaler Linotype Company for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 last reports net profits of $1,343,545, a decrease of $539,614 compared with the fiscal period of 1917. President Dodge, in his remarks to the stockholders, said that in spite of the adverse conditions caused by the war the net gain was slightly in excess of the amount required to pay the 10 per cent on the outstanding $12,500,000 stock distributed among more than 3,000 stockholders. The report showed that since its organization, the company had paid $10,113,220 in dividends, of which $12,962,181 was in extra or special dividends.

"Directly and indirectly," said President Dodge, "the company is the owner of extensive credits given to purchasers in foreign countries. It may be that substantial losses will occur in those sections in which the war has been actively conducted and where the governments have been disorganized. As to the future of your company, it is believed that with the termination of the war it will be relieved from the many restrictions now existing and that the opening of the seas will again develop foreign trade, that domestic business will increase and an era of prosperity follow the war, if past experience can be taken as a guide."

OCTOBER SHIPPING LOSS.

Totaled 93,000 Tons Out of 7,500,000 Engaged in Overseas Traffic.

LONDON, Nov. 20, (via Montreal.)—Allied and neutral shipping losses in October totalled 93,000 tons, the British Admiralty announces. The British losses amounted to 84,000 tons.

Sailings of steamships exceeding 500 tons between the United Kingdom and overseas ports, excluding cross-Channel traffic, exceeded 7,500,000 tons in October.

The British shipping losses in October were less than in any month since May, 1916, and probably lower than in any month since the beginning of the war, as the total for the month is less than the monthly average for the five months of 1914 and the years of 1915 and 1916. The British losses for September due to enemy action and marine risk were 151,503 tons.

Union Bag Surplus Is $712,581.

Union Bag and Paper Company, for the quarter ended Oct. 31, 1918, shows surplus after charges, but before deducting Federal taxes, of $712,581. This compares with surplus of $740,865 in the preceding quarter, and $724,280 in the corresponding quarter of 1917.

STILL CENSOR PARIS PAPERS

Blanks in Temps Represent Extracts from London Times.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—The censorship still is active in Paris. The Temps this afternoon appeared with four blank spaces representing about half a column.

The Temps explains that the matter censored consisted almost entirely of reproductions from The London Times which reached Paris yesterday.

Raincoat Contractor Acquitted.

Harry E. Lazarus, an army raincoat contractor, was acquitted yesterday by a jury in Judge A. N. Hand's part of the Federal District Court, of a charge that he had offered a bribe to a Government inspector. After the Government had rested, Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Mr. Lazarus, submitted the case to the jury without offering any evidence in defense. A verdict of not guilty was returned in less than an hour. The indictment had charged both bribery and sabotage in having supplied defective coats, but the sabotage charge was dismissed on Tuesday.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

There was a reactionary tendency to the market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. With the exception of one or two issues, notably Steel common, closing prices showed net losses, with a few securities unchanged. Trading was in moderate volume and professional in character, with speculative interest centred chiefly in the industrials. The rails attracted little attention and excepting Southern Pacific, which had a closing gain, the group was fractionally lower.

Veilings for Holiday Trade.

In former years the sale of veilings dropped off considerably during the month of December, but this year has proved an exception. In the department stores veils are being featured very extensively for Christmas gifts, whereas on former occasions they were set aside for other articles. During the influenza period the call for chiffon veils increased to a great extent. Since then the mesh line in all styles have been steadily in demand.

Gray Goods Sales Light.

Business continued light in the local gray goods market yesterday. Most first hands showed no desire to trade past the turn of the year at present prices and, with only small accumulations of odds and ends to get rid of, were not especially interested in what went on during the day. With second hands things were different so far as attempts to sell were concerned, but they apparently had little success. Some spot business was reported from this source on 38½-inch 60-48s at 12 cents but attempts to sell 64-60s in that width at 14½ cents for prompt shipment did not meet with much success. One report had it that some sales of this construction had been put through at 14¼ cents, which is 1¼ cents under the Government maximum.

Think Agreement Will Help.

A good deal of favorable comment was heard in the local cotton goods trade yesterday concerning the agreement of the members of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York not to permit arbitrary and unlawful canceling of merchandise contracts in the face of a declining market. Sentiment was everywhere in favor of this stand, and it was believed that because of it much of the uncertainty and financial trouble which followed the 1907 boom will be avoided. The high standing of the selling houses concerned in the movement, which do an annual business aggregating many millions of dollars, has given it considerable weight, and similar action in other trades is expected to follow. One question yet to be answered is now the converting trades will handle attempted cancellations by their customers.

Demand for Flags Is Brisk.

Of late manufacturers of flags have been operating their workrooms to the extreme limit in order to turn out enough goods to supply the needs of their customers. The demand in this line is far greater than the supply, and prices have advanced accordingly. Outside of American flags the call for those of other nations has been very large. Members of the trade feel that when the first lot of troops returns business will take another jump, and are laying their plans accordingly.

Placing Their Orders Early.

Can you re-bottle a Woman?

WHEN the men come back, the women will welcome them with open arms. But will they welcome them with open jobs? Will they hand over the positions in which they have "made good" during the men's absence? Will they hand over the nice fat pay envelopes they've enjoyed?

Helen Ring Robinson opens up some pretty exciting questions in this article. Can you re-bottle a woman? How can you pour all these women in industry back into their homes and put the cork in?

For the most interesting thing is not that women are turning lathes, working in munitions, making airplanes, building ships, but that they are reaching out for executive positions! Think what that means!

And what is to become of that old standby, the "sponge" woman? Will she be sunk without a trace, that pretty little parasite who contributes nothing?

How is the adjustment to be made, what of the home, how do women themselves regard it? Helen Ring Robinson has some very pertinent glimpses of woman and her position in the new world after the war in "Releasing Women for the Top."

The man who jumped into the sea

BY ISRAEL SOLON

After the solitary life boat, already overcrowded with men and women.

Then from the water came the proposal, "Sell me a place, one of you—I'll pay you well for it."

Who was this man that another, a man with wife and children, jumped into the sea in his place? This is one of the strangest stories of the war that has come to light.

The kind of wife he had

He was sick of it. Sick of the same meals, the same office, the same wife. He went to New York.

What women his friend's wife and sister-in-law were! He'd been a fool to marry the first girl that came along. Eagerly he saw more of the wonderful women. And then it happened!

A scream—a woman's scream cut suddenly through the thick darkness of that house. When he got back to his hotel he knew! Don't miss this illuminating story of the crisis in a man's life—"Just Plain Wife" by William Dudley Pelley.

Christmas color pages for the children

These are Arthur I. Keller's "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "There's a Long, Long Trail Awinding," and S. J. Woolf's wonderful and poignant "His Soul Goes Marching On". In the ruins of an old church at Rambecourt, destroyed by the Germans, this great American artist secured his inspiration for this masterpiece.
